Doctors file for recognition as labor union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors serving as interns and residents at major hospitals took a major step Saturday toward forming a union that would use strikes and other collective bargaining tactics to improve their wages and working conditions.

A spokesman for the Physicians National Housestaff Association, representing some 18,000 doctors, said 100 delegates had voted unanimously to file for recognition as a national labor union with the Department of Labor.

Consolidation of the loosely knit organization into an independent nationwide labor union for doctors would enable the national headquarters to better assist locals in organizing, collective bargaining and in processing grievances with the National Labor Relations Board, according to its president, Dr. Robert G. Harmon, 31, of Elkridge, Md.

The association, representing interns, residents and fellows on the staffs of teaching hospitals in 27 states, already has petitioned the NLRB to bring the nation's housestaff physicians under the National Labor Relations Act, a step that would give them legal protection while they work to form bargaining units.

Harmon said that, although the association is interested in increasing wages, its primary goal is to improve working conditions and patient care. He said interns average about $10,500 a year and in many cases often work from 90 to 110 hours a week, sometimes 60 hours straight.

"While many Americans have gained their impressions of hospital care by swallowing sugary placebos of Marcus Welby, the reality is that young housestaff doctors have found that collective bargaining and, in some cases strikes, have been the only way they could force hospitals to provide such basic items as electrocardiogram machines that work, usable emergency equipment ... and enough nurses to cover intensive care wards," he said.

Two association chapters were involved in strikes earlier this year.

In March, the 2,300-member Committee of Interns and Residents struck 23 hospitals in New York City and won a reduction in their work week from 110 hours to 80.

The 1,200-member Joint Council of Interns and Residents of Los Angeles County walked out at three hospitals in May in a dispute that won the doctors a wage increase and the establishment of a fund jointly administered by the doctors and the county to improve patient care.

The Chicago chapter currently is involved in negotiations with Cook County Hospital, where job actions have been threatened.

Was Patty forcibly drugged?

BOSTON (AP) — Patricia Hearst was "drugged by force" and is "not capable of standing trial or assisting in her own defense," one of her attorneys says.

Albert Johnson said in an interview in Sunday editions of the Boston Sunday Herald Advertiser. Miss Hearst "shows no acute distress and she doesn't hallucinate, but she's confused by questions which have anything to do with time span."

Johnson is a partner of F. Lee Bailey, who recently took charge of the Hearst defense, and was part of a defense team that spent 70 hours with Miss Hearst since her capture.

Johnson said Miss Hearst was brainwashed by her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers and was "drugged by force."

"In my opinion, she doesn't understand the enormity of the problem or the charges against her," he said.

"I base this on the fact that she was never a problem to either her family or her friends before she was kidnaped, nor did she express any (revolutionary) views before that."

Miss Hearst, a kidnap victim who later said she had joined her Symbionese Liberation Army abductors, is currently undergoing psychiatric examination to determine whether she can stand trial on federal charges including bank robbery and weapons violations. She also faces state charges including kidnaping.

Bailey, in Boston on Saturday to address a trial lawyers association, said Miss Hearst is "obviously not in a normal state of mind."

Escapees from Illinois prison

Five convicts hunted

MARION, Ill. (AP) — A dragnet of police and federal agents hunted Saturday for five convicts who opened the gates of the federal government's top-security penitentiary with an electronic gadget made in a prison shop course.

Warden Charles Fenton of Marion Federal Penitentiary said the five were last seen at 8 p.m. Friday running out the front door of the prison and into the darkened, pine-dotted hills nearby. He said a car probably was waiting for them.

Guards, blocked by two unopened gates, were unable to chase the convicts immediately and could not pick up the trail in the darkness.

"Once you get over the hill it's black — very black," a prison official said.

The breakout began while the convicts were attending a history lecture. Instructor Loren Dees was overpowered after being lured into a back room by an inmate complaining of a cut finger. The five took the teacher's keys to the main corridor and fled.

Five barred gates separate the main part of the prison from the front door, but by using keys taken from the teacher the five were able to enter the corridor beyond the first two gates. Then they brought out their electronic gadget.

The device, similar to an electronic garage door opener, was built in a shop class by inmate Edward P. Roche, 39, of Katonah, N.Y., serving 39 years for two bank robberies, Fenton said. He said Roche evidently obtained technical publications describing the workings of the softball-size signaler, which emits an audible beep.

"For all I know it's in Popular Mechanics," the warden declared.

He said later that a receiver controlling the gates was apparently installed during recent repair work and that the handheld device was a transmitter that activated the receiver and opened the gates.

Fenton said a breakout alarm was sounded "instantaneously" by a guard watching the corridor on a television monitor. Before the men were out of the building, he said, Dees had kicked his way out of the back room.

Guards reached the main cooridor in time to see the five inmates scrambling through the last gate but could not follow because they do not carry the electronic devices needed to open the gates.

N.Y. musicians reach tentative agreement

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway musicians, who had forced the darkening of stage musicals with a strike that began 24 days ago, reached tentative agreement on a new contract Saturday night.

Mayor Abraham D. Beame announced the tentative settlement at Gracie Mansion. Details of the proposed new contract were withheld pending ratification by both sides.

The musicians' union and the association of theater owners and producers were to consider the proposal tonight.

The labor dispute included disagreement over wages in a new contract and the size of pit orchestras.

Beame congratulated both sides and praised the chief state mediator for resolving the "toughest strike he has had."

The mayor said he hoped all shows suspended by the strike would reopen Monday. Among them are "The Wiz," "Candide" and "A Chorus Line."

"I hope to resume collecting taxes for the city," the mayor said amid general laughter. "I hope, on Monday."

Beame had summoned representatives of Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians and the League of New York Theaters and Producers to Gracie Mansion for another negotiating session.

Ford's tax cut plan challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressmen are being advised to tell their constituents that President Ford's proposal for a $28-billion tax cut matched by a $28-billion spending reduction is phony and designed to help his election campaign.

This is a major theme of two documents distributed to Democratic House members, one by the Democratic Policy Committee's information task force and the other by the party whip's office.

"He wants the tax cut to begin in January 1976, the $28 billion reduction in government programs would not begin until October 1976," the task force said.

"Thus for the entire period of the election campaign he would offer voters a tax reduction plus the government programs.

"But as soon as they vote, the programs would be cut off ...

"The phoniness of this approach is fairly obvious."

The whip's "issue paper" called Ford's proposal "a pig in a poke whose full effects wouldn't be known until after the 1976 election."

"The important thing is putting people back to work," the paper continued. "It makes no sense to have them hired in 1976 and fired in 1977."

The task force analysis was distributed to Democratic congressmen before their recess began with the notation that "you might find (this) useful ... in discussions with your constituents."

The whip paper was cast in the form of "response to questions that members may be asked."

Both apparently reflect concern among Democrats that Ford may have hit on a proposal that would appeal to Americans worried about their own budgets.

Ford proposed holding the spending ceiling to $395 billion for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1976. In exchange, the $22.9 billion in tax cuts enacted last year would be extended and further tax cuts would be started. A family of four making $15,000 could reduce its taxes by $287 more in 1976 than it can this year, for instance.

Ford said in his news conference Thursday that his reading of opinion polls convinces him "there is a general consensus that federal spending ought to be controlled, and I believe there is a strong feeling that the federal government should take less out of the taxpayer's pocket so the taxpayer can spend it himself."

Reflecting Ford's confidence, the House Republican Policy Committee has put out no material on the tax-economy proposals. An aide said it is resting on the President's statements and Treasury explanations.

As for the contention that the timing of the program is geared to the 1976 election, the aide said, "as the President told us, if they want to start the spending cuts earlier, he will be glad to cooperate."

New 'dialogue' national goal

PARIS (AP) — Representatives of industrial and developing nations meet Monday to start work on a new world economic relationship to provide stability for the rich and a bigger share of the cake for the poor. The goal may take years to achieve.

Conceived by France to resolve to energy crisis, the "North-South dialogue" has been enlarged to include other raw materials, world financial problems and development. The procedure now outlined precludes quick action on oil prices and supplies, the West's most urgent concern in the talks.

Ultimately, if the dialogue is successful, the industrialized nations will be assured continuing access to raw materials including oil at agreed prices, and the poor nations will be guaranteed an adequate return and a channeling of technological aid to help them catch up with the rich nations.

Monday's session brings together 10 participants for two or three days to agree on an agenda for a larger conference to be held in December. French officials say the conference will be the first practical attempt to follow up the resolutions of last month's U.N. General Assembly special session on development, even though there is no direct link between the two.

Demos propose new convention rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seeking to avoid some of the squabbles that marred the last two Democratic nominating conventions, party leaders hope to win approval of new convention rules this week.

The proposed rules for the convention next July 12 in New York City come before the party's executive committee today and Monday and then go to the 361-member Democratic National Committtee on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The major battles over the rules are expected to revolve around proposals:

—To narrow the grounds for challenging the right of delegates to participate, known as credentials challenges.

—And to make it harder for the minority of a committee to bring its report to the floor of the convention.

Some reform groups are expected to oppose these changes, fearing they will increase the power of the regular party organizations.

The proposals mark the end of a three-year effort to avoid last-minute controversies at the convention by making the rules both clear and broadly acceptable.

Rockefeller urges quick action to help N.Y. City

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller urged Congress on Saturday to move swiftly to help New York City as soon as a solid base for budgetary and fiscal integrity is reestablished here.

Rockefeller said that President Ford does not have the legal authority to act and speeding aid to avoid default will be up to the Democratic-controlled Congress.

"Time is of the essence and the resolution of this immediate New York City situation is crucial," the vice president said in a speech prepared for a Columbus Day dinner here.

"After the Emergency Financial Control Board and New York City have acted to restore fiscal integrity, it will be a true test of the responsiveness of our congressional system as to whether the Congress can act in time to avoid a catastrophe."

Ford told his news conference Thursday that he had not yet seen any congressional plan he would sign, but he refrained from threatening to veto one.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon has downgraded any effect a New York City default would have on the rest of the nation and has talked of giving aid only on punitive terms because of what he called fiscal irresponsibility by the city in the past.

Rockefeller predicted that Gov. Hugh L. Carey, Mayor Abraham D. Beame and members of the board would have to make "politically unpopular decisions to restore fiscal soundness to New York City."

The deadline of Oct. 15 has been set by the control board for the city to come up with a financial plan that will end deficit financing by June 30, 1978.

"It is important that we not lose sight of the burden carried by New York and the other cities of the nation as they have sought to respond to human needs pressed upon them," Rockefeller said. "It is equally important that these past responses be viewed in the context of their times — times when we were being told we were an affluent society with unlimited resources that could abolish poverty by statutory fiat.

"The plight of our cities requires special attention and emphasis. This nation has too long ignored the basics for urban living — the need for an infrastructure that provides a climate for real jobs, for business, for the economic health and the social well-being of the urban areas of America where most of our people now live," the vice president said.

Pomonan jailed after reported hammer beating

A 37-year-old Pomona man has been jailed by police in the aftermath of a vicious hammer beating allegedly inflicted on another man.

James Henry Jones of 771 W. Fourth St. was charged with assault with intent to commit murder after the beating of Louis D. Ellis, who lives at the same address.

Police said the victim and suspect had had an argument several weeks ago, and the beating was an outgrowth of the earlier tussle.

Officers indicated the suspect was drinking and without warning, attacked Ellis with a hammer, Friday night. Jones claimed Ellis had pulled a knife on him, police said.

Ellis was struck in the head, elbow and cheek. He suffered a broken elbow and cheekbone and other lacerations. He was reported in fair condition Saturday at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

In another incident Friday night, James Wiley, 43, of Pomona, was arrested in connection with the shooting of Melvin Todd, 17, 1005 Del Norde St., Pomona.

Wiley, of 2463 Merrywood St., became involved in an argument outside his home over "passes" Todd was allegedly making toward Wiley's wife, police said.

The victim allegedly pulled a knife from his pocket, but the suspect drew a .22 caliber revolver, shooting the victim in the shoulder. Todd started to run, and was shot at two more times, but was not hit.

Todd was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Site of hunt for kidnapers now in Dublin

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The hunt for the kidnapers of a Dutch industrialist switched Saturday from rural Limerick to Dublin. The Irish government reaffirmed its stand that it will not give into the kidnapers' demands for the release of three prisoners.

Foreign Minister Dr. Garret Fitzgerald said giving in to such pressure and releasing the prisoners would only open the way to more kidnapings and put Ireland's prospects for attracting foreign industry in even greater danger.

Tiede Herrema, head of the Dutch-owned Ferenka Steel Co. in Limerick, was kidnaped near his home nine days ago and reportedly was being kept bound hand and foot, blindfolded, gagged and with his ears plugged in the gang's hideout.

His kidnapers demanded the release of three Irish Republican Army — IRA — guerrillas from jails in Ireland, but there have been reports they are willing to settle for the release of just one, Bridget Rose Dugdale, and flight out of Ireland.

Police in Dublin appealed to landlords and anyone who rented out houses or flats to provide them with information on tenants who moved in and out over the past six months.

There were also reports of police activity at airports near Limerick, including the large Shannon International Airport.

Chino opens new recreation center after remodeling job

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

The old GI Cafe never looked better.

The beer bar was officially converted into a recreation center for Chino youths during a grand opening ceremony Saturday at Fifth and D Streets.

State Sen. Ruben Ayala, who was born three blocks from the new Neighborhood Community Center, was an honored guest at the ceremony.

"I didn't think this building would be anything other than what it formerly was used for," he told a group of civic-minded persons gathered inside the small structure. "This certainly is an improvement."

Parks and Recreation Director Jack Anderson indicated the former GI Cafe, which had been vacant for several years, was a "hangout" for local youths. Some of them were members of the Chino Sinners, a barrio gang.

"GIs were petitioned after World War II after the owner couldn't get a license," Anderson said. "They all signed petitions, the owner got his license, and they called it the GI Cafe."

City and community officials made it clear Saturday, however, that from now on it will be the Neighborhood Community Center. Prime purpose of the center spawned by the Community Acition Council, is to keep barrio youths off the street and thus hold down gang violence.

The center will offer games such as pool, ping pong, handball, soccer and other outdoor games. Also parties and trips will be sponsored for youngsters.

Ayala said the center holds promise for the barrio. He said he always hears the negative side of Chino, but "we have the positive right here." Many boys coming from the area have gone on to become professional and civic leaders, he added.

He presented a proclamation commending persons responsible for making the center a reality.

Chino Mayor Bob McLeod gave credit to the Community Action Council which first proposed the center. "They saw this through to completion—we (the city) didn't conceive this idea."

Funding for the center, about $26,000, was provided by the City of Chino, the Chino School District, and the Recreation Commission.

"There is a good feeling today," added Anderson. "These people have done a great thing."

Also attending the ceremony were Assemblyman William McVittie, D-65th Dist., Chino City Council members Eileen Carter and Angel Martinez, School Board President Augustine Tapia, Planning Commission chairman Pete Garcia, City Manager Bob Fast, and The Rev. Manuel Guillen, pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church.

Nick Medina, CAC member, was master of ceremonies. Luis Monsivais received a "Citizen of the Month" award during the ceremony, CAC president Martin Salgado also spoke.

State employes call for raises

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California State Employees' Association opened its 45th annual convention Saturday with a call for cost-of-living raises twice a year.

The labor organization's board of directors passed the resolution at a pre-convention session Friday night.

The board said Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. may be planning "next to nothing" for state workers' pay raises next year and might make them negotiate from "ground zero."

Gov. Brown was scheduled to address the General Council on Monday, the last day of the three-day meeting for the 110,000-member organization. A spokesman said he would be the first California governor to appear at the convention since his father, former Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Major earthquake hits sparsely-populated islands in Pacific

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major earthquake struck the New Hebrides Islands region of the southwest Pacific Ocean Saturday and another tremor rocked the ocean floor off Acapulco in the eastern Pacific.

The U.S. Geological Survey reported the New Hebrides earthquake occurred about 10:36 a.m. EDT and registered about 7.8 on the Richter Scale, according to the survey's Earthquake Information Center.

"This is a sparsely populated area and no damage or injuries are expected," said spokesman Waverly Person of the center in Golden, Colo. "We have no reports of any wave activity at this time."

Person said an earthquake with an magnitude of 7.2 occurred in the same area Oct. 6. Several lesser tremors were reported in southern Mexico the same day.

Yet another quake occurred 3,000 miles north of Chile on Oct. 7, possibly in the Pacific near Central America or Mexico, said the Chilean Seismological Institute.

Saturday, the second earth tremor was recorded by Mexican seismologists as being some 245 miles southwest of Mexico City.

The ground movement was recorded at 8:42 a.m. (10:42 a.m. EDT) at an intensity of 5.5 on the Richter scale, University of Mexico officials reported.

A straight line 245 miles southwest of Mexico City would put the tremor in the Pacific Ocean off the resort town of Acapulco.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number, say from magnitude 5.5 to magnitude 6.5, means the ground motion is 10 times greater. Some experts say the actual amount of energy released may be 30 times greater.

In populated areas, an earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 can cause moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 can be severe. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of heavy damage; 8 is a "great" earthquake, capable of tremendous damage.

Peace in Beirut shattered as three die in sniper fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A leader of the Christian Phalange party was killed by a sniper in a Moslem district Saturday as he and other Christian and Moslem leaders met in Beirut for a peace march, the state radio said.

Two other persons were also reported killed by sniper fire.

Phalangists claimed Pierre Mazraani was kidnaped by Moslem gunmen and murdered, and the announcement of his death sparked brief gun battles in several Beirut suburbs.

But the state radio reported Mazraani was slain by a sniper and that urgent efforts were under way to contain the incident and preserve the peace that had begun to settle over the embattled city.

The shooting highlighted the continuing tension in Beirut as Moslem, Christian and Palestine guerrilla leaders met at the border of Moslem Chiyah and the Christian area of Ein Rummaneh — site of some of the toughest clashes in Lebanon's bloody sectarian war — in a public demonstration of cooperation.

The leaders watched army bulldozers pull down walls of sandbags. In the group were Danny Chamoun, son of Interior Minister Camille Chamoun and a top Christian leader; Moslem religious leader Sheik Mohamed Yacoub and Abu Hassan, security chief of the Palestine guerrilla movement.

Chamoun and Sheik Yacoub then visited the opposing districts and were joined in a march by crowds of families, many of whom had been trapped in their homes for weeks during heavy fighting. The crowd clapped and shouted: "We want peace." Some Moslem and Christian gunmen embraced.

Portugal government promised support

No plan offered to stop violence

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's supreme military leadership promised Saturday to support the moderate government but offered no plan to stop the spiralling political violence. More than 120 injuries were reported in partisan clashes the past four days.

Meeting while political factions fought with pistols, grenades and paving stones in Oporto early Saturday, the all-military Revolutionary Council restated its backing for the cabinet of Premier Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo while avoiding any commitment to tough action.

The council's side-stepping of how it would deal with what a wide spectrum of Portuguese political parties has called a precivil war situation left tension running high.

In Oporto, where hospital authorities reported 60 persons were injured in clashes broken up by troops, a mutiny against the central government by leftist soldiers at an artillery garrison went into its fifth day, still unchallenged.

Associated Press newsman William Lyon reported all military patrols were off the streets in Portugal's second city, 175 miles north of Lisbon. He said it was an atmosphere in which all authority appeared absent.

Referring to the fighting between centrists and leftists, the council said it saw "a clear manipulation of progressive political groups by the extreme right with the aim of ousting the sixth government and leading, quickly and easily, to new Fascist forms."

In Saturday's fighting, members of various political parties appeared mixed into confrontations between two leftist splinter groups — the Movement for the Reorganization of the Proletarian Party — MRPP — and the Popular Democratic Union — UDP. The MRPP had accused the UDP of killing one of its militants on Thursday in Lisbon.

Douglas' health top concern of Supreme Court

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, crippled by a stroke, will be 77 on Thursday, and his health has emerged as a major concern of the court's 1975-76 term.

There are still no clear answers to the questions about his health, but one week into Douglas's 37th term on the bench, a few clues have emerged.

Although Douglas refused an interview, conversations with persons who have been associated with him, and observation of his public appearances, yielded this picture:

—He looks better, more animated, than he did in his few days at the court last term after his Dec. 31 stroke.

—Always quiet, he has apparently lapsed into complete silence on the bench.

—He once had to go lie down at 10 a.m., missing arguments in a case.

—Off the bench, he is capable of pertinent observations and searching questions — and of long silences and occasional irrelevancies.

What does all this mean for his future on the court?

He has said he will remain as long as he finds the work challenging. His colleagues are not commenting.

Former Justice Arthur J. Goldberg thinks it is simply too early to say how he is progressing.

"I think Justice Douglas is entitled to a reasonable length of time in which to establish whether he has been inhibited in his judicial performance," Goldberg said in an interview.

"I don't think enough time has elapsed for such a judgment to be made."

A random check of persons who have been in court during Douglas's 11 hours on the bench this session turned up none who had heard him ask a question.

Douglas moves around the court building in a wheelchair. His left side is paralyzed. To hear arguments, he is lifted into his customary caster-equipped padded chair and pushed up a ramp to the bench.

The justices' chairs are equipped with rockers, but Douglas does not rock. He occasionally leans forward, he studies papers in front of him, he whispers instructions to court attendants, he occasionally nods or smiles in response to a whispered aside from Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

At the end of a session, after all rise in the courtroom, the other justices walk out and Douglas is left facing the standing crowd until he is wheeled back down the ramp.

It does not seem to bother him. A source who has been close to him, however, got the impression that the justice, a hardy outdoorsman for most of life, is pained by public exposure of his frailty.

At a hearing he held in Yakima, Wash., in September, the court was cleared so that he could be lifted to and from his seat at the bench.

That was the hearing at which Douglas proposed a 12:30 p.m. recess when it was actually 1 p.m. already. This led to suggestions that the justice's mental alertness was flagging. An observer who was in the courtroom offered another explanation: from where Douglas sat, he could see a clock which was out of order. It showed the time as 11:30 a.m.

After the recess, Douglas puzzled attorneys and newsmen by sitting silently for 9½ minutes before announcing his decision. Some suggested he was pondering. Before entering the courtroom, however, he had been on the telephone to his office in Washington, apparently dictating his order, in which case he must have already made up his mind. The long silence was unexplained.

In one of its first orders of the new term, the full court overturned Douglas' decision. Some have asked if this was a signal of his colleagues' attitude toward him. However, such a reversal by the court is not exceptional.

Out of 678 other decisions announced by the court the same day, not counting routine procedural motions, Douglas participated in all but one. He dissented from 24. He took part in the justices' decision-making conference again on Friday.

Observers have described Douglas as alternately operating at his old pace and slowed down from it.

One person who has seen Douglas at work told of his spending about half an hour on one page of a summary of petitions to the court, then flipping through the remaining pages with the speed that has helped make him legendary.

Last term he heard arguments only four days after his stroke, although he took part in deciding many cases which he did not hear.

Douglas' insistence on staying on the bench has inevitably led to speculation that he does not want to allow President Ford, who once tried to impeach him, to name his successor.

One friend of the justice has indicated he believes this is a factor in his thinking. Douglas has denied it, however, and Goldberg backs him up on this.

"I am sure if he felt incapable of continuing he would resign regardless of who would appoint his successor," the former justice said.

"I'm sure he feels he can do it."

Panamanian ship sinks after mutiny

MIAMI (AP) — A Panamanian cargo ship sank in the Caribbean on Saturday after an apparent bloody mutiny involving the nine crew members and officers, the U.S. Coast Guard reported.

The ship Mimi's five crewmen, four Indonesian seamen and a Filipino cook, were rescued after setting adrift in a life raft but the vessel's four German officers were reported missing, the Coast Guard said.

Spokesman Steve Frazier in Miami said a Coast Guard airplane spotted the five crewmen about 215 miles south of Miami.

"By the time our plane arrived on the scene, there was only debris left" from the ship itself, he said.

The Coast Guard plane diverted a German merchant ship, the Lalli, to rescue the five crew members, Frazier said. The rescued men told the Lalli's officers they did not know what caused their ship's demise.

"The first word of a mutiny came from a high seas operator in Jacksonville late Friday night," Frazier said. "The Coast Guard was told that an excited radio operator aboard an unknown vessel that gave coordinates matching where the Mimi sank reported a mutiny on board."

The report, cut off in mid-transmission, added: "There are men fighting. The captain is dead. Please send help ... SOS."

The Mimi, a 220-foot cargo ship owned by Intercontinental Properties Management of Panama City was en route to Georgetown, Guyana, from Tampa, Fla., with a load of fertilizer, the Coast Guard said.

U.S. agent for the ship was listed as W. G. Browning of Norfolk, Va.

Frazier said the possible legal questions arising from the radio reports had been turned over to the U.S. State Department. "I understand that the State Department is trying to contact the Panamanian consul," he said.

Teenage boy found to be legally dead

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Randal Carmen, kept alive by machines for nearly three weeks after doctors said his brain had died, was declared legally dead Saturday.

But the controversy over use of life support machines to keep the body breathing and blood circulating remained very much alive.

Randal's father, Richard Carmen of Wellington, said he has asked his attorney to pursue the possibility of legal action.

He said he and his wife would like to spare others from "going through what we've been through."

Elyria Memorial Hospital, which had refused the request from Carmen and his wife to end life supports and let their son "die mercifully," said Randal died at 2:55 a.m. Saturday.

"His heart finally gave out," said Carmen. "It was on the machine. But the heart can take only so much from the machine."

Randal lapsed into a coma Sept. 21 after being struck in the head during a neighborhood football game.

"The brain was dead. He had no brain whatsoever," Carmen said. "Clergymen, doctors, ... almost everyone I talked to agreed that where there is no brain pattern, the patient is dead."

But hospital administrator James C. Brown said, "We do everything in our power to maintain life saving procedures regardless of the condition of the patient."

RANDAL CARMEN

Carmen's attorney, Joseph J. Cirigliano, said that with Randal's death the issue appeared to be "a moot point as far as the parents are concerned, but if there is some kind of action that could be sustained in the courts, I'm authorized to go ahead with it."

Carmen and his wife said Friday that in view of their son's rapidly deteriorating condition they would not press legal action at that time. However, Cirigliano said they changed their position after a lengthy family conference Friday night.

Black Africans fear nuclear arms race

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Black African leaders say they fear their continent may be on the verge of a nuclear arms race between antagonistic racial blocs with the atomic know-how provided by West German companies.

Dr. Bolaji Akinyemi, Nigeria's chief delegate to a foreign policy symposium here last week, said the Africans were worried that West German firms were passing on potentially dangerous atomic knowledge to white-ruled South Africa — with or without official support.

He said economically more advanced black states may also try to acquire nuclear knowhow if the apartheid regime develops technology putting the A-bomb within reach. Akinyemi is head of the Lagos government's Institute for International Affairs.

His concern was publicly echoed at a news conference Friday by speakers from Tanzania, Sudan and Ghana. Kenyans and other black diplomats attending as observers said they privately shared Akinyemi's fears.

The controversy was sparked by a black liberation front's publication of what it said were top-secret documents stolen from the South African Embassy in Bonn.

The African National Congress of South Africa (ANC) said the papers prove that senior German officials have backed known plans by German concerns to supply reactors to South Africa and help it build a uranium enrichment plant by the mid-80's. Enrichment is the last step before developing a bomb.

The West German government rejected as "absurd" ANC charges that it conspired to give South Africa the A-bomb and said it will not authorize exports of enrichment technology to South Africa. Neither Bonn nor South Africa has denied the authenticity of the published documents.

West Germany concluded a controversial $4 billion peaceful nuclear package deal with Brazil last June.

Cohen stable

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mickey Cohen was in stable condition Saturday at the UCLA Medical Center after having his stomach removed in an operation, hospital authorities said.

The 62-year-old former mobster was operated on Oct. 1 because of a cancerous ulcer.

Cohen is not permitted telephone calls or vistors, the spokesman said.

He has lived quietly in suburban Brentwood since his release from prison several years ago. He is partially paralyzed as a result of injuries suffered in a prison fight.

Complaints may hurt international trade

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Trade Ambassador Frederick B. Dent appealed to U.S. industry Saturday to use restraint in pursuing grievances against trading policies of other nations.

Dent said a record level of complaints by American industry against foreign pricing and subsidy policies threatens to upset the international trading system, even though the United States is now in its best trading position since World War II.

"To those looking at the United States from abroad, these filings suggest that our country may be turning protectionist," Dent told a meeting of the Business Council here.

The U.S. auto industry has alleged that foreign automakers are selling their cars in the United States at unfair low prices in violation of U.S. anti-dumping laws.

Similar complaints have been voiced by the steel industry.

Dent did not deny that some violations may be occurring in trading policies of other nations, but he urged American industry to use "a modicum of restraint" in seeking resolutions to short-term problems, when the long-term interest of the nation may require different policies.

Dent told the meeting of the Business Council, an organization of the nation's top 100 corporate executives, that the U.S. position in world trade is the best it has been since World War II.

He noted that the nation's trade balance is in surplus by $2.5 billion so far this year, with exports of manufactured goods alone 14 per cent higher than the same period last year.

But he said the favorable trade position could be disrupted by complaints for domestic industry, acting under provisions of the 1974 Trade Act, which requires the government to act within a specific period on complaints regarding unfair foreign pricing and subsidies on sales to this country.

He said that multilateral trade negotiations are under way and short-term trading problems may be resolved during these negotiations.

He said, however, he doubted the negotiations can be concluded before mid-1967.

Another speaker, federal energy administrator Frank Zarb, said the Ford administration may resort to administrative action in seeking to remove oil price controls if Congress fails to act soon.

North Vietnam warns U.S. about refugees

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam warned Saturday that the United States faces "serious consequences" if it tries to repatriate 1,540 South Vietnamese refugees on Guam without permission from Saigon.

A Hanoi broadcast said the action would be an encroachment on Vietnam's national sovereignty but did not say what action Saigon would take if the refugees were shipped back.

The refugees on Guam have appealed persistently for repatriation.

After Saigon accepted Vietnamese returning from other countries, President Ford last month expressed hope that the government would also accept those from the United States.

The refugees have been told they will go home later this month when repairs are completed on the Thong Tin, a Vietnamese ship docked at Guam.

"The Ford administration must see that to give permission for the Vietnamese to return to Vietnam is the sovereign right of the Vietnamese people, and the United States has no right to force the matter," the broadcast said.

Some 130,000 Vietnamese and Cambodian refugees were evacuated by U.S. forces last spring as Communists took over Saigon and Phnom Penh. Although tens of thousands have resettled successfully in the United States, many others have had severe difficulty adjusting.

Golf course system headed by Pomonan

A Sunday School superintendent from Pomona has been named head of Los Angeles County's sprawling golf course system.

PHIL JACKSON

Phil Jackson of 876 Ashfield Ave., who began working for the county 27 years ago as a maintenance man, was awarded that post by the Board of Supervisors after he placed on top in a recent competitive examination. He formerly was assistant golf director.

First District Supervisor Peter Schabarum says the new assignment makes Jackson responsible for the world's busiest golf course system, a staff of 217 workers and an operating budget of more than $3 million this year.

The new director's career with the county began in 1958. Since then he has worked on most of the county's golf courses, including Mountain Meadows in Pomona and Marshall Canyon above La Verne.

In addition to his duties, Jackson said he will continue to serve as Sunday School superintendent for the Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Pomona, and to teach a recreation class at Citrus College.

Jackson and his wife, Margaret, have four children.

Black candidate for mayor asks new Memphis image

By MARIAN FOX
Associates Press Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Otis Higgs Jr. says if he is elected as the first black mayor of Memphis, it would change the city's image as "the place where Martin Luther King Jr. was killed."

"What better way to say to America that Memphis is not a racist town, that Memphis can judge a qualified person regardless of race," Higgs said, after landing in a Nov. 6 runoff against incumbent Wyeth Chandler.

Higgs, 38, a former Criminal Court judge, got 34.7 per cent of the vote in Thursday's election despite his limited campaign budget that could not provide television advertising or billboards.

Of about 165,000 votes cast, Higgs collected 79 per cent of the black vote and almost 9 per cent of the white. Chandler, with 46.7 per cent of the vote, nearly reversed those statistics, drawing 70 of the white ballots and less than 4 per cent of black support.

The outcome of the runoff will depend on who captures the 16.6 per cent of the votes that went to Juvenile Court Judge Kenneth A. Turner. The remaining 2 per cent went to several minor candidates.

Both Chandler and Higgs have declared race will not be an issue in their campaigns.

"We pretty well stuck to the one theme that this is one of America's best run cities," said Chandler of his campaign. Higgs is campaigning against what he calls "a lack of leadership" by Chandler.

Higgs first said he would not run for mayor. But after supporters filed his application and passed a hat to collect the $100 filing fee, the reluctant candidate became determined, giving up the bench because of possible conflict of interest.

Higgs grew up in a mostly black, low-income section of Memphis. He spent most of his youth with his grandparents and accompanied his grandfather, George Dean, selling fruits and vegetables from a wagon.

At 16, he won a scholarship to Morehouse College but dropped out because the scholarship didn't meet the bills.

He returned to Memphis determined to finish college, working as a Pullman porter, yardman, factory worker, painter, laborer, busboy and finally as a waiter at Memphis Country Club.

In 1957, he walked into the business office of LeMoyne-Owen College in Memphis, laid 35 paychecks from the country club on the counter, and said: "I want to go to college."

High school teaching and law school followed college graduation.

During the runoff campaign, Higgs said he is prepared to challenge Chandler's emphasis on political experience.

"I'm fresh," Higgs said. "I'm glad I'm not a politician. They're the ones that got us into this mess."

Sea rule

Cornelius van Bynkershoek, a judge on Holland's highest court, ruled in 1703 that a coastal nation controlled as much of the seas as it could dominate from land. This came to mean nautical league — about three miles — or the range of a cannon fired from shore. The "cannon-shot rule" became the established precedent for nations claiming territorial waters.

Los Servicios Familiares en oficina nueva

Los Servicios Familiares del Valle de Pomona, una fusion de las agencias de Pomona y Claremont, se ha mudado para su nueva oficina, al num. 2055 N. Garey Ave., desde el lunes.

La nueva agencia, que sirve el valle, desde Diamond Bar y Walnut hasta el limite con el Condado de San Bernardino, es dirigida por Percy Bernstein de Claremont. Fue nonbrado director ejecutivo de la agencia en julio.

Antes de venir al Valle de Pomona, Bernstein fue director ejecutivo de la Agencia de Servicio Familiar de Fresno. El tambien dirigia una agencia geriatrica y hacia cumplir la ley.

Bernstein es licenciado en trabajado social de la Universidad de Ottawa, Canada, y esta licenciado por el estado como consejero matrimonial y familiar y trabajador social clinico.

La agencia, miembro de United Way del Condado de Los Angeles, esta integrada por dos consejeros fijos y cuatro temporeros. Todos los emploeados son graduados como trabajadores sociales, dijo Bernstein. Ellos estan preparados para lidiar con problemas matrimoniales, de famila y desavenecias con los muchachos.

La agencia tambien ayuda a invidivuos con problemas emocionales y tendra los servicios de consulta para un siquiatra.

Bernstein dijo que en la nueva agencia habra seminarios sobre matrimonios y la forma de criar a los ninos. La Agencia de Servicious Familiares tambien trabajara con las escuelas, grupos familiares y agencias locales de seguridad, de acuerdo con el nuevo director.

La oficina estara abierta de 9 a 5 de lunes a viernes y de 5 a 8 p.m. martes y jueves por ahora. Se contempla la posibilidad de abrir tambien los sabados y todas las tardes, en el futuro.

Tardeada para beneficiar La Escuelita de Pomona

Una "tardeada" se celebrara el dia 25 de octubre, de 8 de la noche a la 1 de la madrugada en el num. 2323 N. Indian Hill Blvd., en Claremont.

Los beneficios seran destinados a renovar La Escuelita, situada al 833 W. Monterey Ave., Pomona.

Con Lupita Espinoza, 23, como directora, La Escuelita ha auxiliado a ninos de tres a cinco anos a prepararse para ingresar en las escuelas publicas.

Los fondos para el mantenimiento de la escuela fueron proveidos hasta ahora por Municipio de Pomona. Esos fondos no pueden ser renovados, pero el projecto sera subsidiado de los provenientes de Comprehensive Training Employment Act. Actualmente, se estan tramitando fondos del Condado para seguir operando La Escuelita.

Reglas de fumar en las escuelas

Fumar en el perimetro de las escuelas superiores ha sido reconsiderado por los Delegados del Distrito Escolar Unificado de Pomona a solicitud de estudiantes, padres y miembros del personal, el martes por la noche, dejando que cada escuela por si decida.

Los Delegados habian votado a principio de ano cerrar las areas existentes para fumar como consecuencia de legislacion reciente, permitiendo que las direcciones de cada escuela adoptaran la politica adecuada. Con anterioridad a esa decision, las leyes estatales prohibian fumar en los perimetros escolares.

Un numeroso grupo de personas atendio la reunion del martes por la noche y se propuso dejar a cada escuela que regule el fumar en sus terrenos.

Ellos senalaron que la actual prohibion ha creado problemas policiales y compele a los supervisores y otro personal a los servicios y terrenos escolares.

El presidente Don Donnelly dijo que los Delegados Escolares estudiarian el asunto durante una sesion especial el proximo martes.

"Un hombre con corage hace una mayoria". — Andrew Jackson, septimo presidente de los Estados Unidos.

La noche aniversario de vuelta a la escuela Garey esta fijada para el jueves, octubre 16. La actual campana de la APM para incrementar sus asociados continuara hasta octubre 20.

Varias posiciones directivas en la Asociacion estan sin cubrir. Todas las personas interesadas deberian asistir a la reunion o concurrir durante las noches senaladas.

Introducing Fieldcrest's Newest Designs for Beautiful Living
The Nation of Nations Bedding and Bath Collection

Fieldcrest created the collection from designs in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. Meissen Rose, a decorative motif of freshly colored, stylized flowers, was inspired by the prized Meissen porcelain produced in Germany in the 18th Century. In late 1700 middleclass homes in provincial France, the draperies would most likely be a print very similar to Alsace Floral.

Alsace Lorraine was the 18th Century textile manufacturing center where this print was made. These coordinated bed and bath groups bring timeless designs to contemporary living.

TRUE GRITTY — Goggles clamped in place, duner Cliff Meek grips the wheel of his bucking buggy as it charges up a sand hill near Oceano. He's one of thousands who like dunes.

Flying dune buggies find Oceano 'OK'

OCEANO, Calif. (AP(— The buggy rockets over the crest of the dune, its puffy tires churning up a rooster tail of sand.

"Geronimo-o-o-o-o-o-o," shouts Bill Wellington, a sixth grade teacher from Los Angeles off on a weekend lark. And this ungainly, fat-legged notion of an automobile bellywhops on the side of another dune.

Ride that frizzin' sand at 50 miles an hour up-dune. Now down. It's as though you're inside a cement mixer and someone is trying to cave in your stomach and break your neck at the same time. A dry, gritty roller coaster, filling your eyes, mouth, hair with dry, gritty thrills.

All around Wellington, roaring with with their own gritty glory are dune buggies of a dozen shapes, a hundred colors — flashes of apricot, Prussian blue, shell pink, jubilee grape, rust, salmon and sand all over the place.

And not just sixth grade teachers — but, Marlon Brando, Nancy Sinatra, James Garner and other stars of stage, screen and dune. Brando pilots a rakish, custom-built, $6,000 Porsche-powered buggy.

This is the mecca for dune buggy thrillers, this coastal dune complex — the largest on the West Coast. The beach bordering the churning Pacific is as wide as a four-lane highway, yielding gently to the rising hills of sand, built up by the west winds.

A vast tumble of sand cliffs and hills, mantled by heavy brush, the Nipomo dunes and beach — 100 square miles in all — are called affectionately by duners the "Jolly Green Giant's Sandbox."

And, for them, it is. Last Labor Day, more than 75,000 duners swarmed over Oceano. There were 80,000 for the Fourth of July. Any good Saturday may find as many as 15,000 churning up the dunes, some from as far away as Rhode Island, attracted by stories in dune buggy magazines.

The dune buggy craze has grown like crazy in the last 10 years. Oceano is its capital.

Offroad driving, exciting, challenging — a considered insult to the interstate — began rising in popularity in the mid-1960s. There are several million aficionados estimated in the nation, and there are 300,000 dune buggies registered in Southern California alone. Add to that half a million four-wheel-drive vehicles and over two million motorcycles, and you can see what the Nipomo dunes and other wild tracks in various parts of the nation are in for.

Most dune buggies are homemade for about $700 — slung together from the frame of a Volkswagen and the remains of other makes and driven by a VW's air-cooled, 36-horsepower engine mounted on the rear without a muffler.

Other buggies cost $2,500 and up and sport alloy wheels and mirrors shaped like Iron Crosses.

Orange idea turns green

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Karl Leutner is $2,728 richer today — thanks to an idea that saved the state $110,000.

Leutner, an assistant purchasing specifications analyst for the Department of Transportation, thought of a way to change the color on highway construction zone signs and saved the state from having to buy new ones.

The state was planning to junk its yellow signs, which are made of aluminum faced with reflective sheeting, and buy orange ones to meet new federal regulations.

But Leutner figured out that painting the yellow signs with a translucent paste makes them look orange.

He said several other states are using the idea too.

The state allows awards of up to five per cent of one-shot savings and up to 10 per cent of an annual, on-going savings.

VW bows out of competition

DETROIT (AP) — Volkswagen, which parlayed its low-priced Beetle into one of America's great success stories, will not compete in the economy end of the U.S. car market this fall, ending its two-decade reign as America's leading importer.

The West German auto maker, long the epitome of low-cost private transportation in this country, has been driven from the U.S. economy car market by soaring costs at home and the increased value of the German mark relative to the dollar, company officials concede.

This week, the company announced 1976-model prices which will push VW's lowest-priced U.S. car to $3,499 to start — some $600 above the small economy models being offered this fall by the domestic companies and leading Japanese importers.

"With our 1976 models, we're going for a different market where engineering and quality are emphasized more than price," explained a spokesman for VW of America, the company's importing arm. "We're going for a more select market rather than the large volume we had before."

VW's latest increases cap several years of price boosts accompanied by a sharp decline in sales which has allowed its main competitors for the import market, Toyota and Datsun, to pick up ground.

VW has sold 6.5 million cars in this country since the late 1940s.

Amputee shares karate expertise

STEELTON, Pa. (AP) — Ten years ago, Ted Vollrath lost a 13-year battle to keep his legs. They had been shattered by a Communist mortar shell in 1952 during another battle, near Inchon, Korea.

Now Vollrath is fighting a third battle — to save the hopes, spirits and self-esteem of handicapped youngsters — and he's winning.

Vollrath has signed up black belt karate experts to teach handicapped youths in the United States, England and Canada. Last spring he incorporated a group called Martial Arts for the Handicapped.

The program seems to be going strong, largely because of the mind-bending example set by Vollrath.

The 39-year-old yodan — fourth degree black belt — is widely known in karate circles. Magazines have featured him and he often performs at karate shindigs. Recently he packed them in at Madison Square Garden in New York.

He has just completed a razzledazzle movie thriller — "Pushers Die Hard" — and is set to do another.

But Vollrath says that apart from his family, his biggest passion is the Martial Arts for the Handicapped (MAH) group.

"I'm the first one in the world to get a black belt from a wheelchair ... I've got other handicapped people involved now," he said.

"I have about 187 black belts signed up right now teaching handicapped students. We have blind students, we have quadriplegics missing both arms and legs. All he (a quadriplegic) can do is read on the martial arts. A couple years from now he's going to be able to lecture on the history and philosophy of the martial arts."

Karate classes have already been started for 176 handicapped individuals in England and in several states.

"Never in my wildest dreams did I think it would come to this," Vollrath said.

Vollrath has third-place billing in the new movie, which also features Dick Jekeyll, John Agar and the Chitwood stunt drivers.

"My name in the movie was 'No Legs,'" Vollrath said. He plays the part of a drug czar aide who starts taking over the organization.

Vollrath continues a hectic pace of personal appearances, traveling in his specially adapted car or by air, often working 16 to 20 hours a day.

IMMIGRANTS — American Indians sit near a construction site at Illinois Eastern University in Chicago. Chicago is one of several cities with populations of over 10,000 of the native Americans who have come to urban areas, leaving troubles and security of the reservation.

Urban Indians not enjoying much progress

By CHRIS J. HARPER
Associated Press Writer

Thirteen years ago Dorothy Demarris left her home in Taos, N.M., and became an immigrant in her own country.

"It was scary and I was all set to go back home," recalled the 28-year-old Pueblo Indian, whose travels ended in a dingy, skid row hotel in Chicago.

Many Indians made similar journeys in the 1950s and 1960s under the Bureau of Indian Affairs' Relocation and Employment Assistance program, leaving behind both the troubles and security of the reservation.

Today, about 45 per cent of the nation's 800,000 American Indians live in the cities.

Mrs. Demaris found work as a secretary, but many other urban Indians are unemployed. The Indian population in metropolitan areas has doubled in the past 15 years, and there has been a corresponding increase in problems of employment, adequate housing and health care.

The federal Bureau of Indian Affairs provides a variety of services for Indians living on reservations, but does not operate among urban Indians. The Department of Labor, however, does provide funds for job centers for urban Indians, and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare pumps some money into health services and other assistance programs. Congress also has appropriated money for city schools with Indian children.

The transition from reservation to city life is often a shock.

"The only thing I can relate it to is going to a foreign country from the United States. The pace of the city is so fast. It's so unfriendly and cold," said Helen Whitehead of the Native American Outpost in Chicago. "At least on the reservation, the pace is slower and the people are friendly."

Indian centers in a number of cities attempt to help the migrants adjust to their urban surroundings. But many centers are "band-aid operations" with small staffs, says one Indian center officials.

Thirty-five cities report populations of more than 1,000 Native Americans. The largest number — 50,000 — are settled in the Los Angeles-Long Beach area. Tulsa, Oklahoma City, New York, San Francisco, Phoenix, Minneapolis and Chicago all list more than 10,000 Indians apiece.

Native Americans tend to congregate in poorer neighborhoods like Chicago's Uptown area. A federal study reported recently that about 19 per cent of urban Indians live in moderately or severely overcrowded housing, compared with a national average of 7 per cent of the population. More than eight per cent of urban Indians live in housing without toilets, 14 times the national average.

The Indians ventured to the cities for jobs, but as the nation's economic woes have increased, employment opportunities have dwindled.

"When recession comes who are going to lose the jobs? The Indians because they don't have the skills," said Al Cobe, founder of the Indian Employment Center in Chicago's Uptown area. "Whenever there's a depression or recession, the Indians lose out."

A notable exception to the trend, however, is Oklahoma City, where jobs from the oil industry have kept the unemployment rate at about two per cent for the city's 15,000 Indians.

Unlike almost every other city with a large Indian population, the conditons in Oklahoma City are generally better primarily because of the employment situation. The migration to Oklahoma City began much earlier than elsewhere because of the state's large Indian population. Therefore the period for adaptation to urban life has been longer.

Health care poses an awesome problem for many urban Indians. "The disadvantaged people aren't able to get the health services,' said Cobe, who also has opened a small medical clinic in Chicago. Unless Indians are taking their last breath, the hospitals won't take them. They want to know who'll pay first."

Many Indian leaders fear that the city schools and the urban environment have aided in the deterioration of Indian culture among the young. More than one-half of urban Indians marry non-Indians in the cities, increasing the cultural breakdown.

Still, the migration has had one seemingly positive result. The educational levels of urban Indians have risen dramatically. A federal study showed that 42 per cent of urban Indians were high school graduates in 1970, compared with 28 per cent in 1960.

Urban Indians often lack the political clout to solve their difficulties. In many instances, their problems have been overshadowed by those of the larger black and Spanish-speaking populations in metropolitan areas.

"We lack identity because we don't have Watts," said Wee Cie Ford, director of the South Bay Indian Services Center in Long Beach, Calif.

Sometimes, however, internal battles within the Indian community have hampered progress.

"The Seattle area is commonly referred to as the snakepit of the nation," admitted Greg Frazier, director of the city's Indian Center. "Generally, the urban Indian is the most politically active ethnic group while at the same time the most politically ineffective. We fight each other all the time."

AREA YOUNGSTERS in grades six through nine who enroll in Citrus College's Enrichment programs may sign up for Glenn Gorelick's class "Learn About Differenct Common Animals" which starts Tuesday.

The class will be held each Tuesday from 4 to 5 p.m. in room BS 117 on the campus in Azusa.

The enrichment program is held in cooperation with the Foothill Association for Gifted Children, the Pomona Valley Gifted Children's program and Mt. San Antonio College. Registration information may be obtained by calling the Community Services offices at either of the sponsoring colleges or writing P.O. Box 4132, Covina, 91732.

DAVID STEWART BURGESS of the UNITED NATIONS Children's Fund (UNICEF) will speak on the campus of the School of Theology at Claremont on Monday and Tuesday. He will speak at 7:30 p.m. Monday and deliver a convocation address at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday. Both meetings will be held in the Seeley G. Mudd Communications Building of the School of Theology at Claremont. Both are free and open to the public.

Burgess has been with the UNICEF since 1966 and has been the area representative for Thailand, Malaysia, Singapore and Hong Kong.

DONALD CARNEGIE, chairman of the board of Kennametal, Inc., was presented an honorary doctor of laws degree by Pomona College, his alma mater, at a ceremony attended by 600 members of the college faculty and student body. The presentation was made at the opening convocation of the 1975-76 academic year by David Alexander, president of the college.

Carnegie graduated cum laude from Pomona College in 1929 and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and won the Jennings prize for excellence in English. For the past 30 years, he has been active in working for higher education and a patron of the colleges at Claremont. Carnegie was a founding trustee of Claremont Men's College.

THE REV. GEORGE MANN, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Pasadena, will preach at the community worship service Wednesday at 11:45 a.m. in Kresge Chapel on the campus of the School of theology at Claremont.

Mr. Mann's topic is "Timetable for Doomsday." The service is open to the public.

RICHARD N. MASON, who has had 27 years of experirnce in college development work, has been appointed to the development staff of Claremont Men's College, according to Jack L. Stark, college president.

Mason has been named director of foundation relations and assistant director of estate planning. He served as assistant director of development at Harvey Mudd College from 1959 to 1961.

GARY HARKINSON, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Harkinson, 1711 Fellows Place, Pomona, has been elected to serve as a resident senator in the student government association at Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, Okla., where he is a sophomore.

THE GEORGE G. STONE Center for Children's Book at the Claremont Colleges is collecting books for its annual Book Harvest Friday.

Books of any kinds are welcome. Donations may be left at the center in Harper Hall on the campus or at offices of the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Pomona, Upland, Chino, San Dimas or Alta Loma.

The Book Harvest sale and open house will be at the children's book center from 3:30 to 8 p.m. The event has been planned by the center's advisory board and the Claremont Junior Woman's Club.

HOWARD T. YOUNG, professor of Romance languages at Pomona College has been awarded a Del Amo Foundation grant to visit Madrid for the purpose of evaluating the fall semester at the Pomona Modular Academy in Madrid.

The award will also enable Young to conduct research during his 1975-76 sabbatical year. Pomona Modular Academy is one of the college's semester abroad programs. It was inaugurated during the fall of 1974.

SHOT IN THE DARK — Veteran oil driller B.J. Courtney stands by a marker recording the 1947 completion of the first offshore oil well near Morgan City. He was on the crew that drilled it. "We thought it was a shot in the dark," he recalls.

Offshore oil drilling: good and bad points

MORGAN CITY, La. (AP) — The expensive art of drilling for oil in the bottom of the sea was born off this marshy coast and grew up like a brat with permissive parents.

"We thought it was a shot in the dark," said B.J. Courtney, who was a 22-year-old roughneck on the crew that drilled the first oil well in the Gulf of Mexico out of sight of land 28 years ago.

"We never thought much would come of it."

What has come of it is obvious — 4.5 billion barrels of crude from the Gulf alone. Now oilmen say that America's 17 offshore basins which may hold oil and natural gas, a total of about 180 million underwaters acres, could produce a bonanza equal to the nation's entire 116 years of past production.

But offshore production also threatens to bring oil spills and industrial blight, and states up an down both coasts are demanding more time to prepare.

Not Louisiana. Here, where offshore drilling began, some environmentalists are saying that oil spills aren't so bad after all, that in fact oil and water do mix — provided the oil is crude, unrefined. Clearly, other environmentalists disagree vehemently.

For the historic first well the drilling rig was mounted on a platform atop wooden pilings in water 18 feet deep, 11 miles off the beach.

The well came in on a splendid October Sunday in 1947 with the bit a mere 1,500 feet deep. It turned the fishing village of Morgan City, 43 miles to ERONIMO — A roaring buggy takes to the air ver the crest of a sandy dune near Oceano.

THE SAND FREEWAY — Startled gulls head for safer territory as a dune buggy zooms along the beach near Oceano. The beach, as wide as a four-lane highway, is dubbed the "Sand Freeway."

hey have names like nd Eagle, Bushwacker, ne Lady II.

ll ride on huge, 30-inch es inflated to only three four pounds' pressure.

hey also sport 12-foot "whips — masts topped with flags to warn others that they are coming through the dunes. For night cruising, the whips are hung with lights. The dunes explode with headlights, angry red tail and mast lights.

Authorities in Oceano smile upon the duners.

State beach rangers and San Luis Obispo County sheriff's deputies handle law enforcement in hopped-up dune buggies equipped with sirens and flashing red lights.

But, with the exception of an occasional litter problem and beach chases up to 100 m.p.h., "we've never had any real trouble with the duners," says Wes Cater, local state beach supervisor.

But to some Oceano residents, duners are the ultimate invaders of privacy.

For years, the town was a retirement community. The only persons on the beach were clam diggers or solitude-seeking artists.

One elderly resident, before being stopped by deputies, used to turn her two Greenland retrievers loose on roving dune buggies.

And there are other problems: Recently, three persons were crushed to death when their buggy flipped. It takes up to four hours to get an ambulance into some of the far dune areas.

Ecologists have pressed for holding down the number of persons allowed in the dunes, to cut down litter, and have won some concessions.

Still the duners come for what many call family fun, and once recently they left a reminder of the weekend. It was a purloined Los Angeles freeway sign: Motor Vehicles Only.

But after they've left, even the worst-plowed areas yield to the breezes of the Pacific, which smooth the sand like gentle fingers soothe a brow, and under the cover of night make the dunes bright again.

Oceanographers check out earth movement

PALISADES, N.Y. (AP) — A band of men who study the seas ship out again today to search for clues to that almost mythical day some 200 million years ago when there was perhaps just one land and just one vast ocean.

This latest scientific treasure hunt into the mysteries of continental drift is being conducted by oceanographers from Columbia University's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory — a bastion of sea knowledge atop a rocky cliff some 350 feet above the Hudson River.

In just the last few years, oceanographers here and elsewhere have revolutionized the science of geology and notions about the earth.

Explorary voyages have shown that the earth's surface is composed of about a dozen moving plates, colliding, brushing against each other, sliding under, their edges being swallowed up by the depths only to rise again.

These restless crustal plates, about 60 miles thick, are the result of fissures in the earth where hot rock from underneath the crust wells up, pushing two plates apart.

The Atlantic Mid-Ocean Ridge is such a fissure. It is part of a double-ridge of two-mile-high mountains circling the world in an almost continuous line 45,000 miles long. At the mid-Atlantic ridge, the sea floor is spreading at the rate of about two inches a year, rather fast in geologic time.

All this is called the new global plate tectonics, an entirely new view of the earth beneath us. Now the scientists want to find out in detail the nature of the underlying forces, the unknown and little-understood machine that is driving this process.

The first leg of the search begins today when Lamont-Doherty's research vessel the Robert D. Conrad sets out to explore the continental margin stretching from off New York to off Florida, out about 200 miles.

In December, the Conrad will sail for the Caribbean for research there. Later will come explorations of the mid-Atlantic ridge, perhaps a younger rifted area such as the Gulf of California and in the Pacific where a plate appears to be disappearing under another plate.

"We would like to know a little bit more about the anatomy of this process," says John I. Ewing, associate director for research at Lamont-Doherty, and brother of the late Maurice Ewing, founder of the observatory.

The continental margin is an area of transition from typcially oceanic crust to continental crust. The two crusts have quite different physical properties.

"Let us consider the so-called passive rifted margins," says Lamont-Doherty director Dr. Manik Talwani, "such as the Atlantic margins of Europe and North America, which came into existence as Europe and North America split apart nearly 200 million years ago.

"Although most geologists believe such a split occurred, we still know very little about any continents split, or how."

"In any event," Talwani continues, "evidence shows that very interesting and important events took place when the continents first rifted."

Ewing and Charles C. Windishch, research associate, say they want to find out: "What are the steps in the process? What formations develop? There are ideas, but no real knowledge. There is a tensional force exerted in the crust and probably in the mantle of earth, but what is the driving force, the machine that does it? There is nothing proven."

Talwani: "The margin is the place where the continental shelf broke off. We really don't know why they broke off. What was going on at the time? "This is the real scientific puzzle. We really don't know why the continents broke."

The scientific equipment that is making this search into the past possible is being adapted from sophisticated technology developed by the oil industry, where it has been in use for years, but until now not utilized by large oceanographic institutions.

The basic technique is the familiar one of seismic sounding, of sending a controlled sound down through the water and into the mud and earth, and then recording the reflection, the sound that bounces back up, to draw a picture or map of the structure and configuration of the crust.

The new equipment aboard the Conrad will be a highly complex version of basic technique, costing $1 million.

"The oil industry has built a telescope and we want to use it to look into the earth," says Ewing. "We want to try some new tricks, new data processing ideas. We want to look deeper and in more detail. It's like optics, an acoustical lens."

Talwani says that in addition to this basic research, a knowledge of the origins of continental margins could have a bearing on the search for hydrocarbons. There could be undiscovered basins in the deep sea area with oil and gas deposits, Talwani thinks.

In 1974 the population of Australia was estimated at 13,305,000.

Guidelines for disciplining may be redesigned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Office of Civil Rights says it may modify its guidelines designed to halt discriminatory disciplining of school children.

The civil rights office issued the guidelines late in the summer, saying it had found that minority children were subjected to more stringent discipline than their white counterparts.

The guidelines stepped up procedures for school districts to follow in reporting disciplinary action to federal agencies.

Martin H. Gerry, deputy director of the Office of Civil Rights, said the guidelines brought adverse reaction from school districts and led to a series of meetings between HEW officials and school administrators.

Gerry, appearing Thursday before the House subcommittee on elementary, secondary and vocational education, stopped short of saying the guidelines would be pulled back or delayed.

But he said he understood the problems seen by school administrators because the federal guidelines were not issued until August and districts did not have time to prepare for implementation.

Oil drilling...

the north, into an offshore oil boomtown — and it still is.

But the fishermen, enraged by fouled nets and stinking bays, were known to take a shot or two at offshore workers in the early '50s and clashes between oil exploration boats and shrimp fleets were frequent. But things change.

Now fishermen and oilmen warily coexist on the bountiful Gulf. Shrimp boats thread their way among thousands of oil and natural gas wells and tough regulations have shut off the days of careless dumping and spills.

Smiled upon by presidents and sheiks — President Ford toured an offshore rig during last April's visit to New Orleans where drilling has spread from these kindly seas to shallow waters around the world.

The Gulf Coast, where it all started, remains the classic example of the good and bad which can result from 20 years of nonregulated oil fields and the growth of a powerful technology.

Other countries with rigs drilling off their shores send observers to Louisiana to study what they should do — and what not to do.

"I suspect the Louisiana coastal area has been subjected to every type of petroleum environmental threat that could be thought up," said Dr. L.S. St. Amant, assistant director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission and a noted marine biologist.

"We survived. We learned from hindsight. And mistakes we made can be avoided by the newer offshore areas."

St. Amant was among the first critics of oil's freewheeling operations along Louisiana's coastal marshes in the '20s, '30s, and '40s, but he says regulated offshore drilling poses no serious problems and won't "kill" the sea.

Those who travel to New Orleans to talk with St. Amant include delegations from almost every Atlantic Coast state, where opposition to offshore drilling runs deep.

He found some of them irritatingly skeptical.

"I'm supposed to be a man of some expertise on this subject and I sure wouldn't perjure myself for any industry," he said, "but a lot of people have fixed ideas about environmental problems."

They're at least a good deal more skeptical than St. Amant.

Spencer Apollonio, Maine's commissioner of marine resources, said "the more we looked at the effect of oil on marine organisms or the marine environment, the more concerned we became.

"There is a wide variety of effects — the outright kill, of course; the sublethal, chronic, long-term effects. We know that a variety of organisma can store oil, transfer it, apparently along the food chain.

"Put all the information that we have together in the world, on the effects of oil on the fish, and you've got a fairly frightening picture. It is hurting. There's no way that it cannot hurt."

Apollonio said he is still studying the effects of a 1964 crude oil spill off Maine. "It's still affecting the organisms, and these are second and third-generation clams we're talking about. At the present rate of dissipation, it's going to be with us a hundred years."

Despite such contrasting opinions as those of Maine's Apollonio and Louisiana's St. Amant, the Department of Interior has pressed on with plans to sell Atlantic offshore oil leases, with the first sale tentatively scheduled for next June.

The Accident Policy, with Hospital and Recuperative Benefits, brought to you by your newspaper.

Progress Bulletin

$33.33 a day in benefits

when you are hospitalized by a covered accident, even for a year

Plus $16.67 a day

for the same length of time after you leave the hospital

(These benefits reduced one-half at Medicare age)

Benefits When Hospitalized by a Covered Accident:
$33.33 a day for up to 12 months. Hospitalization must occur within 5 days of accident.

Benefits While Recuperating:
$16.67 a day for same length of time as hospital benefits, but payable only if there has been a preceding period of hospitalization.

These benefits reduced one-half for any period of hospitalization and/or recuperation commencing on or after the policy anniversary date occurring on or next following the date you attain the age of eligibility for Medicare benefits.

Accidental Death or Dismemberment:
For death or dismemberment which occurs within 90 days of the accident. If this benefit is paid, no other benefit is payable under the policy. $2,000.00 for accidental death or double dismemberment.

$4,000.00 (increasing 15% each year policy is in force for 10 years to maximum $10,000.00) if death is caused by the following travel accidents:

1. While a fare-paying passenger in: a. An airplane operated by a common carrier for passenger service; b. Bus or taxi; c. Other common carrier.
2. While riding or driving an automobile or truck.
3. Being struck, knocked down, or run over while a pedestrian.

These benefits reduced one-half for persons age 65 and over.

Renewal at Option of Company, which reserves the right to increase premium rates.

EXCLUSIONS: Warfare; suicide or attempt thereat; in riding in or driving or testing any automobile in a race or speed contest or on any testing ground; any airplane wreck other than as a fare-paying passenger on a commercial flight; motorcycle; hernia; sickness, disease or mental infirmity; carbon monoxide poisoning; any confinement in hospital owned, operated or maintained by the Federal Government or agency unless charges are made for such service; confinement in a nursing home, convalescent home or extended care facility.

This is only a partial description of the terms and provisions of National Casualty Co., Southfield, Mich., policy form MH 6417

How to do something about the expensive bad break of an accident that puts you in the hospital.

The premium $36 a year.

Now dawns another day with the hazards of living actively.

Hazards like the glass door, the toppling ladder, the innocent child's toy on the floor, the onrushing traffic, the car in the wrong lane, losing your brakes.

Particularly if your next stop is that most hazardous place of all to your pocketbook. The hospital bed.

Ten days in the hospital in our area—an encounter with a glass door could keep you there that long—could cost you several hundreds of dollars.

Help you need, help you get

Thus runs the expensive hazard of being hospitalized by an accident.

It's now twice as expensive to go to the hospital than it was five years ago.

Your newspaper has done something about this ever-present peril to your savings. It makes available to you a National Casualty Company of Detroit policy form with benefit payments to help you if a covered accident puts you in the hospital:

(a) $33.33 a day for each day you are hospitalized;

(b) Plus a recuperative benefit, $16.67 a day after you leave the hospital for the same number of days you were in the hospital.

These payments are made directly to you or to your assignee no matter what other insurance you have, including workmen's compensation or Medicare. But the benefit payments at Medicare age are reduced one-half to $16.67 a day hospital benefit and $8.33 a day recuperative benefit.

Naturally the hospital payments can be made only for confinement in a legitimate hospital and not in an extended care facility or nursing home or place of rest. U.S. government hospitals also are excluded. The hospital payment will be made for as much as a year. The recuperative payment for the same period. On this basis, though a year's hospital confinement is most unlikely, this policy could pay you as much as $18,000—$12,000 for hospital, $6,000 recuperative (or $9,000 total if you are of Medicare age).

In addition to the hospital benefit, there are accidental death and dismemberment benefits, starting at $2,000. They are described in the schedule of coverage on this page. These are reduced one-half at age 65.

$36 the annual premium

Whatever your age, the premium cost for one unit of coverage is $6.50 for two month or $36 for the full year (a saving of $3.00). A single day in the hospital next year because of an accident will return you more than the premium payment in policy benefits (two days if you are of Medicare age). The Company reserves the right to raise the premium.

This could be the good-sign day you arrange for help before one of an active life's hazards catches up with you. Use the application. It and your initial premium are all that are required. Your policy will be returned to you promptly. Please act now.

Medical, legal, social groups working for change

While agencies battled, children suffered

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

While child abuse and neglect are the leading cause of death among children under five years of age in the United States, agencies involved in the enforcement of legislation or the solution of the underlying causes have often been ineffective because they were at odds with each other, according to a panel of medical and legal experts who met in Pomona this week.

However, this is changing as communities in Los Angeles County are alarmed at the number of children suffering from mistreatment by adults responsible for their care and have started to combat the problem, the panelists said.

The first local symposium involving members of the medical, legal, law enforcement and social service agencies was held Thursday at Pomona Valley Community Hospital to determine just what can be done in the valley to help both the neglected or abused child and the family.

The sponsoring group, the Pomona Valley Child Abuse Committee, was organized just a year ago to better communications between the agencies. For its first forum, the committee involved a judge, a USC medical professor who heads a national program on child abuse, a member of the county sheriff's child abuse unit, social workers, a number of physicians and a member of the county District Attorney's office.

While the speakers were not at all in agreement on many of the legal, medical or social solutions, all agreed that increased cooperation among agencies and the public is a must if the child is to be granted his rights.

"The problem of child abuse has existed for centuries," said Dr. Richard Mabie, Pomona physician and moderator for the panel. "But it wasn't until about 1962 that medical writings about the problem began to appear in professional journals."

"For many years, there were no figures or reported statistics on the number of children being abused in the world. Since reports have been kept, the rise in case numbers is staggering."

He said that in 1968, California had 1,258 cases of child abuse reported. In 1972, this figure was 5,592. He added that while figures vary, California appears to be leading the nation in the number of child abuse and child neglect cases reported, with Florida a close second.

Even the definition of child abuse covers a broad spectrum and includes children under 18 who have been physically or sexually assaulted, emotionally ignored or deprived, and physical neglect cases such as malnutrition, unsanitary conditions or lack of supervision. Child abuse also includes an environment where the parent is an alcoholic, under the influence of drugs or is emotionally disturbed.

"We need to identify as soon as possible those children who are abused and parents who are abusers," said Dr. Mabie.

Panelists agreed that the children who are abused are usually under the age of five and too young to call for help.

The Pomona Valley Child Abuse Committee's initial task has been to encourage reporting of child abuse. While all citizens are encouraged to report suspected cases of abuse (even anonymously if they desire) to either their local police departments or protective services, many professional groups are legally required to report their suspicions.

Under California Penal Code Section 11161.5, teachers, school administrators, nurses, doctors and other professionals are obligated to report suspected nonaccidental injuries to children under the age of 18.

"Not many cases of child abuse are clear cut," said Dr. David B. Friedman, professor of pediatrics at USC School of Medicine and head of the Child Abuse and Neglect Center at Cal State Los Angeles.

"The whole issue of child abuse gets to be highly emotional," said Dr. Friedman. "Professionals may find it difficult to question parents of a child brought to them with injuries. But once you're assured that you are doing the right thing, it gets easier."

He said child abuse exists as much in the higher socio-economic levels as in the lower. It occurs among all types of families.

"Most doctors would prefer to talk with the families and work on solutions rather than turn the cases over to the police unless absolutely necessary," said Dr. Friedman. "We try to salvage the family."

Story behind $35 million water bond election

Taxpayers of the valley will be asked Nov. 4 to approve $35 million in bonds to finance a water distribution system designed to bring sufficient Feather River water here. This is the first of two articles dealing with the proposal.

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

Nine local communities will be asked next month to pay for the construction of a $35 million distributing system designed to bring "high quality soft water" from Northern California to the valley.

The bond issue, if approved, would cost the average taxpayer about 20 cents more in taxes per $100 of assessed valuation, than the seven cents he pays right now, and about 50 per cent more than what he pays for his water right now.

Pomona, which has a virtually independent water system, would pay less than the tax rate calls for at least at the present time.

The system, as proposed would more than quadruple the work and scope of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District which has quietly served the area for the past 25 years.

The proposal, which needs a majority vote at the polls Nov. 4, calls for the construction of two large treatment plants, a mile-long tunnel through the Diamond Bar Hills into Diamond Bar, and about 17 miles of pipelines to serve Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas, Covina, Glendora, Pomona, Diamond Bar, Walnut and Rowland Heights.

A $5 million reservoir at Tonner Canyon in Diamond Bar, which was part of the original proposal, has been knocked out. Stan Kawa, general manager of the PVMWD, said that project may be built later.

He admitted that for some communities in the valley, particularly Pomona, the system would be primarily "an insurance policy," but he contended that it was a "policy that was certain to pay high dividends in the future."

He said the valley's water tables have been dropping in recent years at the rate of 10 feet per year. He estimated that to maintain the current water level would require an annual rainfall of twice what the valley has been getting.

To offset some of that shortage, the valley has been fulfilling 25 per cent of its need from the Colorado River. Kawa estimates that by 1990 the valley will have to import 75 per cent of its water.

"We could continue to use Colorado River water," he explained, "but it would become not only very costly; we would wind up with water so impure that it would not be suited to domestic use."

Local well water has about 500 parts of total dissolved solvents per million parts of water; the Colorado river carries about 750 parts of TDS, while the Feather river has about 200 parts. Kawa explained. The salt content of such water is often so high that it becomes harmful to those who have heart problems.

Moreover, the combination of local and Colorado water is three times as hard as the state water. This causes additional expenses in the use of more soap, more heating, and wear and tear both on domestic equipment and the outside system, according to Kawa.

A further health hazard of the local water is its high nitrate content, he explained.

"Agricultural use of water in the past has deposited nitrates in our local supplies," he said. "Now, every time water is pumped up, used and then returned to the underground, it increases the concentration."

Federal public health standards set the maximum nitrate count in domestic water at 45 parts per million parts of water. Some of the water in the valley contains 90 to 140 parts. The level that causes breathing problems for babies because of oxygen shortage is between 150 and 200 parts.

And although there are no records of "blue babies" born in the valley, Kawa says the content has been increasing to the point where the level is becoming dangerous.

Although the state water is better than the local or Colorado River supplies, it is not perfect.

One of the problems is that when the voters approved the state bond issues to build the Feather River System more than 15 years ago, they specified that the system be used for recreation as well as for domestic and irrigation purposes.

Therefore, much of the supply which comes here over a 500-mile route travels through open canals and reservoirs, and carries not only algae but also body pollutants and other foreign matter. This causes an occasional problem in filtering, and once or twice a year the MWD is forced to shut down Feather River service.

Such a shutdown occurred last month and lasted for nearly three weeks.

In the event of such shutdowns, the district would turn to the Colorado River water temporarily, and "wash down" the hardness and mineral content when Feather River water is available again, according to Kawa.

But regardless of whether the area imports Colorado or Feather river water, the need will double in the next 25 years, based on a saturated population of 600,000. Since the present system can't handle that volume, additions and replacements will have to be built, if not by the district then by the individual communities.

"Every community we have talked with agrees that the district can do it better and cheaper now, than the individual communities," Kawa contended. "And the way we have worked this out, we will be able to cut the cost of pumping 90 per cent in the north and 50 per cent in the south."

What the PVMWD proposes to do is to build a tap into the Metropolitan Water District lines at an elevation that is high enough to allow gravity flow rather than pumping.

Right now, most of the district gets its water from the Weymouth plant of the MWD in La Verne, which is built on an elevation of 1,000 feet above sea level. Thus the water has to be pumped up to Claremont, to La Verne Heights and to most of San Dimas.

The district wants to tap the MWD's Feather River line at the Rialto Reach in North Claremont above Base Line Road, at an elevation of 1,700 feet above sea level, and to build a treatment plant and reservoir there.

This would allow the water to flow down in lines paralleling Base Line Road (elevation 1,300 to 1,350), to Foothill Boulevard (elevation 1,250), to the central areas of the foothill communities (elevation 1,000), and to Pomona, (elevation 900).

Only minimal pumping would be needed to bring water up to the hills of Claraboya, to the higher elevations of La Verne and to the upper sections of San Dimas.

The proposal also calls for a 4,700-foot-long tunnel in the Diamond Bar Hills that will carry water without pumping from Pomona to Diamond Bar

Minimal pumping will be needed to move the water from there to Walnut and Rowland Heights.

More salary talking

Attorney John Adams, chief negotiator for the Pomona City Employes Association, is expected to address the Pomona City Council Monday night concerning the city's suspension of salary negotiations with the employes' group.

The talks were suspended Friday after city representatives claimed Adams and other employe negotiators were seeking union recognition for city workers.

Barbara Stapleton, president of the employe association, has charged the city is deliberately stalling the wage talks, which have progressed little in three months.

The city's last offer to the association was for a five per cent salary increase retroactive to July 1, a six per cent increase on July 1, 1976, an additional holiday, and optional health and deferred compensation plans.

The association has asked for five per cent retroactive to July 1, 2.5 per cent effective Jan. 1, 1976, and an increase effective Sept. 1, 1976 equal to the rise in the consumer price index for the Los Angeles area for the 12 months prior. A number of other requests, including a "no layoff" clause were also included in the association's proposal.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include a hearing on the Cole-Schaefer Ambulance request for a rate increase in the city; a report concerning proposed street lighting funded through the city's community development block grant; and a status report on a meeting with owners of abandoned apartment buildings in the city.

Lions will honor winning team; LVC coach to speak

Ben Hines, coach of the La Verne College baseball team, will be the speaker Tuesday morning when the La Verne Lions Club honors its winning Little League team.

The team, sponsored by the Lions, won the championship of the senior division. Each member will receive a bicentennial patch.

The meeting will be at 7:15 a.m. at the Village Inn in La Verne.

Hines coached the La Verne College team which won a national championship in 1972, and which has been ranked among the nation's top 10 college teams for the past four years. He also serves on the Olympic Committee for baseball.

Rotary to hear city consultant

Gary Taylor, vice president of Lampman and Associates, will be guest speaker at the Montclair Rotary meeting Monday noon at Henry's Restaurant in the Holiday Lodge.

Chino may have new police chief appointed by Tuesday

A new Chino police chief may be selected by next Tuesday, according to city sources.

City councilmen were "brought up to date" on the choosing of a chief at an executive session this week by City Manager Bob Fast.

The council adjourned the session to Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., at which time Fast may be ready to announce his selection.

Chino has been without a permanent chief since June 30 when Frank Meehan resigned to take the police chief's job in Redondo Beach.

Fast indicated this week that the field of 47 original applicants for the job has been narrowed to three. He declined to reveal the names of the final candidates.

Asked if either Acting Chief Louis Moreno or Capt. Tony Linza were among the final nominees for the job, Fast said, "No comment."

A five-member oral board last week considered eight of the 47 applicants, and cut that field to three. Members of the board included Orange Police Chief Merrill Duncan, Irvine City Manager William Willett, a representative of Griffenhagen and Kroeger consulting firm, Dr. Bruce Lensch, Chino dentist, and Victor Tejera, Chino resident and counselor at Pacific State Hospital.

Mrs. Douglass renamed head of commission

Mrs. Enid Douglass, director of the oral history program at the Claremont Graduate School, has been reelected to a third one-year term as chairman of the Claremont Planning Commission.

Mrs. Douglass regained the post by one point over John Serpa. Mrs. Douglass served as chairman for two years before her term ended July 1 this year.

Richard Newton was elected chairman and after a couple of meetings he was appointed to the City Council. Vice-chairman John Serpa has served as acting chairman during the interval.

Mrs. Douglass and Serpa both were nominated as chairman Tuesday night, but Mrs. Douglass received four votes to three for Serpa.

She has served on the Planning Commission since 1970.

Variety of new classes starting Monday at YMCA

Swim lessons for small children and adults, a boys and girls gymnastics class and karate lessons will be offered by the Pomona Valley YMCA starting Monday.

Mother-baby swim lessons, for youngsters from three months to three years, will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 10 to 10:30 a.m. or 6:30 to 7 p.m. for five weeks. Cost is $15.

Swim lessons for children 3 to 5 years will be offered Monday through Friday from 9 to 9:30 a.m. for two weeks, or on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 7:30 p.m. for five weeks. Cost is $15.

Adult swim lessons will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. for five weeks. Cost is $2 for YMCA members and $15 for non-members.

Gymnastics for boys and girls over six will be offered on Mondays and Wednesdays for five weeks. Beginners will meet from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., and intermediate students from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Cost is $5 for members and $10 for non-members.

Karate, for children over eight, will be offered from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays for four weeks. Cost is $15 for members and $20 for non-members.

For information about YMCA programs, persons may call 623-6433.

Genealogists plan meeting

The Pomona Valley Genealogical Society will meet Monday at 7 p.m. at the Pomona Public Library.

Mrs. Isabel Lopez de Fages will speak on "Early Spanish and Mexican Families of California."

Mrs. Fages is president of the Rancho San Jose Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, and president of the Pomona Valley Historical Society.

President vs. bureaucrats

For all the talk about "the imperial presidency" and the abuse of executive power, the fact of the matter is that a president is to a startling degree at the mercy not only of Congress but of a horde of invisible bureaucrats who are virtually immune to executive discipline.

So says university professor and columnist John P. Roche, who bases the statement on his experience as a speech writer and adviser to Lyndon B. Johnson.

Harry Truman was right when he said "the buck stops here." That is, it is the president's obligation to settle policy. From inside, however, says Roche, "you rapidly learn that the real problem is to get important decisions where they belong: on the desk in the Oval Office."

Stopping the buck at the top "does not call for displays of courage as much as it does for an efficient espionage apparatus to guarantee that key decisions are not being made by invisible bureaucrats, to make sure the buck does not stop someplace else."

The armor of this bureaucracy is civil service tenure, provided by Congress to about 98 per cent of the administrative establishment and originally considered a great reform designed to eliminate the spoils system. Roche discovered that he was one of only about 700 members of the thousands in the Johnson administration whom the President could summarily fire.

The real battle in Washington, he claims, is not between the administration and Congress. "It is between the president and a secret alliance of the legislature and the bureaucracy, who share the common objective of cutting the president down."

It is almost impossible to exaggerate the ingenuity displayed by the bureaucracy in stonewalling a presidential policy, he says. Take the example of the supply of deadly poisons retained by the CIA in defiance of a presidential order.

How could the president have found out about it? The CIA director didn't tell him. By getting one of the invisible men down about five layers to squeal on another?

Actually, says Roche, most episodes of this sort surface because of a personal grudge leading to an anonymous tip to a congressman or journalist.

Watergate, he suggests, while it was an absurd, criminal extreme, was part of a process that goes back to World War II in which presidents have been driven to improvise techniques for control of the administration.

Ironically, in his effort to create the power the textbooks say he had, Richard Nixon set in motion a train of events leading to congressional predominance unmatched in history.

Soviet gnomes

The Russians are giving the "gnomes of Zurich" a run for their money — or more accurately, the money of people who are in the market for a secret, numbered bank account, for which Swiss banks have long been famous.

According to Barron's financial weekly, "eagerness to lay hands on Western currencies is pushing the Soviet Union to unashamedly capitalistic activities."

A Russian bank in Zurich, for example, has put out colored folders advertising the charms of a secret, numbered account with its parent institution in Moscow, the Soviet Foreign Trade Bank. Such accounts can be opened in Zurich and kept in freely transferable foreign currencies in Moscow.

All the attractions of a Swiss bank account (which the United States and other foreign governments are trying to diminish) are promised by the Russians, plus something the Swiss cannot equal: free insured delivery of diamonds, gold coins and bullion bought through their bank.

What next, Mrs. Ford

Mrs. Betty Ford has upset an unknown number of Americans with her outspoken views on abortion, the Equal Rights Amendment and premarital affairs. Now it might be the turn of some radical feminists to arch their eyebrows.

The first lady met the other day with 130 women who were participating in an "Identity and Homemaking Conference" in Washington.

Accepting an award as "an outstanding homemaker," she stated that "We, too, must have our equal rights," thereby declaring herself a member of a group that has been put pretty much on the defensive by some interpretators of the feminist movement in recent years.

"Just as a career woman finds an identity through her job," she went on, "the homemaker needs to find that same sense of awareness, that same sense of self, through her job."

Support for SB 5

Dear Editor:

This is in response to your editorial of Sept. 2 wherein you stated that Common Cause was enthusiastically backing Senate Bill 5 which is commonly called the "Sunshine Law." Your editorial further stated that the bill was a toothless sham and full of loopholes.

First of all, the Senate now can operate completely in secrecy at the whim of the senators. Therefore, Common Cause believes that any bill which cracks open the door is worth supporting.

Secondly, S-5 has more teeth in it than your editorial indicates. A few of the sharper ones are as follows:

1. Meetings in the Congress or Executive Branch can only be closed for very specific reasons and only by majority vote. These reasons are tightly drawn and consistent with the freedom of information act. The bill in no way mandates the closing of any meeting.

2. If an agency closes a meeting it must announce it ahead of time, explain the reason for its action, and make a verbatim transcript of the meeting. After the meeting it must release the transcript of every portion of the meeting that did not involve sensitive matters.

3. Any individual has the right to bring suit against an agency or member of that agency for improperly closing a meeting. The burden of proof lies with the agency to justify its conduct.

The House of Representatives passed a weaker rule in the 93rd. Congress and yet that rule has resulted in great strides toward openness. Even though the House can close a meeting for any reason under its sunshine rule over 90 per cent of all House committee meetings have been held in the open since the rule took effect. The Senate, however, continues to meet in secret.

Common Cause has found that self reform among politicians comes painfully slow, but with the help of a few patriotic legislators gradual progress can be made. Senate Bill 5 may not be a perfect bill, but it is a step in the right direction. All persons interested in a more honest and open government should urge their senators to give S-5 full support. — Members of Coordinating Committee, 35th Congressional District, Common Cause

A good buy

Dear Editor:

The proposed Mid-East Israeli-Egyptian interim peace agreement lightens the horizon. It forecasts the time when all conflicts will find their resolution through persistent diplomatic efforts (or courts and law) using political and economic currency and finding the function of the military to be one of guaranteeing security—in a true sense.

For the first time we sense that a military build-up is to insure peace. The role of America as agent for both sides has a ring of truth, in this case, albeit built on our own necessity—or destiny.

The U.S. can consider this agreement a piece of work well begun, to be followed by continuing agreements. Of course, provision must be made for the P.L.O. and final treaties be under the jurisdiction of the U.N. We will need to look for more miracles, but this one gives us hope.

Considering the fact that the U.S. is spending a shocking $100 billion each year for the military and its appendages, the Mid-East agreement is very cheap, a good buy. In addition, peaceful negotiated settlements say something to America's youth who have been devastated and bear the wounds of Vietnam and Cambodia, giving them evidence that violence is not the only answer. — Cara Wingert, Claremont

Worth fighting for

Dear Editor:

Thanks for the editorial on Pomona crime. I think every concerned citizen in Pomona and surrounding communities should help support this idea. It is long overdue — that the people help curb crimes as much as possible. Pomona is a wonderful city and worth fighting for. We lived there 20 years and in Upland 12 years. — Mrs. Floyd Hughes

Malpractice

Dear Editor:

Malpractice is not limited to the medical profession, some of our recent court decisions have been a crime.

California courts have long been noted for their liberality in dishing out insurance money—today the sky's the limit, 4 million because one insurance company did not sell the right coverage, 5 million because a company failed to pay claims, 25 million each (estimated) because a couple of local hospitals were slow in stopping cardiac arrests. One juror explained; the attorney got 70%, we had to leave something for the defendent.

You, dear reader, pick up the tab, with overhead. Insurance is an increasing percentage of your bills; taxes, church contributions, you name it.

Some limit should be placed on such over-exuberance in the expenditure of our money. Maybe we should sue for malpractice. — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Clean up crime

Dear Editor:

The innocent have suffered too much. It's high time the criminal suffered for his crimes.

The judges have the power to impose stiff sentences to fit the crimes, but they choose to give them a slap on the wrist and a little pep talk and let them go about their business of crime.

I also think that it's unfair for a psychiatrist to say a criminal is cured and send him out to do the same thing over and over again. The criminal mind is a clever mind and can and has fooled the psychiatrist. I believe that juveniles should be tried as adults are for their crimes.

Their names should be in the newspaper too. The more they're protected, the more crimes they commit and the less chance we have. So let's clean up the crime in Pomona and make it a safe place to live. — M.M., Pomona

Way past time

Dear Editor:

We agree with your editorial that something must be done to try to save our city.

After moving to Pomona in 1952, we watched it grow from less than 35,000 to over 85,000 people. We were so proud of the school system, which provided a good education for our children. It was with great pride that we watched (and read about) the new Pomona Mall. It added such a lovely attraction to our city.

Now, after 23 years, we are sick at heart and very disillusioned. So many friends and neighbors have moved elsewhere — some due to fear in neighborhoods — others for the uncertainty on school campus and the type of education they feel their children are receiving.

It is very sad to walk along the deserted Mall and disheartening to know we have few places to shop here, which forces us to go elsewhere. Financial centers are fine, but many people would rather have a beautiful, safe shopping district for everyday needs.

We agree it is a very uncomfortable feeling to know you must always be on the alert for some outlandish attack, whether it be on you or a burglary in your home when you have only been away a few hours. It is way past time that something be done. Perhaps, with a tighter rein on all this crime, we may come through a winner! — Mr. and Mrs. W. Watkins

List sentences

Dear Editor:

Absolutely, keep the spotlight on crime. It is a problem that all responsible people must work together to solve. We can't hide it by not looking at it.

I am in favor, too, of printing the names of all perpetrators of crime, no matter their age. While visiting a friend in Palmdale this summer I noted with interest that their daily paper carried a listing of sentences meted out in court involving the local citizenry.

Maybe that would help to make the courts a little more responsible, too. They have fallen down so badly. — Blanche Parr, Montclair

Liberal judges

Dear Editor:

Anyone in this area whose home has been violated and robbed should stand up and be counted.

As a second generation native of this area, I am appalled at the crime and lawlessness that is going on.

Oh, for the days of the open doors, keys in car era, when people respected the rights of others and taught their children the same, no matter the race.

No burglar alarms or barred windows were needed and your home wasn't your prison. The criminals were the ones behind the bars.

Where is the justice and rights of our law abiding citizens? Right down the tubes of our liberal judicial system (whom by the way the law abiders support through our taxes) who believe that pampering criminals instead of punishing them is the way of rehabilitating them.

It's no wonder the recidivist rate is so high when our so called prison system has turned into a country club with private rooms, color TV, swimming pools, basketball courts, etc., along with conjugal visits, free room and board, plus, if the criminal has any motivation whatsoever, a free college education.

It's more than most law abiders can afford, because of increased taxes, food, clothes and the rest of the necessities of life — along with supporting the rest of the world including our enemies — and we the taxpaying, law abiding citizens pay for it all, through the nose. Thank you for letting me sound off. — Mrs. R.J. Dunavant

Hold parents liable

Dear Editor:

I have read your apology for spotlighting crimes in our city. I cannot agree with your critics that crime will go away if you ignore it. I do not believe either that publishing these crimes will stop them.

I do feel that when it gets so bad that it hits most people personally they will get to the politicians, judges, and educators who are responsible for the horrible conditions we put up with today.

You will note I do not include the police in this list. They are the victims as well as the public. We blame them for not doing their duty, but when they do they are greeted with insults, barrages, and watch their work go for nothing as the criminals are back on the street before the ink is dry on the police reports.

I believe the juveniles who are responsible for a great deal of the present problems and will be responsible for all of the future problems should be made to pay for the damage created by their childish pranks. If the parents of these juveniles were held financially responsible they might be a little more concerned about where their beloved offspring were getting their spending money.

Young boys who deliver newspapers are victims of young hoodlums. Parents cannot give their children money to go to the store for them or even give their children recess money without the danger of being beaten up. These are crimes that are not reported in the newspapers, but lead to bigger and more violent crimes.

There are many more things I would like to say. Like most of us common working folk we find it hard to put into words and also the time to write it. We are still the silent majority. Hoping for a return to a better city. — George W. Nagle, Pomona

Safe, but how long?

Dear Editor:

Anything that can be done to put a stop to the crime in Pomona has got my vote. My mother lives in south Pomona and I think of her and hope she is safe and has locked her doors and windows.

We bought our home in Montclair and feel safe here, but for how long? The crime problem is spreading like cancer. Soon there won't be any place left where a person can feel safe. Keep up the good work. — M.D.

Just in jest

Someone once said, "It's the BEFORE that shapes the NOW and helps determine the FUTURE." —And that's certainly a nice theory; but the older some of us get the more convinced we become that actually it is little more than wishful thinking. —Oh yes, we are perfectly willing to agree that the things we did in the past were largely responsible for bringing about the glorious achievements of the present. But as for the future —

—Well, to us it seems perfectly clear that if today's younger generation doesn't shape up, we're headed for future decadence.

Of course, our fathers and our fathers' fathers and our fathers' fathers' fathers, and so on ad infinitum, have been making that same claim since the dawn of civilization. So why should we old coots break with tradition? After all, making such accusations gives us a self righteous glow of satisfaction — and nobody listens to us anyway.

Over the years I have stockpiled a large supply of crocodile tears which, from time to time, I uncork and shed copiously for those poor souls who are forever pointing out how nobly they are suffering in order to make this country a better place in which to live. And since there are enough of these tears for all of us, won't you join me today in a sympathetic weep-in for those who are making the supreme sacrifice by patriotically extinguishing the Tiki torches in their gardens and patios in order to conserve energy.

Also a tearful sniffle or two might be in order for those conservationists who have been suggesting that to help conserve energy men should quit using their electric razors. Just to show you how ill informed they are about the subject they discuss so glibly, a recent survey indicates 60 per cent of the American males still use some kind of a safety razor instead of an electric shaver.

Teacher strikes are bad teaching

The problem of the schools is part of the problem of the cities: too many people, too little money. Big cities — and the bigger the city the bigger the problem — have been losing their "tax base."

That's a polite way of saying the people with money have fled. Those who are left cannot afford the services to which they have become accustomed.

Further, there is the danger factor in big-city schools. Good teachers don't have to put up with that — and don't. So they head for the hills or for other professions — leaving city schools with the leftovers.

Of course there are exceptions to what I am saying, but there are also enough irrefutable figures to prove that the quality of education has been deteriorating.

Longtime educator Robert Hutchins says, "Civilization advances or retrogresses in relation to the quality of education." We're going backward.

The quality of education and educators and the quantity of scholars is measurably less. So what do we do about it?

Schools at all levels, kindergarten to college, are hurting. Inflation, shrinking enrollments, taxpayer revolt. Many school systems are borderline insolvent. Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco school districts are tens of millions of dollars in the red.

Yet when these school systems seek to "tighten their belts," curtail spending, unionized teachers instead demand pay increases! Over the past 10 years the amount of money spent to educate one pupil in our public schools has tripled from $484 to $1,255. And teacher salaries were a substantial part of that increase, almost doubling during that decade.

Maybe they're not yet paid enough. Probably there is no way to pay a good teacher "enough."

I can appreciate the comparison teachers must make between their take-home pay and that paid city trash collectors even though it's a bobtailed year for teachers.

So I am not grading the teachers' teaching, but I am concerned about the teachers' deportment. Almost every year in recent years Chicago teachers have gone out on strike.

Previous generations of American youngsters were taught that a tantrum was no way to get their way. There were still a few youngsters who chose to lie down on the sidewalk, kick their heels in the air and threaten to hold their breath until they turned blue.

We called them "spoiled brats" and, if parents indulged them, teachers ignored them. Today the youngsters in many cities, starting back to school, find the doors blocked by demonstrating, demanding teachers blocking the doors, demanding that if they don't get their way they'll hold their breath until they turn blue.

That may be good bargaining — but it's bad teaching.

To beat inflation

Shaving lotion costs pennies

By NORMAN H. STARK

Using a soothing and refreshing lotion after shaving is a pleasant experience for any man. But it's not so pleasant to buy it at about ten times what you can make it for.

Here's another inflation-brater formula which may be made easily and inexpensively in your own kitchen.

Measure two cups of water into a container. Add one cup isopropyl alcohol (91 percent) to the water. Next, add two tablespoons of glycerin and one teaspoon of boric acid. If you want to smell nice, add a few drops of your favorite cologne. Isopropyl alcohol can be obtained from your druggist, and is not to be taken internally.

The cost of making your own aftershave lotion is approximately three cents per ounce. To determine your savings, divide the cost of your store-bought brand by the number of ounces it contains. Then compare the per ounce cost—you'll be surprised at how much you can save for so little effort.

Note: Material costs are based on the prices at retail outlets of national drug, grocery and hardware chains. These costs will vary, depending on the geographic area. If you wish to make up a larger quantity—and save even more—buy your materials at a chemical supply company (see the Yellow Pages).

Like any product you make at home, you should store this one safely, label it—listing ingredients and noting any cautions—and keep it out of reach of children.

. For a free information bulletin describing the sources of chemicals and the easiest methods of obtaining them, send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to: FORMULA BULLETIN, P.O. Box 2218, Mission, Ks. 66201.

Ann Landers

Son, 17, is no normal child

Dear Ann Landers: We have a 17-year-old son whose entire personality changed about three years ago. He has been on drugs, totaled two cars, won't attend regular school, refuses to work, comes in whenever he feels like it (drunk or stoned), has little contact with the other members of the family, doesn't care for girls (says he can't find the "right one"), has seen a psychiatrist three times, went to a mental health clinic, refuses to go back, says they are all crazy there.

The chief psychiatrist informed us they "couldn't handle the problem" but he never did tell us what the problem was. The conversation ended when the doctor said, "It is impossible to help someone who doesn't want to be helped."

We keep hoping our son will mature but he doesn't seem to be making any progress. He wears the oldest, dirtiest clothes he can find, goes barefoot most of the time, and walks on the hems of his Levis.

We are a middle-class, church-going family, have given him plenty of love and done our best. Now I ask you, is this a normal child? Is there anything on the face of the earth that can be done for him that we haven't thought of? — Distraught Parents

Dear Parents: By no stretch of the imagination can that child be considered normal. He is hostile, self-destructive, unmotivated and emotionally disturbed. If you have not had him evaluated by a neurologist I recommend it. The problem may be something more than behavioral.

Please don't sit around waiting for him to "grow up." It won't happen. Keep working with professionals and pray the boy will find a release from the prison of his warped mind.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm dating a young man who is 26, good-looking, well-dressed, drives an expensive car and always has plenty of money to spend. Funny thing is he doesn't have a steady job, just works a few Saturdays in a men's shop when he feels like it.

I hate to be nosy because he's a neat date, but I'm worried about his cash flow, which seems endless. I can't figure out where it comes from. — Money Talks

Dear Concerned: Money sure does talk but it doesn't tell where it comes from. I suggest you ask this bird some direct questions. If the answers don't add up, give Mr. Gotrocks a Methodist Handshake and send him on his way.

Dear Ann Landers: I was engaged to Clem for six months. I broke off with him because he wouldn't stop drinking. Two months ago he promised to give up the bottle forever if I'd give him one last chance. I agreed.

Well, he hasn't stopped drinking. All that has changed is that he shows up smelling of mouthwash, mints — anything to try to fool me. Last night I told Clem to leave me alone for good and consider himself "unengaged — permanently." He said, "O.K. Give me back the ring."

I feel I should keep the ring because I earned it. It's a pretty diamond, worth about $500. There must be laws about such things. Advise me, please. — Unburdened

Dear Un: In many states there are laws — and they say the woman gets to keep the ring if the man breaks the engagement. In your case, YOU broke the engagement, so hand back the sparkler, Toots.

What to do with felons

Few nations agree on what to do with their most dangerous prisoners. Canada bunches them together in one big maximum-security penitentiary. Great Britain spreads them out all over the country. Some South American nations, like Colombia, Peru, Venezuela and Bolivia, carry them off to jungle jails. And France, equipped with numerous ancient dungeons in the provinces, puts a lot of them underground. Curious, the differences.

MAYBE YOU KNEW that many a woman and man these days claims to be a witch. But did you know the origin of the word witch? Came from the Anglo-Saxon "wica" meaning "wise one."

HEMLINES

Women's hemlines go up as the economy gets better. They stay put when nothing much happens in commerce. They go down when business drops off. A client notes this ancient theory was verified again during the last year or so. Question is why. Nobody knows why, evidently. But the record indicates the pattern dates mack more than 65 years.

Q. "HOW COME we wind up with foot-and-inch measurements? How come the colonists didn't bring the metric system with them from England?"

A. England doesn't use the metric system. Never did. It's a foot-and-inch country, too.

SNOW

Winter's coming, so bear in mind, a shovelful of fluffy snow weighs about four pounds. If you lift 10 of these a minute, you'll burn up as much energy as you'd need to run up three flights of stairs. If the snow is wet, it would be like running up seven flights. A heart specialist told me that. Be careful of such exertion, he said. I will, I will!

SUBSIDY

That word "subsidy" used to refer to troops held in reserve. Literally, it means "those who sit and wait."

WHAT do women resent most? So inquires another customer of our Love and War man. Lack of attention, he thought. But Anne Murrow Lindbergh said: "I believe what a woman resents is not so much giving herself in pieces as giving herself purposelessly."

TWO BOTTLES of beer. Or two shots of hard liquor. Or two glasses of wine. Under the law in Denmark, that's how much a car driver can drink without fear of arrest. Any more than that there is jail cause.

Erma Bombeck

When you're getting older

Do you know how you can tell you're getting older?

When everyone around you gets younger. Getting old is discovering your priest smells like bubble gum, your lawyer is fighting acne, and your son's math teacher is wearing a training bra.

It's when an 8-year-old kid (who doesn't even own a sweatband) aces you in tennis. When a 16-year-old offers to parallel park your car for you when you fall apart in traffic. When a four-year-old takes the cap off a child-proof aspirin bottle for you.

It happened again last weekend when I was wandering through a department store and inadvertently found myself in the yard goods department.

It looked like Woodstock.

Young girls who couldn't have been in their teens were flipping through pattern books like they lived there. Slumping tiredly on a stool, I couldn't help but overhear their conversation.

"If it has no pattern repeat, you could get by with the 44-inch stuff and a quarter of a yard less. I made it last week in one evening." (I couldn't thread my needle in one evening.)

"There's a remnant over there I know Linda could get an entire pants suit out of."

"I'm not starting on anything until I finish the coat."

"If you can't get your size, get the next one and we'll alter the pattern."

Then a salesperson approached me. She wore braces and couldn't have been more than 12. "Could I help you with something?"

"Well, the truth is . . ."

"You need something easy? Here's a pattern with only five pieces."

"That many?" I asked. "Actually, I was looking for something rather simple."

"Look, if you have any problems with gussets or facings or handling the new fabrics, just bring it in and I'll help you with it." (Gussets? I thought you made gravy out of 'em at Thanksgiving.)

"That's terribly sweet of you," I said. "For starters, I'll have three yards of this crepe, a yard and a half of silk, and some corduroy for bedspreads."

I watched this child with pure respect as she added a row of fractions and came up with a total.

Call it pride. I didn't have the heart to tell her I don't sew.

Dr. Miller

Crow mopes after moving

DEAR DR. MILLER: It's been three weeks since we moved. It's been hardest of all on Moe, our crow. While he doesn't seem at all sick, he acts bewildered and he's certainly not his usual playful self. He's not even two years old, yet since moving he doesn't play any more, and acts sometimes like he doesn't even know me. Before we were the best of pals. What's with Moe? Why has the move hit him so hard? We've been especially careful not to frighten him. — W.S.

DEAR W.S.: Unfortunately Moe, the crow, has already lost his love for human-like experimentation. Young crows usually like new experiences, which is an indication of their intelligence. But the early need for novelty later gives way to a pronounced aversion to things strange. Moe, now an adult, has lost his positive orientation to the unknown. While still perfectly able to learn and quickly, that a given new situation is dangerous, such learning occurs only in a compulsive survival situation. Moe may yet come around to some degree as situations develop which are similar enough to those in the past, but his adaptability and general willingness to experiment with new play is gone. The neurotic fear state, initiated as a result of new surroundings, and which is similar to that found in a senile Homo sapien. This is, in fact, one of the basic differences between your birdie buddy's brain and yours (or mine). In the human, curiosity behavior continues to the onset of senility. Only humans retain and use this ability to develop up to advanced old age.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My husband doesn't think it's worth writing about, but I'd really like to know. Is an icy nose better than a cold nose, and also just how serious is a warm nose? — B. F.

DEAR B.F.: Actually, an icy nose could be the most serious of the three, depending on where it was placed. For that matter, neither an icy or cold nose is an indicator of perfect health, not as far as the canine species is concerned, anyway. Healthy dogs may have a nosetip temperature fluctuating from icy to toasty, depending on various internal and environmental changes. A hot, dry pooch's proboscis may justifiably be a cause of concern, particularly where the animal is showing other signs usually associated with illness.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I named my pet starfish Clammy because he's so fond of them. But now it's getting expensive because he eats so many. How many clams can a starfish eat, anyway? — J.A.

DEAR J.A.: Clammy's consumption would depend upon size. His (hers?) and the clam's. A starfish in an average salt water aquarium could easily stash away 60 average salt water aquarium sized clams in a week.

Dr. Lamb

Cluster headaches like migraine

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would appreciate your comments on a very painful condition I have, cluster headache. I am taking medications, which so far haven't helped much. Are there any kinds of temporary relief that you have heard of that I might try?

DEAR READER — Cluster headaches are classfied as a type of migraine headache. They are called "cluster" because they occur in a cluster of attacks, one after the other, then there may be a relatively long period of no headaches.

The headache usually begins with throbbing pain, high in one side of the nose and spreads to involve the eye on the same side and sometimes the forehead. Most victims are males.

They are treated just like a migraine headache. Ergotamine tartrate is the old standby that often helps. Sometimes Inderal (propranolol) is used or Sansert (methysergide). The latter has to be carefully supervised and is usually discontinued after five or at most six months, at least for a time, that is long enough to outlast most recurrent attacks of a cluster series.

There isn't much you can do for yourself, I'm sorry to say, except rid yourself of as many tensions as possible. But during a series of such headaches it is important to avoid all alcohol. Alcohol seems to cause these headaches during such a period. Once the series has stopped, alcohol no longer has any influence.

For more information about the various types of headaches and what to do about them, write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019, send 50 cents, a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and ask for The Health Letter number 2-9 Headache: Man's Most Common Pain.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I know you have written about hysterectomy operations in your column many times, but I have never come across one I just heard. I am 54 and soon will have a total hysterectomy performed. A new neighbor of mine frightened me. She told me she had the same operation seven years ago and has been experiencing loss of hair for a year. When she shaves her underarms or legs there is practically no growth and if any it takes months. She is also experiencing loss of hair in other parts of her body. I can see the effect this has on her. Does this usually occur after such an operation? Can anything be done or taken to prevent this or to have regrowth? I need peace of mind before having the operation.

DEAR READER — I understand your concern, and your neighbor has done you a disservice, even though it is unintentional. No, no, no, a plain hysterectomy will not cause you to lose your hair.

A total hysterectomy includes removal of the body and cervical portion of the uterus. This alone doesn't even effect the function of the ovaries. If you have the ovaries taken out, too, that is more than a complete hysterectomy. In that case, particularly in a young women, hormone replacement can be given which will do everything for you that the ovarian hormones were doing.

Loss of hair has multiple causes. It can be caused from a hormone problem, including problems with the thyroid gland, the adrenal gland, and the master pituitary gland under the brain. Hereditary factors may also be involved. Your neighbor has lost hair from other causes that apparently didn't even begin until six years after her operation.

Jacoby's bridge

Second hand high tears it

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North was a trifle weak for his Stayman two club response, but he had fallen in love with his spade sequence. He might well have passed at two diamonds, but North believed in bidding.

South had no problem about going to game. He only held 16 high-card points, but his three 10s appeared to be worth their weight in gold.

The 10 of diamonds wasn't really needed, but the other two were. He won the club queen lead with dummy's king and counted eight easy winners: Four diamonds; two clubs; and the major suit aces. Where was the ninth one to come from? Hearts, of course! All he had to do would be to find East with one heart honor. So at trick two he played dummy's three of hearts.

East had one heart honor, but he knew what to do with it. He played it right away!

South put on his ace and decided, as anyone would, that East held the other heart honor. He couldn't afford to let East in so he shifted to diamonds. East took his ace and cleared the clubs for his partner. South never got to make his second heart trick.

A Kansas reader wants to know what we open with:

The answer is that we open one diamond. We consider the opening notrump should be picture bid and part of the picture is the distribution which should be 4-3-3-3; 4-4-3-2 or 5-3-3-2 and never 5-4-2-2.

Cozy relations with Chile

WASHINGTON — The closer we examine the relationship between the U.S. government and the Chilean dictatorship, the more curious it becomes.

The military regime in Chile holds the dubious distinction of being one of the most repressive in the world. Thousands of Chileans have been arrested, beaten and tortured for their political beliefs. Hundreds more have simply disappeared without a trace.

Yet U.S. support for the dictatorship has never waned. Indeed, it's getting stronger.

The year after Chilean strongman Augusto Pinochet took over, for example, U.S. economic assistance to Chile doubled from $9.8 million to $20.5 million. According to current plans, Chile will get $77 million in 1976.

Of this, $55 million in "Food for Peace" funds alone will be earmarked for Santiago. Chile, in short, will get an 85 per cent slice of the food aid that will be pumped into all of Latin America.

On December 30, 1974, Congress cut off all military assistance to Chile. Until Congress intervened, however, military aid to Santiago was steadily climbing. It stood at $16 million in fiscal 1974.

These are merely the obvious ways Washington has helped keep the junta afloat. Occasionally we also get a glimpse of the covert assistance given to Chile.

Take, for example, the Army's "School of the Americans," located in the Panama Canal Zone. The school, stuck back in the jungle near the Caribbean Coast, has been around in one form or another for three decades. It is specifically designed to train Latin American soldiers; all classes are taught in Spanish.

To no one's great surprise, we discovered that about a third of the school's students in 1975 came from Chile — 575 out of a total enrollment of 1,765.

One popular course, entitled "Officer Combat Arms Orientation," was attended by 993 students. Over half of them — 504 — were Chilean officers.

They were given standard military training in such subjects as map reading, first aid and signal communications. The emphasis, however, was on antiguerilla warfare.

A full 16 hours of instruction, for example, were devoted to "basic concepts of counterinsurgency in urban areas." Another nine hours of "psychological operations" were taught. But the most intensive instruction was given in 125 hours in "counterinsurgency operations; antiguerilla warfare in the field."

Until Congress put an end to military assistance to Chile nine months ago, in short, the U.S. government was teaching the junta's foot soldiers how to repel the "dissidents" who oppose them.

Footnote: Ten of the 11 countries that sent soldiers to the basic officers course in 1975 are outright dictatorships. Bolivia, presided over by the repressive Col. Hugo Banzer, sent 203 students.

BEHIND BARS: Prisons seldom make news until they erupt in riots. Americans tend to forget the approximately 212,000 convicts scattered through our state and federal prisons. But all is not quiet behind bars.

A major scandal is boiling, for example, at the 130-year-old Clinton Correctional Facility, a maximum security state prison in northern rural New York.

Clinton inmates are suing prison officials, alleging that the few enforcers are themselves violating the law. Most of the allegations center around the prison's disciplinary cellblock, Special Housing Unit number 14, nicknamed "the box" by prison inmates. The suit charges that:

— Inmates are transferred to Unit 14 before the Administrative hearing which is supposed to determine whether the inmate has committed an appropriate offense.

— Guards hose down inmates locked in Unit number 14 cells with cold water which destroys their property, leaves them drenched and their clothing and bedding soggy.

Inmates have been beaten, harassed and subjected to degrading regulations such as repetitive rectal searches beyond the needs of prison security.

J. Edwin LaVallee, Clinton's superintendent and a defendant in the suit, told us the charges are "the standard kind of sympathy-arousing complaints." He denied anything improper was happening at Clinton.

"Actually," LaVallee said, "it's a pretty nice place, pretty well run."

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Ex-Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., is making some of the liberals who loved him during the Senate Watergate hearings, angry these days. He has taped an interview for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, denouncing the proposed Consumer Protection Agency. The advocates claim Ervin's arguments are fraught with inaccuracies. But they may never get a chance to rebut them. The Chamber of Commerce refuses to tell them which television and radio stations were given the Ervin tapes.

Another panelist, Sgt. Carol Walker, head of the Child Abuse Unit of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, is a native Pomonan.

She agreed that child abuse cases are often not clear cut but emphaized that law egencies seek to protect the rights of both the child and parent.

"While there is much disagreement over the causes of child abuse and the treatment of the parents, we must remember that the child of today is the parent of tomorrow. Medical testing is needed," she said.

"The child has the same rights as an adult," she added. "But the child can't reports its abuse. After a beating, we need evidence for a case against the responsible adult."

"We are getting more reports," Mrs. Walker continued. "Now we need more community resources to help the families."

She added that it takes a great deal of courage for a family to appeal for help when they know they have a problem, and there must be agencies to offer this help.

"Courts are often helpful in getting parents to therapeutic care," she said.

Philip S. Wright, deputy regional services administrator for the Los Angeles County Department of Public Social services, said the protective agencies in the valley are concerned with re-uniting a family which has had problems.

While suspected child abuse cases are supposed to be promptly reported to DPSS, Wright said "We usually become involved after the medical and legal agencies have been in on the case."

In many cases, the DPSS is responsible for placing the battered or neglected child in a foster home or other protective care after he has been released from the hospital or taken from the home.

In both 1973 and 1974, the agency handled 600 protective services referrals involving children. But, Wright said, only 10 per cent were for physical abuse. The bulk were for malnutrition, neglect or other causes.

"We need more referrals from concerned citizens and from professionals," said Wright. He added that every call, even anonymous ones, are checked.

When persons do report suspected child abuse, the confidentially of the caller is respected if the caller requests. The social services office in Pomona is at 196 W. Holt Ave., and the day phone number is 623-8822. On weekends or nights, calls may be made to 443-4057 or to police or sheriff departments.

Superior Court Judge Richard P. Byrne, another panelist, siad that while child beating arouses the emotions of the public, child neglect is what is most often seen in the courts.

"Parents have to be proven guilty beyond any doubt in cases of child abuse," said the judge. "And in these cases, sentences vary depending upon the findings and range from probation to jail."

"But most of our dealings are in the broad area of dependency and inadequate care. Of these, 80 per cent of the cases are settled by mutual agreement between DPSS and the parents who are willing to accept recommendations of the courts and the service agencies," said the judge.

Byrne urged physicians, nurses and other involved in investigating such cases to keep accurate notes and to question parents and witnesses carefully.

"A child statement cannot be used in court. Cases may be dismissed for failure of proof," he said.

Mrs. Walker pointed out that 45 children died in Los Angeles County last year as the result of abuse.

"It hurts to know that abuse exists but to be faced by people who don't want to get involved," said the deputy sheriff who is also a mother.

"We're not asking you to make a diagnosis, just report your suspicions," Mrs. Walker told the more than 100 persons at the symposium.

"Children don't vote, write letters or have money, so they may get overlooked by public officials," she said.

"If you don't get the service from the agency you contact, then complain until you get action," she added.

Physicians and nurses often suspect child beating when the injury sustained by the child does not match the story told by the parent of how the accident happened, according to Dr. Robert Dukes, head of emergency services at PVCH.

"Parents always arrive with a story about how the trauma happened," said Dr. Dukes. "But when we confront them with the fact that the injuries couldn't possible have resulted from their account of the accident, they usually break down and tell the truth."

"We can't kidnap the child then and there, but these people never run," added the physican.

"We used to just call the police department when we suspected that a child had been beaten. Now we also notify DPSS, if we can reach them," Dr. Dukes told the audience.

While the Thursday night symposium followed a year's work by the abuse committee, others in the community have been speaking out on the problem.

Arlene Pederson, chairman of psychological services for the Pomona Unified School District, said that of the 20,000 students in the district, about 10 per cent have some psychological problem due to various types of abuse.

"When a child shows up with bruises or limps, he is examined by the school nurse and proper steps are taken. But most of the youngsters we deal with are having trouble coping in school because of abuse problems at home," she said.

"An abused child is usually the scapegoat of the family. Parents are having troubles, either marital, financial, emotional or from alcohol or drugs, and they take it all out on the child."

Miss Pederson said the school district has 13 psychologists who are trained to help these children attain emotional security. The district has programs of counseling for the students as well as parent and group counseling programs.

The teachers, administrators, psychologists and nurses are working together to help the abused child and all cooperate to meet the needs of the students and their families in this field, Miss Peterson said. Miss Peterson said.

A Pomona police officer for 23 years before she recently retired due to a disability, Bonnie Miller recalls her experiences in dealing with suspected child abuse cases.

"Whenever we got a call from the hospital, a neighbor or a relative involving suspect physical abuse, we responded immediately," Mrs. Miller said. "Unfortunately, the public still has a fear of getting involved."

She reported that most of the cases involved very young parents who are not emotionally able to handle the responsibilities of the child.

"When diapers, formula making and crying babies became more than they can handle, they strike out," said the former policewoman.

"The damage done to these children is often permanent," said Mrs. Miller. "They may be physically or emotional scarred, even brain damaged, for life.

"But babies or toddlers can't seek help and usually can't even tell what happened. It us to the public to get involved," she continued.

Mrs. Miller added that all persons should immediately report any suspected cases of child beating or neglect so that the authorities can act promptly.

"Your actions may save the child's life," Mrs. Miller concluded.

Father buys his kids mountain ski resort

EAST FREETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — "What is money for except to spend it on your kids to see that they grow up right and have a good time along the way," says a McHenry, Ill., businessman who has just purchased a mountain ski resort for his three children.

"I didn't buy this place for me, I bought it for them," Capt. Davy Jones said Wednesday, referring to Intermont Ski Area in central New York and his children, Cathy, 19, Lisa, 11, and Duane, 13.

Jones, who runs a shipping firm, paid the Small Business Administration $242,000 for the 1,148-acre property about 25 miles south of Syracuse.

The federal agency had paid $250,000 for it at a foreclosure auction three years ago.

Jones has renamed the resort Calidu Sports Inc. — the name derived from the first two letters of the first names of the children.

At the peak of the mountain is a $110,000 luxury lodge, on which Jones has already spent $35,000 converting one wing into an apartment for himself.

"I have dropped $100,000 in improvements and repairs on the place so far," Jones said.

A Small Business Administration spokesman said vandalism had caused the agency to sell the property at a loss rather than hold it and risk additional devaluation.

The ski area, opened in 1966 by a Syracuse lawyer, reportedly never made enough money as a commercial venture to cover operating costs and debt service.

Man bites fox's paw

EHRA-LESSIEN, West Germany (AP) — When a fox trotted into Bernd Dauwitz's tent and stepped on his face, the West German army reservist sent it yowling by biting a paw.

Pvt. Dauwitz was zippered into a sleeping bag after a day of training at the Ehra-Lessien maneuver area.

"Suddenly, I felt a paw on my face," he told newsmen. "It was a fox. I couldn't get my hands out of the sleeping bag quickly enough. So I just bit into the fox's paw. It bawled like a baby."

Although the fox did not bite back, Dauwitz was treated at a hospital for possible rabies infection.

Thatchers mark 25th aniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Currier Thatcher of Pomona recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a buffet dinner dance held at the Pomona Ebell Club.

Hostesses for the event were the couple's daughters, Laurie, Lisa, Karen and Becky. There were 240 guests who attended, including seven members of the original wedding party. They were Mrs. Melvin Stewart, Mrs. Jack Bamesberger, Mrs. Kenneth Palmer, Mrs. Fred Terwilliger, William Thatcher, Jack Sievers and Paul Lima.

The couple was married on Oct. 8, 1950, in Pomona and has resided in this area for most of their lives.

Mr. Thatcher is the owner of the Allied Dental Laboratory in Pomona.

Mr. Thatcher is affiliated with the Lions Club, Elks 789, Masonic 246, and the Republican Club. Mrs. Thatcher is a member of Pomona Valley Hospital Auxiliary, Pomona Valley Republican Women and Purity Guild, and the Pilgrim Congregational Church Auxiliary.

University Club luncheon slated

Members of the American Association of University Women will be guests at the University Club of Claremont at their luncheon meeting on Tuesday at Griswold's.

Speakers will be Mrs. Virginia Coffey of Upland, a past president of the Pomona branch of AAUW and a former counselor at Mt. San Antonio College, and Mrs. Irene Lovewell, past president of the Claremont Branch, AAUW, who is evaluation officer at Cal Poly.

University Club members participating will be Harold F. McClelland and Richard T. Young.

Open house slated by singing group

The Pomona Valley Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., will hold an open house for prospective members at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, 600 N. Garey Ave., Pomona, Tuesday from 8 to 10 p.m.

Mrs. Ann Hulshart, membership chairman, has announced that all local women who are interested in joining the chapter are invited to attend. She reports that the group is composed of women from varied backgrounds who share a common desire to sing and to promote harmony among all women.

The chorus and quartet members will present a program in costume of demonstrating four-part harmony, barbershop style.

The Pomona Valley Chapter is one of over 500 chapters of Sweet Adelines, Inc., which exist throughout the United States (including Hawaii and Alaska), England, Canada and the Panama Canal Zone.

Off campus

You can attend college without setting foot on campus, says the Reader's Digest October issue. A program called CLEP (College-Level Examination Program) enables people to take college-credit examinations at 800 test centers throughout the U.S. For information on CLEP, consult your public library.

83rd year for club will begin

The Pomona Woman's Club begins its 83rd year with a meeting in the Pomona Public Library at 1:30 p.m., Monday.

The original members of the club were the instigators of the movement to acquire funds from Andrew Carnegie to erect the original Pomona Public Library building in 1902.

Mayor Ray Lepire will discuss important problems facing the council today. David Streeter of the library staff will discuss orange box labels of the early citrus industry.

Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Agnes McVeigh and Mrs. William T. Cox.

Rose club will hold 'Festival'

The Inland Valley Rose Club will hold its seventh annual "Festival of Roses" Saturday from noon to 6 p.m. and Oct. 19 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Montclair Plaza.

The rose show gives amateurs from Southern California the opportunity to compete for trophies. This is an American Rose Society accredited show and the judging is done by American Rose Society judges.

All amateurs are invited to participate. There are classes for all from single blooms to arrangements. There are ribbons or trophies for the winners in each class.

During the show Saturday, rose arrangement demonstrations will be held hourly beginning at 1 p.m. near the clock tower. These arrangements will be sold.

The Inland Valley Rose Club, organized in October 1968, has members from Upland, Ontario, Alta Loma, Chino, Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, Walnut, Alhambra, Fontana and San Bernardino.

The four consulting Rosarians from the American Rose Society are Jack O'Neil and Donald Jarvis of Upland, Eugene Rush of Fontana and William Hillman Jr. of Alhambra. The club also has two accredited rose judges.

Present club officers are Rush, president; Mrs. Donald Jarvis, vice president; Mrs. Jack O'Neil, second vice president; Mrs. Mary Watt, secretary; Kent R. Mount, treasurer.

The club meets each fourth Monday in the conference room of the Upland Lumber Co.

PULL OF THE PAST — Retired U.S. Army master sargent Christy Killikelly, photographed on ancestral turf at Ballyvaughan, is adjutant for an American Legion post in this remote west of Ireland area.

Doctor says cancer scare overemphasized

CHICAGO (AP) — Thousands of persons treated with radioactive iodine for thyroid problems have been unduly frightened by incomplete reports about the relationship of radiation treatments to cancer, according to a Cleveland surgeon.

In an editorial in the October issue of Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics, Dr. George Crile Jr. said the media failed to distinguish between types of radiation treatments in reporting the potential for cancer in patients who underwent the treatments.

Small doses of radiation increase the danger of thyroid cancer and persons who have had radiation treatment should have periodic thyroid examinations, Crile wrote in the magazine, published by the American College of Surgeons.

However, the danger of developing thyroid cancer from radiation treatment has been overemphasized, he said.

Frank Woolworth founded his five and 10 cent stores in 1879 at Utica.

Irish Americans yearn for home

CLOONLARA, County Mayo, Eire (AP) — "And maybe someday I'll go back to Ireland, be it only at the closing of my day ..."

Many's the night Tom Glynn heard the words to that song drifting out of the Irish bars around New York's Penn Station, and every St. Patrick's day the bands boomed it up the canyon of skyscrapers to remind him of the pledge he made to his mother. He promised her he'd return someday to County Mayo and take over the land.

Now 62 and retired after 31 years as a Long Island Railroad cop, Tom Glynn like thousands of other Irish-American pensioners has come back to the Ireland of his dreams. He sits beside a turf fire in the evening in the house that his father built on land that has been in the family for 200 years listening to the ticking of an heirloom clock on the whitewashed wall.

The windows have lace curtains, the Glynn coat-of-arms is mounted in the hallway, and his billy stick, the proud emblem of his years in America, hangs by the fire. A blackened kettle hisses on the hob. To be sure, the cottage has a horseshoe over the door, as another Irish ballad ordains, only now there is an American Flag struck through it. No telephone. No TV. But things are not as rustic as they seem. There's an electric heater in every room, a refrigerator in the corner of the kitchen, and all the latest cooking appliances.

"The electricity makes it bearable," Glynn confesses apologetically.

He turns his gaze to the fire and sorts out his reasons for coming back.

"Burglars, muggers, vandals, lawyers and judges, nights riding the trains and mornings in criminal court," the ex-cop, greying but still trim and handsome, reminisces "It was an exciting life. But this is what I came home to find: sanity and silence. It was sentiment with me. I had to come back.

"I was 17 when I left," Glynn said, looking out at his lush rose bushes and "my supermarket," a newly planted vegetable garden in the old potato patch. "There was no living here then. My father tried to raise five kids here on 30 acres. Some of us had to go."

His passage through America, like many an immigrant returning now to live off a government pension, might have been plotted by Steinbeck or written up as a case history by some social workers.

Landing in Chicago at the height of the depression with only his size and strength to recommend him, Glynn hit the "steel mills, stockyard and iron foundries, whatever was going," then turned to boxing.

At the outbreak of World War II, Glynn landed a job as a policeman with the Long Island Railroad. He liked it well enough to remain 31 years, with time out overseas as an infantryman with the 36th Texas Division. "Anzio, Salerno, Monte Casino," he ticked off the tough ones, "then we marched into Rome and got kissed."

From a tenement on Columbus Avenue, he trod the immigrant path of upward social mobility to a semi-detached in Williston Park, Queens, a suburban split level at Glen Cove in Nassau country, a son at Colgate, another at Boston University, then, following a growing trend among American cops, firemen and other civil servants, home to the ancestral acres.

"It's a funny thing," Glynn laughed, "around here I'm known as the big Yank. All the time I was in America, I was known as the big donkey."

A stranger on both sides of the ocean, Tom Glynn's identity enigma points up the pathos and predicament of Ireland's wild geese flying home to roost. For more than a century after the potato famine of the 1840s, people were Ireland's chief export. Now, as the growing retirement colony attests, these tragic balance-of-trade figures are beginning to go the other way.

Each month the U.S. embassy in Dublin mails out more than 7,000 Social Security, Veterans Administration and Railroad Retirement Board checks. New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and other cities with large Irish-American populations similarly mail off checks to thousands of retired municipal employes who have returned to the land of their ancestors to finish their days.

Ireland is by no means unique as a retirement haven. Italy and Greece, with larger populations and similar contributions to the American melting pot, receive far more federal benefit checks, in Rome, the monthly Social Security glut is so great the processing of checks has been farmed out by the embassy to a commercial bank.

The Irish, like the others, return for complex reasons: to stretch their retirement dollars in a less affluent society, to escape the crime, pollution, racial tensions and get-ahead pressures of urban America, to rediscover their youth and reap the nostalgia of long years of yearning.

"The sad thing is that many find Ireland has changed with the years and they have changed even more," lamented Father Michael Geaney, a curate in Dalkey, a seaside suburb of Dublin that attracts pensioners because of its proximity to the countryside. "They find a new kind of violence O'Connell Street is blocked off for a bomb scare or the airport ringed with soldiers for a security check. Some give up because of the weather, and the lack of central heating. The summers are fine, but winter proves how American they've become."

Only one house in 10 in Ireland has central heating, but other things have moved more rapidly with the times. The parish priest now has long hair, the nuns drive station wagons. The little thatched house by the side of the road trembles when the huge trailer trucks pound by. The pub has television and jukebox, instead of a sing-song around the fire at night or conversation exploding with wit and imagination. Burglary and house breaking are on the increase, to support the rebel cause up north, and in border areas people venture out cautiously on the roads at night for fear of being hijacked or forced to deliver a "proxy" bomb into Ulster.

The crock of gold that the fairies promised at the end of the rainbow would come in handy at today's prices in Ireland. Last year, inflation was the highest in Europe after Iceland and Turkey, but in recent months it has dipped below Britain's 26 per cent rate. Potato prices have risen 138.5 per cent during the year, making almost a luxury item of what once was the staple of the peasantry.

As a U.S. embassy economist points out: "The economic advantage of coming back to Ireland is rapidly disappearing."

The sentimental attractions can also prove illusory.

In America, they sought the consolation and comradeship of Irish bars, gaelic football clubs, the dances run by the Hibernian Society and various country organizations like the Moymen and the Sons of Galway.

Back in Ireland, they seek out the company of other ex-Yanks, often miles and counties away, and band together in veterans' organizations and clubs like the Irish-American Society in Charlestown, County Mayo, which draws 31 members to its monthly meetings.

Job program aids young offenders by hiring them as part-time employes

NEW YORK (AP) — He's only 14 years old but he looks older, reflecting the street-savvy and despair of many like him who have never really left Manhattan's Lower East Side where they were born.

Last year, when he was 13, Pablo was booked at a local precinct house for mugging a young woman after a day of swimming at a city pool.

After three months of waiting, a family court judge finally gave the youngster one year of probation. Often such an action has little effect on a ghetto youth with a seemingly bleak future. But in Pablo's case there was a new twist to the story.

The probation officer got him into an experimental program on the Lower East Side run by Henry Street Settlement and called SEA (Supported Employment for Adolescents). Its purpose is to provide part-time public service jobs in the community along with individual, group and family counseling, educational support, and recreational and cultural activities.

For juvenile offenders, it is the chance to earn money ($50 per week summers and $30 per week during the school year) and to build an attitude and confidence which may lead toward a regular job and a more certain future.

The director of the Henry Street program is Anne D. Rudenstine, a former planner at the Vera Institute of Justice, New York City.

"We want to give these kids the feeling that they have some control over their own lives," Mrs. Rudenstine says. "Up until now it really hasn't been that way."

Mrs. Rudenstine supervises some 30 teen-age youngsters under a grant of $180,000 from the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The youths work on such projects as the design and construction of a small park or playground for the community, tutoring children after school, operating a clothing drive for burned-out families, and the cleanup and maintenance of parks in the community.

An independent organization will be retained to assess the program's impact on reducing delinquent behavior and in helping youngsters to develop positive home, school and community relationships, according to Mrs. Rudenstine.

Both the New York State Division of Criminal Justice Services and the Mayor's Criminal Justice Coordinating Council are assisting in the administration and monitoring of the grant.

"We want to show that community rehabilitation programs are superior to expensive, crime producing institutions," said Bertram Beck, executive director of Henry Street Settlement, the 75-year-old agency that serves Manhattan's Lower East Side and works toward helping its residents adjust to the uncertainties of urban life.

As for Pablo, he likes SEA well enough. He reports daily to the Settlement where he's assigned to a work crew which, supervised by counselors, does work for merchants and individuals in the neighborhood.

"It's a job, man," he says today. But he's also gone as far as to think of possibly going to college and perhaps becoming an electrical engineer. That's a long way from where he was last year.

Spain losing ground?

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Relations between the Vatican and Spain, the "most Catholic of Catholic countries," are rapidly deteriorating.

Pope Paul VI appears to be disassociating the Church from the Spanish state and its 82year-old head, Gen. Francisco Franco, after Franco allowed the execution of five Spanish political terrorists despite Vatican pleas for mercy.

Vatican sources claim the Pope reacted to the executions far more sharply — and on a personal plane — than had been anticipated.

When the death sentences were imposed, the pontiff issued two strong appeals for "magnanimity and clemency," expecting Franco to heed the pleas, taking into account the theme of this Holy Year, "reconciliation" and amnesty for prisoners, particularly political.

Spain pardoned six of the 11 condemned persons, but despite an unusally strong personal appeal to Franco by the Vatican, the other five were executed. The appeals had pointed out that a Spanish-born friar, Juan Macias, was to be declared a saint the day after the executions.

Vatican informants say the plea did not even draw a response. Hours after the executions, the Pope termed the killings "murderous repression" while at the same time denouncing terrorism as a means to achieve ends.

Spain boycotted the canonization ceremony of Friar Marcus and called its Vatican envoy, Gabriel Fernandez de Valderrama y Moreno, home for "consultations."

He has since returned to the Vatican, an indication that Franco — at this time anyway — intends to maintain Spain's diplomatic contacts.

The executions, however, have shaken the Vatican, inflicting a wound some say is unhealable unless Franco and the regime softens its stand against opponents.

The executions supplied what some call the final body blow to relations that had been cordial since Franco was held as the protector of the faith during the Civil War that brought him to power.

Except for the Basque clergy, Franco's National Movement was supported by Spanish bishops and the Pope. Franco was granted influence in church matters that leaders of other Western Countries were denied.

But in the 1960s, the Church tried to regain those rights. Although the talks continue, no solution is expected while Franco lives.

In February 1974, Bishop Antonio Anivares of Bilbao defended autonomy for the Basques and was placed under house arrest. Earlier, some Basque priests were jailed.

Throughout these episodes the Vatican backed the clergy, but also at the same time seldom attacked the Franco regime directly.

The Pope, however, is portrayed as determined not to aggravate the split with Franco. But should the Franco regime act against liberal Catholic priests, the Vatican is reported ready to react quickly and strongly.

'In the last few days, we were being asked why the Pope doesn't speak," said Virgilio Levi, deputy editor of the Vatican newspaper l'Osservatore Romano. "We told them the Pope doesn't speak he acts."

THE LAST DRIVE — After a summer of packing tourists through Yosemite National Park, a herd of 300 horses moves 28 miles to winter pasture near Mariposa in a drive that will end a 100-year tradition. Next year they will be trucked from Yosemite Valley, according to Yosemite Park and Curry Co. park concessionaire.

Tempers should be lowered

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The president of the General Assembly wants lower tempers when kings or presidents of countries speak.

Chiefs of state should avoid making provocative speeches because rebuttals will be discouraged, the assembly president, Prime Minister Gaston Thorn of Luxembourg has said.

Thorn launched his antipolemics policy too late to stop a continuing furor over Ugandan President Idi Amin's address a week ago calling for the "extinction of Israel as a state" and declaring that Zionists run the United States.

In a San Francisco speech later, American Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan called Amin a "racist murderer," bringing angry attacks by African countries in the General Assembly against Moynihan and the United States.

Another chief of state noted for outspokenness, Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus, addressed the assembly Tuesday. Before Makarios spoke, Thorn told a reporter, "I asked him not to provoke other delegates, considering that the president will not permit the right of reply."

Many listeners rated Makarios milder than usual in a speech offering to disband the Greek Cypriot national guard in return for withdrawal of all foreign troops, including 40,000 Turkish soldiers occupying the northern part of the island since last year.

Thorn told the assembly it would be desirable to avoid polemics with heads of state, out of courtesy and to expedite debate.

Then he persuaded the Spanish ambassador not to reply to a speech by President Luis Echeverria of Mexico denouncing the execution of five terrorists last month in Spain.

Ambassador Jaime de Pinies of Spain complied while protesting that no one should be allowed to "hide behind the skirts of a head of state."

Symphonies in U.S. striking sour notes over pay

PITTSBURGH (AP) — America's major symphony orchestras, thrown financially off-key by spiraling inflation, have been striking sour notes in contract negotiations. Nearly half of them have been silenced by musician walkouts in the past three years.

Symphony musicians in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Denver and Cleveland are among those who have recently engaged in strikes for higher salaries and more liberal benefits. The 104 members of the Pittsburgh Symphony were the latest to participate in the apparent trend toward a hardline musicians' union position.

Pittsburgh musicians walked off their jobs last week after rejecting a $90-a-week raise that would have given them a $20,000 miminum annual salary for a 20-hour work week at the end of three years.

A walkout in Baltimore was narrowly averted last weekend when musicians agreed to accept a $50-a-week pay hike over three years, bringing the base salary to $13,500 at the end of the contract.

Musicians' contracts with orchestras in Washington, D.C., and Detroit have expired, but no strike votes have been taken to date.

Seymour Rosen, managing director of the Pittsburgh Symphony and senior member of the National Endowment of the Arts' music advisory panel, is among performing arts figures who believe musicians' demands are threatening the survival of some orchestras.

"We are dealing with funding problems that are insurmountable. If you follow the projections for the next five years, you're going to find deficits like you never saw unless something massive happens," Rosen said in an interview.

The advisory panel on which Rosen serves establishes guidelines and priorities for handing out federal grants to the arts. He said that when the fund was established in 1965, $7 million was appropriated. Last year, $75 million was earmarked for the arts, and President Ford has requested $82.5 million for the current fiscal year, Rosen said.

But even so, "most of the dollars we get from the government today is actually a purchase of service," Rosen said, explaining that the money is often granted only for specific projects that wind up costing more than the government provides.

"We are finding ourselves spending more and more to get the government dollar," he said. "Hopefully, the government will reach a stage of sophistication in funding where, rather than buying the service, they might support us simply because we are the Pittsburgh Symphony or the New York Philharmonic, and are valid, well-qualified organizations."

In addition to recent symphony strikes, a Broadway musicians' walkout in New York City has shut down all nine musicals for nearly three weeks.

Musicians strikes, mostly for higher wages, have affected 13 of the nation's 28 organizations listed as major symphony orchestras by the American Symphony Orchestra League, Inc.

According to annual budgets, the league lists major symphonies in Atlanta; Baltimore; Boston; Buffalo, N.Y.; Chicago; Cincinnati; Cleveland; Dallas; Denver; Detroit; Houston; Indianapolis; Kansas City, Mo.; Los Angeles; Milwaukee; Minneapolis; New Orleans; New York (2), Philadelphia; Pittsburgh; Rochester, N.Y.; St. Louis; San Antonio, Tex.; San Francisco; Seattle; Salt Lake City; and Washington.

"Without the arts, life would be rather barren," said Murray Feldman, principal second violinist in Pittsburgh. "These are the enriching ingredients that make life more than just existence."

Feldman, 60, was sandwiched between two cardboard signs, walking a picket line for the first time in his 40-year musical career.

"I don't think any of us like this," he said. "We're artists, but we're also workers.

49th season

SGV symphony set

The San Gabriel Valley Symphony, conducted by Giora Bernstein, will open its 49th season with a concert at the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium Nov. 7. The theme of the season is "Bicentennial Symphony Celebration." This is Bernstein's second season on the podium. A professor of music at Pomona College, he is on a year's leave of absence, serving as professor of music and conductor of orchestras at the University of Colorado in Boulder.

Bernstein is founder and music director of the Claremont Music Festival. He has held conducting assignments with the Boston Chamber Orchestra, the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra and others. In addition to his appearances with the San Gabriel Valley Symphony, he will be making guest appearances in Central America, Eastern Europe and the Far East.

Seven concerts will be given during the Bicentennial Symphony Celebration with performances at the San Gabriel Civic and Citrus College auditoriums.

Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 in D Minor will be presented Dec. 6 at Citrus College, featuring guests soloists and the Citrus College Choir under the direction of Ben Bollinger.

Sidney Harth, solo violinist and a conductor of wide experience, will perform Menotti's Conceerto for Violin and Orchestra with the symphony on Jan. 24.

GIORA BERNSTEIN

Monti Grutzmaker, flutist, will be featured soloist in Griffes' "Poem for Flute and Orchestra" for the March concert. Grutzmaker, a resident of Altadena, is starting his ninth season with the San Gabriel Valley Symphony as principal solo flutist. He has appeared since 1967 as solo flutist in the annual Los Angeles Bach Festival and has been active as soloist with the Los Angeles Baroque Ensemble. Grutzmaker has his M.A. in Music from USC and is an instructor at several local colleges.

Azusa Fijita, pianist from Japan, will perform Ravel's concerto in G for Piano and Orchestra as part of the May concert.

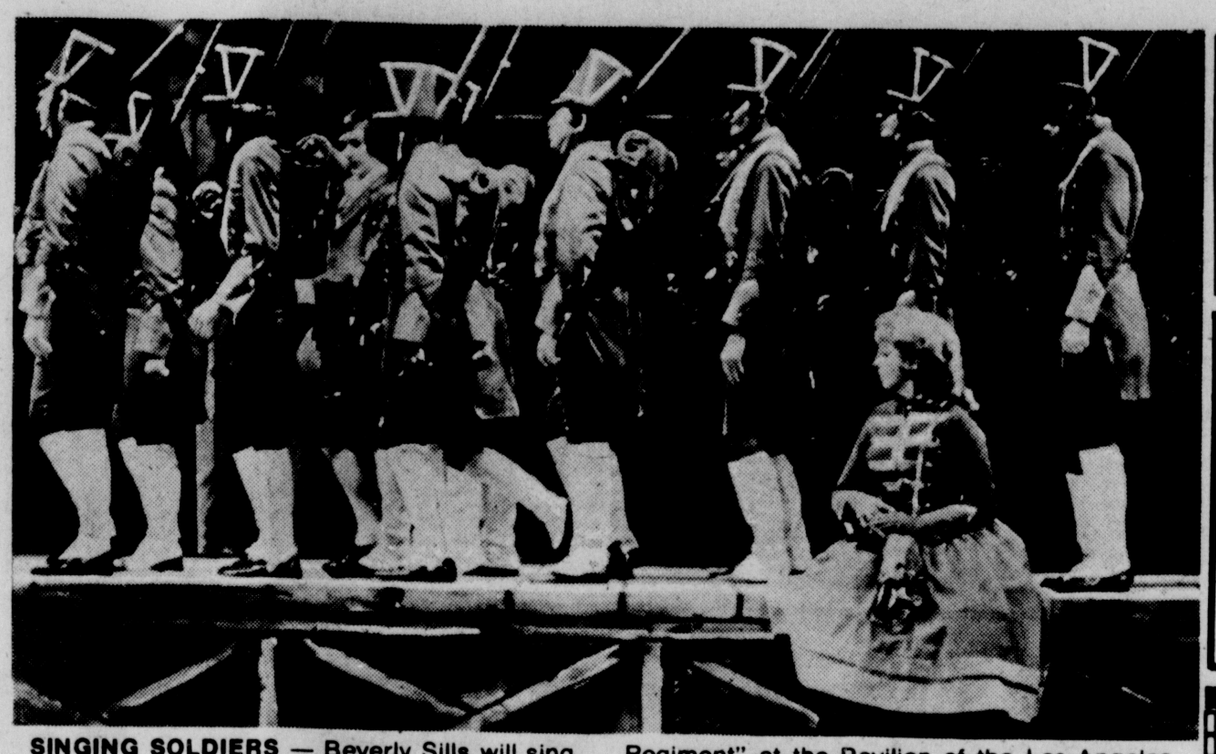
The San Gabriel Valley Symphony Orchestra is sponsored in part by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, the Los Angeles County Music and Performing Arts Commission, the city councils of several communities and business contributors.

The San Gabriel Valley Symphony Association is now conducting its annual membership drive. Season membership holders are entitled to attend six concerts plus the annual Young Artists' Auditions which are open to outstanding young musicians throughout the county.

Family memberships entitle entire families to attend all concerts. Benefactors ($35 and up) will receive recognition in Concert Season Programs. Membership in the San Gabriel Valley Symphony Association also includes invitations to rehearsals, receptions and all San Gabriel Valley Symphony Association sponsored events.

Season membership donations are student, $5; single membership, $12.50; family membership, $25; sponsor, $35; patron, $50; participating member $100; sustaining member $200; Chair Sponsor, $500; and life member $1,000. All donations are tax deductible.

Information and a brochure describing the Symphony's "Bicentennial Symphony Celebration" season may be obtained by writing to the San Gabriel Valley Symphony Association, 18824 E. Foothill Blvd., Azusa, 91702 or by calling (213) 963-5415.



SINGING SOLDIERS — Beverly Sills will sing the title role in Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment" at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center Nov. 14 and 16.

Opera slated at Fullerton

The Opera Workshop of Cal State Fullerton will present "Opera Gala" in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Saturday and next Sunday.

On the program will be scenes from Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," Debussey's "Pellas et Melisande," Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro" and "Cosi fan Tutte," Verdi's "Rigoletto" and "La Traviata," Rossini's "Barber of Seville," and Bizet's "Carmen."

Tickets for the presentation may be obtained from the School of the Arts box office, 870-3371.

The program will be directed by Michael Kurkjian, musical director of the Lyric Opera Association of Orange County and director of recent productions for the Greek Theater in Los Angeles.

"We will be featuring some of our most outstanding vocal students during these performances," said John C. Lueck, director of the opera workshop and assistant professor of music at Cal State Fullerton.

Appearing in the "Opera Gala" are Melissa Tosh, Costa Mesa; Heidi Lasley, Leslie Morgan, Stan Nickel, Diane Pilcher, Philip Ramey and Judy Schmidt, Fullerton; Wayne Eikenberry, Glendora and Nancy Bliss, Hawthorne.

Miss Bliss and Miss Lasley appeared in this summer's Laguna Beach production of "Madame Butterfly." Eikenberry, Miss Morgan, Nickel and Ramey all sang leading roles in last season's "The Magic Flute" at Cal State Fullerton.

Dropping colleges scores: a sign of erosion of values?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent drops in college entrance examination scores may reflect high school students' more relaxed attitudes about attending college, says the president of the Educational Testing Service.

"It's no longer true that if you're in the top quarter of your class, you think you have to go to college," William W. Turnbull said Wednesday.

He added that a national preoccupation with students' test scores is on the wane. ETS, of Princeton, N.J., administers the college entrance exam and other tests.

Speaking to a group of reporters at a Washington Journalism Center seminar, Turnbull said many high school students are more willing to question their parents' values and concerns with higher education than were students of the early 1960s.

"I would speculate that in the early 1960s, there was a greater acceptance on the part of young people that one worked hard and tried to make it in the system," Turnbull said. "That acceptance of the adult middleclass value system has been eroding since the 1960s."

Today's students are "more willing to abandon parental values and experiment with values of their own choosing," he said.

Another reason why many students are more relaxed about getting into college is that there are more colleges now, Turnbull said.

"I attribute this to a rise in community colleges. Kids today know they can get into the smaller colleges.

"In almost every area of the country, there is a college in reach ... They're more willing to go to a college nearby than to a more competitive school."

Turnbull also said that in the past, some students have been penalized because their cultural backgrounds did not prepare them to answer some test questions.

However, changes have been made in test methods.

As an example, Turnbull said that in six areas along the Mexican border, stretching from Brownsville, Tex., to Imperial Valley, Calif., testing services are beginning to rephrase questions, using a dialect familiar to students who have grown up in the area.

"Some of these students have done very well, better than their teachers expected," Turnbull said.

Biofeedback: making up your mind to curb stress ills

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A technique that "is still pretty much of a mystery" is curing chronic phychosomatic illnesses by teaching patients to tap power within their own minds, doctors reported Wednesday at a national medical seminar here.

Speakers at the first National Congress on Integrative Health said patients using a system called biofeedback have learned to alter their blood pressure, stop migraine headaches and control asthama attacks simply by concentration.

"Biofeedback is the yogi of the west," said Dr. Elmer Green, head of the psychophysiology laboratory at the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kan., an institution pioneering research in the technique.

He said biofeedback harnesses "the placebo effect," the well-documented phenomenon of patients improving merely from suggestion after taking a fake medicine.

"The placebo effect is one of the most powerful things known to medicine," said Dr. Green. "That power hasn't been utilized."

Biofeedback uses senors that monitor a patient's skin temperature, brain function or nerve action. These signals are amplified and then displayed on a dial. The patient is shown the dial reading and told to change it simply by concentration.

Dr. Green said that patients, in effect, are taught to consciously affect some bodily functions which normally are controlled by the unconscious mind.

A high rate of success of the technique has been shown for psychosomatic illnesses, or ailments with a mental instead of physical origin. Dr. Green said 50 to 80 per cent of all medical complaints originate from psychological stress.

Dr. Arthur E. Gladman, a California psychiatrist, reported he has used biofeedback to successfully treat such disorders as migraine headache, Raynaud's Disease (a circulatory disorder), asthma, peptic ulcer and chronic pain.

He said he has used the technique on 175 patients and experienced some degree of success with each one, but admits "biofeedbacks is still pretty much of a mystery."

The patients, he said, ranged in age from 11 to 84 years old and all had ailments caused by some type of emotional and psychological stress.

Through biofeedback, said Dr. Gladman, the patients learned to control the internal functions that were causing the illness.

"If a person can be made aware of an internal function, he can change it," said the doctor. "Usually, any change in an internal state causes a change in an emotional state."

"Many patients feel they are at the control of outside forces," said the psychiatrist. "When they develop a way to control internal forces, they develop a new awareness of self. It enables individuals to view the world in a new way."

A chief benefit, he said, is that the technique is helping patients control stress, the biologic response to the environment. Stress is thought to be central to many ailments and modern society, he said, is providing unprecedented levels of stress.

Such problems are money, marriage, job and "just making the house payment," said Dr. Gladman, often is recognized by the brain as stress. The body reacts with a "flight or fight" reaction, just as ancient man did when he was endangered in battle.

Sly Tiant baffles Reds

BOSTON (AP) — After crafty Luis Tiant had dispensed with the Cincinnati Reds on a neat five-hitter and shut them out 60 in Saturday's opening game of the World Series, Boston's pitching patriarch was asked what weapons he had used against the power-laden national League champions.

"Oh," he said, "slider, curve, change up, knuckleball, hesitation, and then, the motion."

He forgot to include his bat.

It was Tiant's seventh-inning single that started a six-run Boston rally and shattreded what had been a tense pitching duel with young Don Gullett of the Reds.

"The hit," shrugged the veteran right-hander who will celebrate his 35th birthday next month. "I might not get another one for six months."

That was an optomistic estimate. It took him three years to get this one. Stripped of his bat by the American League's designated-hitter rule, Luis had been to the plate only once since 1972. But his seventh-inning leadoff single started the rally that broke Saturday's game wide open. Until then, the man with a million motions had dueled Gullett to a scoreless standoff.

Tiant was called for a balk in the fourth inning, reviving the controversy over his unorthodox pickoff motion. After a furious argument, he tried no more pickoffs but then, he really didn't have to, allowing only six baserunners after the dispute.

Until the seventh inning, the man with a million motions dueled Gullett to a scoreless standoff. Twice Red Sox runners had been cut down trying to score as Gullett squirmed out of trouble. Gullett tried to get away in the seventh but this time the Red Sox caught him.

After Tiant opened with his surprising single Dwight Evans bunted. Gullett hesitated for a moment and then tried to get Tiant at second base. But he was too late and Boston was in business with two one and none out.

Denny Doyle followed with a single to left and Tiant, advancing one base at a time, made it to third.

"I was hacking for that hole," said Doyle, whose hit went to the opposite field. "I was trying to go that way."

KNBC (4), 10 a.m.

With the bases loaded, Carl Yastrzemski came to the plate, the acknowledged leader of the Red Sox had made a circus catch to stifle a Reds' rally in the top of the inning, and this time Yaz contributed with his bat, lining a hit to right field.

The runners held, sensing that Ken Griffey might have a chance for the ball. Yaz knew better, "No chance for him," Yaz said. "I placed it just right."

When the ball dropped in front of Griffey, Tiant tottered toward the plate and Griffey gunned the throw in the direction of catcher Johnny Bench, who already had tagged out two baserunners, but first baseman Tony Perez cut off the throw and Tiant crossed the plate—twice.

The first time he missed it.

"I knew I missed it," he said, "By about a half inch. Nobody had to tell me."

Tiant went back and touched the plate to make Boston's first run official. It was the only one the Cuban-born pitcher needed but the Red Sox came around with five more.

Carlton Fisk drew a basesloaded walk from reliever Clay Carroll, forcing in the second run. Then after reliever Will McEnaney struck out Fred Lynn, Rico Petrocelli stroked a two-run single and Rick Burleson's third hit of the game drove in another. Cecil Cooper's sacrifice fly completed the six-run rally.

For Tiant, that was much more than enough. He wiped out the last six Reds in order, completing his masterpiece with only 113 pitches.

He made 13 of those deliveries to the dangerous Bench in the fourth inning after Tiant's controversial pickoff move to first base caused umpire Nick Colosi to call a balk on him.

Tiant had wiped out the first 10 Cincinnati batters in order before Joe Morgan singled with one out in the fourth. Now the cat-and-mouse-game between Tiant and Morgan began. The Red Sox righty with the herkyjerky move threw over to first base four times, once almost catching Morgan leaning the wrong way. On his fifth throw Colosi of the National League signaled the balk. "It was a double dip of the knee and it stipulates balk," Colosi said. "Moving the knee is the breaking point to throw and he moved it twice. Anytime you deceive a baserunner it's a balk. It's up to the judgment of the individual umpire. I saw a balk and I called it. What's the big deal about it?"

Big deal, of course, was Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson's pre-Series contrention that Tiant's pickoff move was illegal.

"I knew he (the umpire) was going to be watching but I didn't change my style," said Tiant, who said he had never been charged with a major league balk in 11 seasons. "I've been doing the same things all my life. Sure I got mad. But I realized that he has to do his job and you can't crucify a guy for that."

Boston Manager Darrell Johnson argued with Colosi after the balk call but would not discuss the matter with newsmen. "I have never discussed an umpire's decision with the news media in my life and won't start doing it now," he said.

Tiant put the matter out of his mind, buckling down to get Bench on popup, then ending the inning by striking out dangerous Tony Perez.

Tiant issued only two walks in the game, both of them intentional, to Cesar Geronimo, the No. 8 man in the Cincinnati lineup. Both times the strategy brought up Gullett with two out and both times, Tiant got out his opponent. In the seventh, Gullett gave the 35,205 Fenway Park fans a scare that second baseman Doyle had to snare.

"It was a little flare and it was slashing away from me," Doyle said. "I didn't think I'd get to it at first."

Doyle's play was the second defensive gem of the inning by the Red Sox. After George Foster had opened with a single, Yastrzemski took a hit away from Dave Concepcion with a tumbling catch in left field.

"I have my own theories on playing left field here," said Yaz. "There's no sense in playing deep. I play behind the shortstop. I try to take line drives and bloop hits away from the other team's offense.

He succeeded on that play and the catch's importance was magnified when, after Foster was caught stealing, Griffey doubled into the right field corner.

But Tiant escaped the jam and that was Cincinnati's last gasp. The next time the Reds came to the plate, Boston had six runs on the scoreboard and the game was gone.

Ironically, no ball was hit to the menacing left field wall that batters love and pitchers fear so much. Both teams get another shot at the Green Monster today when Cincinnati tries to square the Series with right-hander Jack Billingham opposing Boston left-hander Bill Lee.

How tense was Lee about today's second game?

Well, he attended Boston's locker room celebration after the opening-game victory wearing a beanie with a three-bladed propeller on top.

Winners can get away with that and the Red Sox were winners in the opener, thanks to Tiant's arm....and bat.

Kings lose big again

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Rookie Bryan Trottier scored three goals and added two assists Saturday night, leading the New York Islanders to a 7-0 rout of the Los Angeles Kings in a National Hockey League game.

It was the second consecutive one-sided defeat for the Kings, who are still looking for their first goal of the season. Los Angeles was beaten 9-0 by Montreal in its opener Wednesday night.

The 19-year-old Trottier, playing only his second game in the NHL, netted his first goal at 16:26 of the opening period from 10 feet in front. Gerry Hart converted his own rebound to make it 2-0 just 18 seconds later on assists by Trottier and Clark Gillies, who had four assists in the game. Jude Drouin made it 3-0 at 19:07.

Bell runs wild for USC

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Explosive Ricky Bell, the nation's leading rusher, gained 217 yards and Southern California got some help from defensive back Danny Reece Saturday as the third-ranked Trojans throttled Washington State 28-10 in a Pacific-8 Conference football game.

Bell's performance, his third 200-yard game of the year, came on 38 carries and the 215-pound tailback said he didn't mind carrying the ball 38 times.

"I feel very good," said the junior. "I didn't get tired. I think I could have carried it 45 times or so.

"Each week I get accustomed to carrying it more and more. The body is getting conditioned to it."

Bell had never run more than 31 times in a game before and he had 21 carries by halftime Saturday.

Bell went into the game with 723 yards and now has 940 and is being mentioned in the same breath with O.J. Simpson, the Trojan who won the Heisman Trophy. Simpson, in two years at USC, had just five 200-yard games.

Reece, in addition to some scintillating punt returns, also killed one Cougar drive with a diving interception in the end zone as the Trojans improved their career record against Washington State to 32-4-4.

Reece, a 187-pound senior defensive back, countered some great punting by the Cougars' Gavin Hedrick by returning five of his booming kicks for a total of 125 yards.

Reece's first return of 33 yards gave the Trojans good field position at the Washington State 30. Seven plays later quarterback Rob Hertel faked to Bell, kept the ball himself and scored from the two for the first Trojan touchdown.

Washington State failed to move the ball on the next series and Hedrick's 44-yard kick was returned 64 yards by Reece for the second USC touchdown and made the score 14-3.

The Cougars scored first midway through the first quarter as John Hopkins directed a versatile attack from the Washington State 40. His pass to Dennis Pearson for 24 yards brought the ball to the USC 27 and five plays later Chuck Diedrick kicked a 24-yard field goal with 8:44 gone.

However, Washington State, now 2-3 and 0-2 in Pac-8 play, failed to capatalize on a number of breaks as Bell took. USC, 5-0 and 2-0 in the conference, ran the ball 23 times in the first half and 21 of the carries and 89 of the team's 103 total offensive yards in the half belonged to Bell.

Hertel, starting in place of the injured Vince Evans, was unable to move the Trojans on the first series and USC got a big break when an apparent interception by Washington State linebacker Scott Mullennix was dropped on the Southern Cal 35 yard line.

On the next series, Bell carried six consecutive times before Mullennix made his third tackle of the series and Glen Walker was forced to punt for the Trojans.

But Walker kept WSU in a hole most of the first half, driving three consecutive punts out of bounds at the Cougar 11 and a fourth was caught on a fair catch at the Washington State four.

Hertel got another break with five minutes gone in the second quarter when Tony Cook, a Cougar defensive back, nearly intercepted a pass intended for Randy Simmrin. Had he caught it, Cook had 50 yards of clear field ahead of him to the goal line.

Sciarra leads Bruins past Stanford, 31-21

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Deceptive John Sciarra ran for UCLA's first two touchdowns on quarterback keeper plays and directed a decisive fourth-period scoring drive Saturday as the Bruins beat Stanford 31?1 in the Pacific—8 football opener for both teams.

The Bruins moved 79 yards for their third touchdown, with Kenny Lee scoring on an eight-yard run after the Cardinals' Don Steveson had cut the UCLA lead to 17-14 early in the final quarter.

Lee scored again with two minutes left in the game ended after linebacker Frank Stephens intercepted a pass and returned the ball to Stanford's 10-yard line.

Sciarra and tailback Wendell Tyler each rushed for more than 100 yards in the victory which made UCLA's season record 3-1-1. The option-specialist quarterback accounted for more than 200 yards with his running and passing.

UCLA marched 71 yards for a touchdown the first time it had the ball, with Sciarra diving one yard for the touchdown, but led only 7-0 at halftime despite moving deep into Stanford territory twice in the second period.

Sciarra scored on a five-yard run as UCLA opened the second half with an 80 yard drive which featured Tyler's 45-yard run.

Stanford, 1-3-1, then got its first touchdown on a 64-yard pass play from Mike Cordova to Tony Hill but Brett White kicked a field goal for the Bruins to make the score 17-7 late in the third period.

Cordova threw another touchdown pass to Hill with one second remaining in the game.

Cordova was being booed by what sounded like a majority of the 52,500 Stanford Stadium fans before he fired the long third-period touchdown pass. The quarterback passed for only 62 yards in the first half but finished with 19 completions for 249 yards.

Series may run afoul of weather

BOSTON (AP) — National Weather Service forecasters say showers are likely for today, when the Cincinnati Reds meet the Boston Red Sox in Game No. 2 of the World Series.

Sox officials said if the game is rained out, it will be played Monday at 1 p.m. Tickets for today will be honored on Monday, the team said.

The forecasters predicted temperatures in the low 60s for Sunday.

Garlits may retire today

By CURT WEBSTER
PB Correspondent

The man in the asbestos fire suit meant every word.

And as he said it, as the persistent rumor became confirmed fact, Don Garlits added an element of genuine drama and a sense of history to today's sixth annual National Hot Rod Association Supernationals/World Finals that are rarely present in a mere sporting event.

Garlits, the 24-year drag racing veteran who virtually pioneered the sport as it is known today, announced Saturday afternoon that the 1975 Supernationals could well represent his final drag competition as a professional.

Indeed, his provisional retirement was probably the only single event which could upstage his achievement earlier in the afternoon of posting the firstever quarter-mile drag run at 250 m.p.h. And that run marks the single greatest feat so far in Top Fuel history.

For the record, Garlits' Keith Black-powered dragster streaked down the Ontario Motor Speedway pit road at 2:46 p.m. to an all-time low elapsed time of 5.637 at a top end speed of 250.69 m.p.h. The top speed automatically goes into the record books, while a sufficient back-up run this afternoon would insert the e.t. into the NHRA annals.

It was shortly thereafter that Garlits quietly told reporters in the OMS press facility that a victory today would signal the end of his incredible career.

"I probably will quit," Garlits admitted. "If I win tomorrow, it will be all over."

When asked about remaining in drag racing as a team manager, Garlits flatly ruled out such a possibility. "It's all or nothing," Garlits responded. "I couldn't come out here under those conditions. It would tear me apart. I'll probably go back to Florida and raise horses and cows."

Even before Garlits made his post-race plans known, he had much at stake in the NHRA finale. Despite 14 NHRA National titles, including near-domination of Pomona's Winternationals in recent years, Garlits has never won the NHRA World Championship. Garlits is just a shade behind defending World Champ Gary Beck of Edmonton, Alberta, in the points standing for '75.

Garlits' court battle with Beck over the disposition of certain points has occupied the bulk of the pre-event publicity. Garlits alleged that Beck had broken a contract with the rival International Hot Rod Association when he took a first place at the NHRA Fallnationals in September. Garlits maintained that Beck had competed illegally and that, therefore, his points should not count toward the title.

Saturday, however, Federal district Judge George Neese set aside a temporary restraining order which would have prevented the NHRA from crowing a World Champion until further litigation could be pressed.

Just to spice the rivalry, Beck is second to Garlits in Top Fuel qualifying with an e.t. of 5.698 at 245.23 m.p.h. The one-two positions present the tantalizing possibility of a Beck-Garlits Top Fuel final, with absolutely everything on the line.

Saturday's qualifying produced the first all-five second field in Top Fuel history, confirming Ontario's reputation as the quickest and fastest dragstrip in the world. Stan Shiroma of Seal Beach enters today's eliminations as the "slowest" in the field with a 5.932 mark which might earn him the top spot at lesser meets.

This afternoon's eliminations will also decide champions in the Pro Stock, Pro Competition, Competition, Modified, Super Stock, and Stock categories, along with a special Top Fuel Bike event. Final eliminations are the culmination of the year-long Winston World Championship Series.

The program is set to get under way at noon. NHRA officials were casting anxious eyes skyward Saturday evening as the U.S. Weather Service predicted approximately a 60 per cent chance of rain for the afternoon.

Cal Poly held to 3-3 tie

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Cal Poly football fans aren't too sure what a touchdown is any more.

For the second consecutive home game, there were no TDs at Poly Saturday night in another battle of field goals.

Two weeks ago, Poly edged Northern Arizona, 3-0. The Broncos weren't so fortunate Saturday as Puget Sound enjoyed a moral victory in a 3-3 deadlock.

The game was decided more by missed field goals than the two which were successful.

Alister Crumlish, who holds most of Poly's field goal records, had an off night Saturday as he failed to connect on two short yardage opportunities in the final eight minutes of the game.

His 26-yard try hooked wide to the left with 8:15 to go and a 25-yarder went wide to the right with 26 seconds on the clock as the hopes for a victory were dashed on the attempt.

Poly had driven 57 yards on 12 plays to set up the final field goal try. Coach Andy Vinci went for the kick after tailback Mark Sanders rushed four yards to the Puget Sound eight.

It was second down and six from the eight but Poly was out of time outs so Vinci decided to go for the kick while he had the opportunity.

Crumlish did boot a 42-yard field goal with 1:41 left in the first half

But he also failed on tries from the 37 and 25 in the first half.

Puget Sound's Brent Wagner tied the score with a 37-yard field goal with 8:18 midway through the third quarter. He also missed on a 21-yarder in the second period on a decision disputed by the UPS coaches.

The tie gives both teams 3-1-1 records. Poly will enjoy a bye next week to get ready for the CCAA opener in two weeks at UC Riverside.

If its any consolation, Poly did win the battle of statistics. The Broncos gained 306 yards in 67 offensive plays while holding the Loggers to only 209 on 64.

Poly could drive down the field but couldn't get into the end zone. After scoring 38 and 41 points in their first two games, the Broncs have managed only 19 in the last three.

Vinci started Bart Moran as promised but he alternated Moran and Leo Costa all night as they took turns bringing in the offensive plays.

The Poly quarterbacks combined for 8 of 13 passes for 110 yards while the Puget Sound QBs hit on two of 12 for only 27 yards.

Sanders was Poly's top rusher with 66 yards to edge fullback Brent Partridge's 64.

Poly's top defensive play came when Tony Falls blocked Jack Fabulich's punt in the second period to give the Broncs a first down on the Logger 25.

Again, the Poly defense did its job. The first string still has allowed only one touchdown in five games.

Pan-Am challenge for U.S.

MEXICO, CITY (AP) — The long domination that the U.S. men's track and field team has enjoyed at the Pan American Games—and in many international meets—may be waning, according to Roy Griak.

The 52-year-old Griak, head coach of the men's squad for the 1975 Pan Am Games and the cross country and track and field coach at the University of Minnesota, expressed doubt that the primarily inexperienced and relatively young U.S. team would monopolize the competition as in the past.

Since 1951, when the Pan Am Games began—they are held every four years, prior to an Olympic year—the United States has won 104 of the 138 gold medals in men's track and field competition, including 19 of 23 golds at the last Games, in 1971 at Cali, Columbia.

"I feel the competition is much keener now than it has been in the past," said Griak. "Others nations are becoming more prevalent not only in men's track and field, but in all sports.

MSAC stuns Grossmont

By MIKE RAWLINSON
PB Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO — MSAC welcomed Grossmont into the South Coast Conference Saturday night with a stunning 14-10 upset at San Diego State's Aztec Bowl.

It was the first victory of the season for the Mounties, who had suffered through four consecutive defeats while being outscored 111-32. They were a different football team against the highly regarded Griffins who entered the game with a 2-1 record and some impressive statistics.

Grossmont wasn't that bad Saturday night. The Mounties were just a lot better than they were in going 0-4.

The Griffins won the statistics, outgaining MSAC 364-311 in total offense and 22-17 in first downs.

But Grossmont made three critical mistakes and the Mounties jumped on them.

After Grossmont took a 3-0 lead in the first period on a 51-yard field goal by Jorge DaSilva, MSAC got on the board by blocking DaSilva's second field goal try of the night, in the second quarter.

Stan Stupor rose up and batted the 41-yard effort away and Jay Giangregorio scooped up the loose ball and returned it 68 yards for a touchdown. Mando Herrera kicked the extra point to give the Mounties a 7-3 lead with 4:28 to play in the first half.

Grossmont took the lead again in the third period, using a pass interception to set up a 62-yard march that was capped by Carl Haynes' two-yard touchdown plunge with 7:42 left in the period.

Now it was MSAC's turn to come up with the decisive play. Defensive back Greg Mahood batted away a pass to thwart a Grossmont drive that had reached the MSAC 31 and on a fourth-and-10 situation, Steve Taylor intercepted Griffin quarterback Jim Browning and returned the ball 27 yards to give the Mounties' field position at their own 47.

MSAC used seven plays to reach paydirt, scoring on Flavio Garcia's 25-yard TD pass to Steve Benton. Benton caught it at the 15 and juked his way around three defenders to score.

Haynes returned the ensuing kickoff 41 yards to set up the Griffins at their own 45 and they marched all the way to the Mountie 14 before Taylor came up with a big play again.

The converted quarterback scooped up Roland Jouelet's fumble after a six-yard gain and the Mounties had their first victory of the season.

Taylor, a Pomona High product, was playing in his first game as a defensive back. He didn't come onto the field until midway through the third period. It was just in time.

Jubilant head coach Mal Eaton called it a complete team victory. "We really improved," said Eaton. "Everybody played and it was a great win to beat them down here. These guys have never quit. They could have hung it up a long time ago."

Surprisingly, the offensive star of the game for the Mounties was newcomer Leon Allen, who rushed for 75 yards on 20 carries, most of it in the second half, after defending South Coast MVP Binky Benton was ejected from the game before halftime.

The Mounties continue the South Coast play next week by hosting Cerritos in a 7:30 p.m. game Saturday.

Owls blast Riverside CC

By JOHN RICE
PB Correspondent

AZUSA — Citrus College opened its defense of the Mission Conference football crown Saturday night by pounding Riverside City College 33-3.

The Owls, ranked seventh in the state before the game, showed a batch of strong runners, sharp passing and a clutch defense in defeating a Riverside team expected to be one of their stronger conference rivals.

Quarterback Herb Daniel's 59-yard touchdown romp in the second quarter made him the game's leading rusher — ending up with 97 yards in 12 carries. And behind him Herbie Holmes ran for 88 yards and Roy Prather for 68, both with 14 carries and a touchdown. Citrus finished the game with 316 yards rushing.

Daniel spiced the ground game with 164 passing yards, completing eight of 17 attempts, with one interception. He averaged over 20 yards with each completion.

RCC answered the Citrus assault with 288 yards through the air on the strong arms of Michael Fages and Kelly Miller. But four long tiger drives were halted in Owl territory by interceptions.

The strong Owl defense forced Riverside to the air as they held the Tigers to only 64 yards in 36 attempts.

Citrus scored on Daniel's first pass attempt — a 61 yard completion to John Krawczyk.

Fages led RCC down to the Owl 22 late in the first quarter and Frank Corral booted a 39 yard field goal, breaking a 13 game streak in which Citrus had held opponents scoreless in the first quarter.

Citrus struck three times in the second quarter. Holmes capped an 87-yard march by diving two yards over the center of the RCC line with three minutes gone in the quarter.

Daniel broke a 59-yard scoring run two minutes later and passed to Krawczyk 29 yards with a minute left in the half.

Net finals

MELBOURNE (AP) — Harold Solomon and Brian Gottfried will meet in an all-American final today in the South Pacific Tennis Championships.

Solomon, a clay-court specialist who is seeded No. 3, ousted Phil Dent, an Australian who prefers grass, 6-2, 6-2 in one of Saturday's semifinal matches on the slow surface.

Sports briefs

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Veeck, baseball's old maverick, seems assured of gaining approval in his bid to purchase the Chicago White Sox, The Associated Press learned Saturday.

PARIS (AP) — Gary Player of South Africa shot a three-under-par 69 and opened up a six-stroke lead over Tonny Jacklin after Saturday's third round of the Lancome Trophy Golf Tournament.

TOLWORTH, England (AP) — Bud Stoudt of Lebanon, Pa., won a gold medal and Carol Schemers of Detroit took the bronze medal in the World Ten-Pin Bowling Championships Saturday.

ACADIA, Calif. (AP) — Princess Papulee overtook pacesetter Quick Doe in midstretch and drew away to win the $33,500 Linda Vista Handicap at the Oak Tree at Santa Anita meeting Saturday by three and one-half lengths.

NEW YORK (AP) —The North American Soccer League has approved the sale of the Baltimore Comets to a San Jose, Calif., owner who will move the team to San Diego, NASL President Phil Woosnam said Saturday.

MADRID (AP) — Manuel Orantes, Spain's No. 1 tennis player, Saturday said he will meet Jimmy Connors, of Belleville, Ill., in a challenge match at Las Vegas next year.

Orantes, who overwhelmed Connors in the finals of the U.S. Open tournament in Forest Hills, N.Y., said he had signed a contract with a promoter to play the match against Connors on Feb. 28, 1976.

Panthers blanked

Chaffey College took it on the chin in its Mission Conference football opener Saturday night, as visiting Saddleback hung a 30-0 whitewash on the Panthers.

Saddleback dominated the game, outgaining the locals 434 to 162 in total yardage. Larry Jordan was the chief tormentor of the Panthers, as the Saddleback halfback rambled for 171 yards on 26 carries.

Jim Cleveland led the Chaffey rushers with 44 yards on 13 totes.

Chaffey, now 1-3 on the season, will continue conference play next Saturday at Riverside City College.

Shields triumphs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Randy Shields, 137, North Hollywood, Calif. kept his unbeaten streak going with a rough victory over Alfonso Jiminez, 136½, of Mexico in a unanimous 10 round decision Saturday night.

It was the 27th consecutive victory for Shields.

He had 15 knockouts coming into the bout, but the 16th escaped him when in the seventh round he draped Jiminez onto the ropes with a flurry of punches but was unable to put him away.

Shields suffered some slight wounds, a cut over the right eye in the first round and cuts on the face in the eighth and 10th rounds.

Referee John Thomas voted 7-3 for Shields with judge Eddie Fierro seeing it 6-4 and judge Dick Young 8-3.

Jiminez lost only his second bout after 15 victories and a draw, with all of his victories coming by knockout.

Irwin repeats in match play

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — Hale Irwin rolled in a 30-foot putt on the 34th hole Saturday for a 4 and 2 victory over Al Geiberger and the $20,500 top prize in the Picadilly World Match Play Golf Championship.

Irwin thus became only the second man in the 12-history of this tournament to successfully defend his crown. The only other player to do so was Gary Player of South Africa, who has won this title a total of five times but did not compete this year.

The 36-hole final on Wentworth club's 6,997-yard, par-73 course see-sawed in the early going as a gallery of 3,500 watched. Geiberger twice led during the morning round, but Irwin went ahead to stay at the 16th hole and wrapped it up with his birdie putt on the 34th after he had laid a perfect six-iron shot to the green.

Geiberger, who earned $10,250 as runner-up, played par golf on the first 12 holes of each of the final two rounds but then ran into trouble at the 13th each time.

In the morning round, after twice being in the lead, he missed a putt from six feet on the 13th, allowing Irwin to pull even. In the afternoon, Irwin was two-up as they came to the 13th, and again Geiberger bogeyed while Irwin parred.

Despite his victory, Irwin, the 1974 U.S. Open champion, was not satisfied with his game.

"I played awful compared with the last two days," he said. "I missed the fairways more often than in the first two days put together."

Nevertheless, he shot a one-under-par 72 in the morning round and was two under in the afternoon when the match ended.

In praising Irwin, Geiberger said of his fellow American touring pro: "Anyone can win a match over 18 holes. Over 36 holes I guess the real champions emerge."

Espada keeps title

PONCE, P.R. (AP) — Hardpuching Angel Espada of Puerto Rico retained his World Boxing Association welterweight crown Saturday night with a unanimous 15-round decision over challenger Johnny Gant of Washington, D.C.

The hard-hitting 26-year-old Puerto Rican had been a 3-1 favorite in the first defense of his title.

Espada opened a cut over Gant's left eye in the fifth round with a hard left. The American challenger's cut became more serious when a series of Espada punches opened it wider in the 10th, 11th and again in the 14th round.

The victory was Espada's 30th. His record now is 30-6-3 with 19 knockouts. Gant, who had a two-inch height advantage and a slightly longer reach over Espada, now has a record of 33-8-6.

There were no knockdowns in the match attended by a crowd of 7,500 at Ponce's Paquito Montaner Park. Both had predicted the fight wouldn't go the 15-round distance.

Espada won the title June 27 with a unanimous decision over Canada's Clyde Gray in an elimination bout at San Juan, P.R. He originally had been slated to fight fourth-ranked Tony Petronelli on Sept. 27, but Petronelli injured his hand a few days before the bout.

Gant, also 26, was available to fill in for Petronelli and the match was rescheduled for Saturday night. Petronelli, who is recuperating in Brockton, Mass., is expected to get the next chance at Espada.

St. Mary's belts Sagehens, 44-6

By MARK GRIP
PB Correspondent

Pomona-Pitzer has been beaten badly in its last two outings by identical 44-6 scores. After suffering a shellacking last week to Azusa Pacific, the Sagehens were humiliated Saturday night at Pomona College's Alumni Field by St Mary's College.

Pomona-Pitzer has been outscored by its foes 123-12 after playing three games.

Both teams went into Saturday's game looking for their first victory, with St Mary's emerging with a 1-5 record and PP, 0-3.

Sagehen coach Walt Ambord said after last weeks game that "it was the worst game ever played at Alumni Field", but this one could just be THE worst.

The only excitement for Sagehen fans was the occasional witty remarks by the band that kept the crowd alive.

Pomona-Pitzer was outyardaged by St Mary's 383-236 with 271 of those yards coming by the potent Gael rushing attack.

John Crockett led the ground charge with 83 yards on 22 carries. Mario Caridi didn't play the first half but totaled 56 yards on 10 carries, scoring one touchdown, playing a duo role as quarterback and running back.

Caridi, a local product, played QB for Montclair High and Chaffey College before going to St. Mary's.

Reserve Gael QB Blake Pelletier, resembling pro quarterback Sonny Jurgenson in stature, hit on seven of 16 passes for 112 yards.

The lone bright spot for the Sagehens was running back Tim Short who rushed for 111 yards on 15 totes.

Pelletier and Andy Lewis led the touchdown parade for St. Mary's scoring two touchdowns apiece with Pelletier passing 19 yards for another.

Gael placekicker Kevin Shea hit five of six extra points plus a 34 yard field goal to add an extra punch.

The lone Sagehen score came with 4:55 left to play on a nine yard pass from QB Lyle Lansdell to end Wyatt Todd. The run for two points failed to end the scoring for the game.

In wild, 40-point fourth quarter

Leos drop thriller

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

AZUSA — Azusa Pacific and La Verne played the wildest fourth quarter of the season Saturday at APC's Hillside Campus.

The Leopards scored three touchdowns and then the Cougars scored three in a great comeback to win, 35-26.

It gave Azusa Pacific its fourth straight win. La Verne dropped back to the .500 mark at 2-2. APC (4-0) travels to Redlands Saturday while La Verne hosts Cal Lutheran.

"The kids got up off the deck and really came back," said Cougar coach Jerry Sconce. "It's the first time we've ever won four straight."

The Leos made quite a comeback themselves. They were trailing 14-7 after three quarters. Their only touchdown had come when Roy VanderKallen ran a kickoff back 104 yards.

A 32-yard punt by Brad Kramer gave La Verne the ball at the Cougar 37 in the closing seconds of the third period. VanderKallen picked up four yards as the period ended.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, "Dandy Vandy" sprinted 33 yards to paydirt. However, a pass attempt for the two-point conversion failed and the Leopards still trailed 14-13.

La Verne kicked off and on the first play from scrimmage, Mitch Merrill broke loose for a long run only to fumble the ball away at the La Verne 47.

The Leos' Randy Brown missed on one pass attempt to Rusty Jackson. But on the second he connected with Jackson who had gone down the right sideline and was standing at the APC 12-yard line.

Jackson sidestepped one tackler and ran into the endzone to complete a 53-yard touchdown play. Mario Torres' kick was good and La Verne led, 20-14.

After the kickoff, neither side moved the ball much and an exchange of punts followed.

But with the ball at the APC nine, The Leos' Gus Newson intercepted a Rick Dutton pass at the 28 and ran it back to the Cougar's three.

Curtis Frick was held to no gain and then helped block as VanderKallen scored his third touchdown. Torres' kick was good, but La Verne was penalized for illegal procedure and the next kick was wide. But the Leos were ahead 26-14 with 9:54 left in the game.

APC couldn't make a first down when it got the ball and had to punt and then the momentum changed. Ben Morrow gained six yards to his own 36 and then fumbled and the Cougars recovered.

The second key play came six plays later. With a third and 15 at the Leopard 42, Cutton fired to end Phil Boyce down the left sideline.

Boyce was a yard out of bounds when he caught the ball at the La Verne five. But the official whose vision was blocked on the play ruled it a reception.

On the next play, Dutton raced in for the touchdown. Kramer's kick cut the lead to 26-21. La Verne couldn't move and had to punt.

Starting at his own 28, Dutton drove the Cougars 72 yards in nine plays. He passed 21 yards to Boyce for the TD that put APC ahead 27-26. Kramer's kick made it 28-26.

Only 56 seconds remained when the Leos got the ball. On the third play, Brown passed to Pedvin who tired to lateral the Steve Lewis recovered for APC at the La Verne 26.

With nine seconds left, Merrill ran wide to his right and with good blocking scored the final TD of the game.

Asked why didn't run out the clock since his team had the game won anyway, Sconce said, "Merrill was to speed wide and hopefully take up nine seconds. But the kids blocked well and he wanted to score."

Merrill led all rushers with 202 yards and two touchdowns on 22 carries, his second 200-yard effort of the season.

VanderKallen carried 15 times for 70 yards and ran three kicks back for 141 yards including the 104-yard TD sprint.

College grid roundup

Sooners win, Buckeyes roll

By The Associated Press

Junior fullback Horace Ivory raced 33 yards for a touchdown late in the fourth quarter Saturday to give Oklahoma, the nation's second-ranked team, a 24-17 victory over fifth-ranked arch-rival Texas before 72,000 fans in the Cotton Bowl.

The Sooners, running their unbeaten string to 34 games, capitalized on Texas errors to build a 17-7 third-quarter lead in the game which annually sets off a week of wild celebration in Dallas. But the Longhorns rallied in the near 100-degree heat to tie on Jimmy Walker's 25-yard run and a 43-yard field goal by freshman Russell Erxleben.

Quarterback Steve Davis then drove the Sooners 79 yards in seven plays for the winning score, with Ivory bursting off guard and sprinting down the sidelines untouched for the touchdown. Oklahoma is now 5-0, Texas 4-1.

Top-ranked Ohio State, No. 3 Southern California and No. 4 Nebraska all won as expected. The Buckeyes buried Iowa 49-0, the Trojans turned back Washington State 28-10 and the Cornhuskers blanked Kansas 16-0.

No. 7 Alabama blasted Washington 52-0; No. 8 Michigan beat Michigan State, tied for 15th, 16-6; No. 9 Penn State walloped No. 10 West Virginia 39-0; No. 12 Missouri whipped No. 14 Oklahoma State 41-14; Notre Dame, tied for 15th, rallied past North Carolina 21-14; No. 18 Florida leveled Vanderbilt 35-0; No. 19 Tennessee topped LSU 24-10 and No. 20 Miami of Ohio shut out Dayton 10-0.

No. 6 Texas A&M was at Texas Tech, No. 11 Arizona State visited New Mexico and No. 17 Arizona was at Texas-El Paso in night games.

No. 13 Colorado defeated the University of Miami 23-10 Friday night.

Tailback Archie Griffin and fullback Pete Johnson were the big guns for Ohio State. Griffin, last year's Heisman Trophy winner, gained 120 yards on 21 carries, marking the 26th straight time he's surpassed 100 yards, and Johnson scored three times on short runs.

Tailback Ricky Bell ran for 217 yards on 38 carries and Danny Reece scored on a 64-yard punt return for the Southern Cal. Mike Coyle booted three field goals and Terry Luck threw a 26-yard TD pass to Brad Jenkins for Nebraska.

Fullback Johnny Davis carried 13 times for 155 yards and Willie Shelby returned a punt 84 yards for a touchdown as Alabama overwhelmed outmanned Washington. Gordon Bell ran 18 yards for a touchdown in the fourth period and Bob Wood kicked three field goals as Michigan, 3-0-2, stayed unbeaten.

Woody Petchel ran for 122 yards and the Penn State defense recovered five West Virginia fumbles as the Lions won their fifth game in six outings. Steve Pisarkiewicz passed for 371 yards and two TDs in Missouri's triumph over previously-unbeaten Oklahoma State.

Notre Dame overcame a scare by North Carolina with a 21-point rally in the final period, the winning TD coming with one minute left when Joe Montana threw a short sideline pass to Ted Burgmeier and Burgmeier raced 80 yards for the score. Jimmy Dubose gained 180 yards on 13 carries, including an 80-yard TD run on the game's first play, for Florida, 4-1.

Mike Gayles scored on touchdown runs of one and 11 yards in the fourth quarter to carry Tennessee, 3-1, past LSU. Sherman Smith tossed a 30-yard touchdown pass late in the first half and Miami of Ohio held on to trim Dayton.

Elsewhere, Billy Marek became the Big Ten's all-time scoring leader and Vince Lamia booted a 40-yard field goal with nine seconds left as Wisconsin edged Purdue 17-14; Jim Phillips scored three times as Illinois ripped Minnesota 42-23; Iowa State beat Kansas State 17-7 with the aid of Tom Mason's 38-yard TD pass to Glover Rogers; Greg Boykin ran for two scores and threw for another as Northwestern blanked Indiana 30-0.

The service academies went 1-2. Bob Jackson's three-yard touchdown run in the third period lifted Navy past Syracuse 10-6; freshman linebacker Carl McGee's 68-yard run with a pass interception helped Duke trim Army 21-10; and Charlie AhYou ran for two second-half TDs as Brigham Young topped Air Force 28-14.

L.A. vs. Chargers today

Ex-Rams ready

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pat Curran and Coy Bacon will be going all-out Sunday against the Los Angeles Rams, but for very different reasons.

Both will be playing with the San Diego Chargers and both are ex-Rams.

The difference: Curran is overjoyed at being traded to San Diego, while Bacon would rather be somewhere else.

After six years of reserve duty behind Bob Klein, tight end Curran was only too glad to be traded to a team where he could catch passes from quarterbacks instead of splinters from the bench.

In three National Football League games this year, he has caught nine passes for 91 yards to become the Chargers' leading receiver.

"I love the Rams," he said. "They did me a favor and traded me so I could have the opportunity to be a number one tight end."

The fact that San Diego is winless after three games while the Rams seem destined for the Super Bowl doesn't bother him at all, he said.

"I enjoy playing and I don't care where it is," said Curran, who caught nine passes for 83 yards in his six years with the Rams.

For Bacon, an eight-year defensive end traded here in 1973, playing for San Diego has meant leaving a winner to come to a team which hasn't had a winning season since 1969 and has yet to score a point this year in its home stadium.

"It's a personal feeling I have against them," he said of the Rams. "Nothing against the players, but it occured anyhow."

Bacon feels that he was traded due to a salary dispute between himself and the management which got blown out of proportion.

"Just a little dispute, that's all it was," he said.

If Bacon is embittered against the Rams, he certainly isn't thrilled about the Chargers, either.

"I've never been happy here," said Bacon. "Down here, it's a lost cause. Two more years and I want to be out of it."

The Rams are 2-1 coming into Sunday's game, with wins over the San Francisco 49ers and the Baltimore Colts. They were upset in the season opener by the Dallas Cowboys, but are still considered on of the best teams in the NFL

Sun is happy to be home

ANAHEIM — After spending seven of the last nine weeks on the road and suffering four losses in five outings, the Sun finally returns to Anaheim Stadium for a WFL game this week.

The Shreveport Steamer is the foe this afternoon in a game that marks the opening of the "fall season" for the WFL. Memphis (Easters) and San Antonio (Western) have won divisional titles for the "summer season" and qualified for post-season playoff berths.

Anthony Davis, who missed most of the second half of last week's game at Memphis, is expected to be ready to go full speed today. He suffered an ankle injury after scoring three touchdowns, catching nine passes and rushing for 59 yards on 10 carries during the first half and first three minutes of the second half at Memphis.

Davis has 952 yards and has rushed for more than 100 yards in six of his first 10 WFL games. He leads the WFL in rushing and is 306 yards ahead of runner-up Jim Nance of Shreveport.

"We've got to get something started at home," said Sun Coach Tom Fears. "The record shows that the home team wins a large majority of the time in the WFL and we need to take advantage of our six games at home in the second half of the season."

Mike Ernst established a new Sun record at Memphis when he completed 26 passes (in 45 attempts for 289 yards). The old mark of 25 completions in a single game was set by Tony Adams a year ago.

Ernst will match skills with Shreveport's Edd Hargett, who ranks third in the WFL with a computer rating of 101.9. He has completed 129 of 234 passes for 1759 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Stag victory spiced by 50-yard field goal

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Correspondent

Keith Cunningham's 50-yard field goal with nine seconds left in the game capped the Claremont-Mudd Stags' 29-7 drubbing of United States International University at Stag Field Saturday afternoon.

The kick was longer by a yard than any previous three-pointer by Cunningham, a junior JC transfer who botted a 49-yarder at Fullerton College.

"I kick them from 55 or 57 yards in practice," said Cunningham, a 6-2, 175-pound resident of Anaheim. "But for a kick that long in a game the snap and the hold have to be perfect. I'm lucky to have a good center (Matt Kobe) and a good holder (Steve Schaumleffel). Kobe's always right on the mark."

The last-minute field goal was the second of the game for Cunningham, who also kicked three extra points. He scored on a 27-yarder in the third quarter and kicked a 43-yarder in the second period that was good but was nullified by an illegal procedure penalty. His subsequent try from the 47 yards out was blocked.

But the Stags did not really need Cunningham's foot to route the visiting Westerners. C-M scored twice in the second quarter for a 14-0 halftime lead and tallied again three minutes into the third period for a 21-0 advantage before Cunningham's first field goal made it 24-0.

C-M was ahead by seven points when cornerback Jon Begerow made a leaping interception of USIU quarterback Greg Briner's pass at the Stag 10-yard line. He ran the ball back to the 40 with four minutes left in the half first half.

Stag quarterback Joe Watts then mounted a 60-yard scoring drive by completing four passes without a miss and rolling out for three more gainers. With 46 seconds on the clock, Watts found Paul Solon in the end zone and hit him while running hard to his left.

Watts connected with Solon for another six points on a nine-yarder with three minutes gone in the second half.

The first Stag touchdown came with 10:40 remaining in the second quarter after C-M took over on the Westerner 16 when USIU could not get off a punt. The Stags scored in six plays, ending with Jim Reed's one-yard plunge.

After threatening several times in the second half but being turned away by a presistent Stag defense, USIU scored its lone touchdown on a pass from Briner to Larry Castagnola with 6:01 left.

C-M wins soccer tilt

Claremont - Mudd remained unbeaten on the soccer season with a 2-1 win over Whittier College Saturday afternoon in a Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Assocation contest.

John Pritizlaff and Ariel Gluzkligh scored the goals for the Stags while Conrad Creasey and Randy Douglas chaulked up assists on the scores.

C-M is now 4-0 in SCIAC competition and 5-0-2 on the year. The loss for Whittier was the Poets' first in league play.

Pomona-Pitzer also remained unbeaten in SCIAC soccer action with a 7-0 win over Cal Tech, a team that Claremont will host Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the next scheduled action for the Stag booters.

Paraplegic: no handicap here

Former golf professional Dennis Walters, paralyzed from the waist down two years ago at age 24 in a freak golf cart accident, is back on the links and shooting in the high 70s, according to a story released by Associated Press.

The former North Texas State University golfer who finished 20th in the 1970 National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament wants to devote his life to teaching 200,000 other paraplegics how to play golf.

Walters hasn't walked since a golf cart overturned on him July 21, 1974, severing his spinal cord.

Jerry Volpe, a golf pro near Pompano Beach, said he has been beaten by Walters and terms his desire and performance "unreal."

Volpe said other paralyzed golfers could follow Walters "because the prime reason for distance in a golf shot is your swing . . . your legs just give you maybe 50 yards more distance. Dennis can't turn his body, yet he hits it like a cannon."

Spokesmen for two national paraplegic organizations said Walters is the only known paraplegic golfer playing daily in the United States.

GREAT FORM — Dennis Walters, strapped into his cart's swivel seat, blasts an iron shot.

"There's wheelchair basketball, bowling, track, swimming and even flag football, but golf is just not being done in a wheelchair," said Clifford Crase, sports director of the National Paralyzed Veterans Association. "You need your hips more in golf than in other sports to play well. Double leg amputees play golf, but even they have some feeling in the hips."

But Walters compensates for his hips and legs with strong arms and timing. He has lost only about 40 yards in distance on his drives and about 30 yards on his irons since his injury. He hits tee shots 230 yards regularly.

The Sixth Annual Azusa Pacific College "Cougar Club" Invitational Golf Tournament is scheduled for Wednesday at Western Hills Country Club in Chino.

Golfers will tee off at 11:30 a.m. with a "shotgun start." Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place finishers in all flights, closest to the pin, longest drive and other individual prizes.

Tournament committee members include William Bonhall of Sawyer's Furniture in Covina; John Cashion, architect; Rom Hallaian, advertising executive; Ed Heinrich of Deccofeldt Corporation in Glendora; Ralph Parke, attorney; and Don Goehner, Azusa Pacific College director of Annual Funds. Tom Nelson, assistant director of athletics at Azusa Pacific College, serves as campus coordinator for the golf tournament.

The tournament committee has set a $40 donation from participants which will cover the cost of green fees, golf cart rental and the buffet dinner which concludes the tournament.

NFL roundup

Namath vs. Tarkenton today

It's listed as just another football game, but anyone who manages to squeeze into Metropolitan Stadium on Sunday will be looking forward to an aerial show to equal the rockets' red glare and bombs bursting in air over Fort Sumter some years back.

It's the National Football League's first regular-season meeting ever between two of the most renowned bombers in the business—Fran Tarkenton and Joe Namath.

As soon as the game was announced, tickets became scarce for what promises to be a wild show. "I've heard from people who I haven't seen or talked to since college," says Vikings Coach Bud Grant.

And Minnesota General Manager Mike Lynn adds: "It was the first game sold out this summer, and it's the first time that our first sellout was someone not in the Central Division."

The National Conference's defending champions take a 3-0 record into the game while the Jets, contenders in the American Conference East, are 2-1. "They're considered a contending team and so are we," says Grant, "so it should be an interesting game."

The 35-year-old Tarkenton and 32-year-old Namath take some pretty impressive records into the game, too.

Tarkenton has hit on 60 per cent of his passing attempts for 585 yards and six touchdowns while Namath has thrown for 517 yards and seven touchdowns. They warmed up last week for this meeting with a couple of typical performances. Fran threw three touchdown passes in Minnesota's 28-3 victory over Chicago while Joe tossed four scoring passes in the Jets' 36-7 victory over New England.

"This will be a big test for us," says Jets Coach Charley Winner. "We've finally started to knit, particularly on defense."

In today's other games it's Oakland at Kansas City, Houston at Cleveland, Green Bay at New Orleans, Chicago at Detroit, Los Angeles at San Diego, New England at Cincinnati, Dallas at the New York Giants, Denver at Pittsburgh, Buffalo at Baltimore, Philadelphia at Miami and Atlanta at San Francisco. On Monday night it's St. Louis at Washington.

Mike Livingston returns to quarterback Kansas City after giving way to Len Dawson for two games because of a shoulder injury. The Chiefs are winless this year and are trying to break the string against the unbeaten Raiders. "How do I feel after three losses?" mused Kansas City Coach Paul Wiggin. "It's tough. But I'm not sending up a white flag, I'll tell you that."

The Bears-Lions meeting is the 83rd renewal of a traditionally brutal rivalry dating back to 1934. Their clashes have always been noted for their bone-crunching toughness.

Like Wiggin at Kansas City, Cleveland's Forrest Gregg is still looking for his first victory as a head coach—and the prospect of his getting it this weekend appears slim. The Browns are staggering. They gave up 42 points in each of their last two games.

Bart Starr's chances for a first victory as Green Bay's head coach look a bit better since the Pack is going against the equally winless Saints, who have scored a league low.

In 1970, the last time the Rams met San Diego, Los Angeles won 37-10. The score may not be that close this time around, if NFL statistics mean anything. The Chargers have yet to score a point at home this year—and they will be trying to do it against one of the top defenses in the league. To make matters worse, San Diego has one of the least effective offenses.

New England quarterback Jim Plunkett resumes his attempt to return to form—but he, too, is going against a miserly defense. If Cincinnati manhandles him, the Patriots won't have Neil Graff to throw against the Bengals. Graff has been cut, and the No. 2 job has been given to rookie Steve Grogan of Kansas State.

The Cowboys, who got a lot of preseason pity from fans who bemoaned the loss of Bob Lilly, Calvin Hill and several other stars, have been getting nothing but victories since the season began. Now they take their shotgun offense against the Giants, who have given up more total yards and more passing yards than any other team in the NFC.

If the Steelers beat Denver, they also will be beating a bit of a jinx. In four games, Pittsburgh has never been able to turn back the Broncos. The closest thing to a victory was a 35-35 overtime tie a year ago. O.J. Simpson isn't the only thing rumbling along in Buffalo. The Bills' entire rushing offense is only 88 yards short of 1,000 going into their game against Baltimore.

The Dolphins are hoping to start a new home winning streak when they take on Philadelphia. Their 31-game run at the Orange Bowl was halted by Oakland in the season's first Monday night game. Atlanta quarterback Steve Bartkowski makes his "home" debut in San Francisco. The NFL's No. 1 draft pick returns to the neighborhood where he starred at the University of California.

2-man show opens

Paintings by Robert George and sculpture by Norman Hines are on exhibit through Nov. 10 at Gallery 8, Harvard and Bonita avenues, Claremont. Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday.

George, a native of Chino and a graduate of the University of Redlands and the Claremont Graduate School, is chairman of the art department of Ganesha High School and a former president of the Pomona Valley Art Association. He is exhibiting 30 transparent watercolors done recently.

Hines is professor of sculpture at Pomona College. He has exhibited his sculpture and ceramics throughout the United States. In the current exhibit he is showing a variety of works in marble, serpentine and alabaster.

The exhibition opened with a reception for the artists Friday night.

PVAA director in show

An exhibition of 26 oil and acrylic paintings by Joan Beauregarde, an art student at Cal Poly, is being held this month in Cal Poly library.

Mrs. Beauregarde is a California native and a graduate of Ontario schools and the Throne Business College. After raising a family, she returned to college to study art. This is her first one-artist show.

Mrs. Beauregarde is a member of the board of directors of the Pomona Valley Art Association.

Library hours are 7:45 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 7:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and 6 to 10 p.m. Sunday.

American artists scheduled at UCLA

UCLA's Young American Artists series, opening in Royce Hall next Sunday with a recital by pianist Emanuel Ax, will include mezzo-soprano Marvelle Cariaga, violinist Daniel Heifetz and the Speculum Masicae.

Ax was first prize winner of the Rubinstein International Competition last autumn. Ax is a native of Poland, but he was reared in Canada and this country, and educated at Julliard School of Music. He received the 1975 Michaels Award of Young Concerts Artists and its attendant recital at Lincoln Center and solo appearances with the Chicago, Seattle and St. Louis symphonies and the Los Angeles and Rochester philharmonics. He already has performed with the National Symphony and Minnesota Orchestra and next season appears as soloist with the Cleveland Orchestra. He also has been a prize winner at the Chopin Competition in Warsaw and the Vienna da Motta Competition in Lisbon.

By the time she appears in recital at Schoenberg Hall Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. Miss Cariaga will have sung the title role in Rossini's "Semiramide" for Vancouver Opera. The young singer from Long Beach was chosen by Vancouver's new general director Richard Bonynge to essay the role, the same one that served as the North American debut for Bonynge's wife, Joan Sutherland.

Elsewhere this season Miss Cariaga will appear in the contrasting role of Bruennhilde in Wagner's "Siegfried" for the San Diego Opera and in Phoenix, Ariz., and she will perform Mahler's "Das Lied von der Erde" with the San Diego Symphony and Marguerite in Berlioz' "The Damnation of Faust" with the Milwaukee Symphony.

Azusa recital

A piano recital, a reception and a silent art auction will be held in Azusa Friday night as a benefit for the American Cancer Society and the Tri-Hospital Cancer Program.

Japanese pianist Azusa Fujita, now on her fifth concert tour of the United States, will perform in the Citrus College auditorium at 8 p.m. A "Divine Tasting" reception will follow at the Jade Gardens of the Monrovia Nursery, 18331 E. Foothill Blvd., Azusa. A silent auction of three paintings donated by local artists will be held at the reception.

Miss Fujita, a much sought after concert performer, was soloist with the Osaka Philharmonic at the age of eight. She won numerous prizes in Japan and graduated with honors from Osaka University. After advanced studies in Europe, she became the youngest professor at her alma mater. Also known by her married name, Anna Teng, she has given concerts throughout Asia, Europe, Canada and the United States and made several recordings. She has her own weekly classical music program on television in Taipei.

AZUSA FUJITA

Tickets to the recital are $6.50 general, $3.50 for students and senior citizens. Admission to the reception and art auction is $3.50.

Art show set in Whittier

More than 2,000 paintings are expected to be on view in "Color My World II," an invitational juried show offered by the Whittwood Merchants Association at the Whittwood Center, Whittier, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Eddie Martinez, Hacienda Heights portrait painter, muralist and teacher, will be the judge. He will award more than $700 in cash prizes in landscapes, seascapes, still lifes, portraits, sculpture and ceramics. The mayor of Whittier will present the $200 Mayor's Best of Show Award.

The three-day show is open to the public without charge.

Cal Poly plans exhibit

Works from the printmaking, drawing, painting, lettering and 2-D design classes of Cal Poly are on exhibition through Oct. 22 in the art gallery.

A public reception for the artists will be held there at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. daily.

Public furor

James Hamlet, a free Negro, was arrested in New York as a fugitive slave from Baltimore, the first recorded action under the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850. It aroused so much public indignation that Hamlet was redeemed and freed.

N.L. — No load (sales charge)

Market signs are uplifting

NEW YORK (AP) — Signs of a downtrend in interest rates gave the stock market a lift this past week, but the advance was tempered by continuing concern over New York City's financial problems.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 10.70 to 823.91 after a net decline of 16.58 points over the two previous weeks.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index climbed 2.26 to 88.21, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index added 1.18 to 46.67.

Gainers outpaced losers 1,162 to 583 among the 2,016 issues traded on the Big Board.

NYSE volume averaged 15.89 million shares a day, up from 13.56 million the week before but still well off the pace set in the first half of the year when the daily totals were frequently above the 20 million mark.

For the second week in a row, the market received what Wall Streeters interpreted as favorable signals from Federal Reserve statistics on money and credit.

The data showed a continued lag in the nation's money supply — a situation which in theory means that the Fed is more likely to loosen up on its credit policy by making money more plentiful, and hence cheaper.

There was no confirmation available from the central bank itself, which normally doesn't report its policy decisions until several months after they are made.

But just the expectation was enough to touch off sharp declines in interest rates in both the bond and short term money markets.

The absence of an equal degree of exuberance in the stock market was attributed to a separate worry — the uncertainties surrounding New York City's financial future.

President Ford at his news conference Thursday night, repeated his opposition to the idea of federal moves to bail the city out.

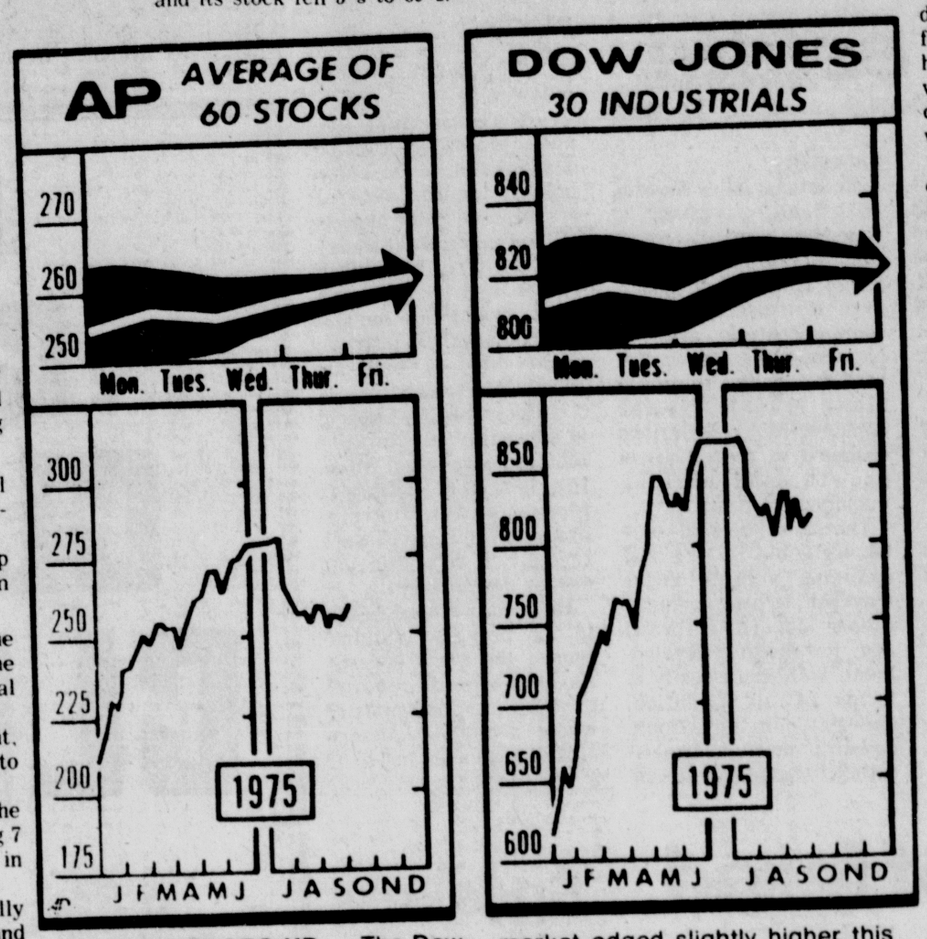
The Dow had managed some sizable gains early in the week, posting a 6-point advance on Monday and adding 7 more Wednesday after a mild pullback of 3.15 in Tuesday's activity.

But toward the weekend the market seemed virtually immobilized, with the Dow edging up .63 on Thursday and pulling back by an identical amount Friday.

IBM was an impressive gainer, rising 10 3/4 to 206. At the end of the previous week the company and a much smaller competitor in the data processing business, Telex Corp., announced they were dropping legal cases against each other. Telex shares rose 1/2 to 2 3/4.

On Friday IBM also reported third quarter earnings that surpassed most analysts' expectations

Burroughs, meanwhile, posted a quarterly earnings gain that Wall Streeters said was smaller than expected, and its stock fell 3 1/8 to 89 1/2.



MARKET EDGES UP — The Dow Jones Industrial average closed at 823. 91 Friday, up 10.70 from the week prior. The Associated Press average closed at 261.4, up 6.1 over the same period. The stock market edged slightly higher this week, fueled by an encouraging drop in short-term interest tates, but held in check by the unfolding New York City financial crisis.

Business briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Union Bancorp Inc. has reported third-quarter operating earnings 33.8 per cent below the level for last year.

The firm said Wednesday a softening in demand for loans and an unusually high number of loans on which income isn't being credited until collected were responsible.

The firm, the holding company for Union Bank, reported earnings before securities gains or losses of $3.87 million or 33 cents per share for the quarter ended Sept. 30. The figure compares to $5.85 million or 50 cents a share one year ago.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Occidental Petroleum Corp. has warned its customers not to buy the firm's share of Libyan oil production directly from the government, as Libya has offered.

Libya shut down the Los Angeles-based company's wells in that country last week and Tuesday offered to sell crude oil or prodcts directly to occidental customers. The oil-producing nation has also refused to issue exit visas for 520 Occidental employes, including 230 Americans.

Occidental said Wednesday it had "cautioned" its customers and other prospective buyers against dealing in the corporation's share of crude oil shipped from the tanker terminal at Zueitina.

The corporation is seeking $1 billion in damages for alleged breaks in the oil concession agreement and has sought relief from the World Court, but also owes Libya $440 million for oil.

HARTFORD (AP) — Hartford National Corp. reports a loss of $18.3 million or $6.54 share for the third quarter of 1975.

The loss compared with earnings of $1.7 million or 60 cents per share in the 1974 third quarter, the company said Wednesday.

The corporation whose major subsidiary is Hartford Bank and Trust Co., attributed the recent loss to its decision to end involvement in a real estate investment trust.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bankers attending the American Bankers Association convention here say concern is growing over the loans they make to each other.

Heavy loan losses sustained by the banking industry are causing them to scrutinize more carefully their credits to banks and bank holding companies, they say.

One bank, Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. of New York, has hired a specialist to work with its credit officers on loans to bank holding companies that potentially may have problems meeting payments.

'Clean Air' act might impose land controls

Real estate

The National Association of Realtors has warned members of a Senate subcommittee that it may be moving toward imposing strict land use controls in its proposed amendments to the Clean Air Act.

In a letter to members of the environmental pollution subcommittee of the Senate Public Works Committee, association Executive Vice President H. Jackson Pontius called attention to "some reservations Realtors have on the proposed draft that the subcommittee has been considering."

After noting that the association has supported legislation in the House that would have established better land use planning procedures, he stated Association objections to the subcommittee's proposals.

While the legislation sponsored by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., and Rep. Alan Steelman, R-Tex., was designed to assist states and communities in developing balanced and comprehensive land use planning processes, "the subcommittee's proposed . . . amendments are . . . directed solely at air quality considerations," Pontius said.

"Moreover, the proposed amendments require that the federal government (Environmental Protection Agency) will be directly involved in the review and approval of local land use plans and the promulgation of land use codes and ordinances," he added.

Pontius termed as "most perplexing" that the proposed land use controls may be more detrimental than helpful in improving air quality.

He cited studies showing that land use planning based on air quality factors may dictate adverse long-range land use decisions, even if indirect pollution source controls are implemented in conjunction with car-pooling, improved mass transit, sewer construction restrictions designed to reduce urban growth, and parking management controls.

The result, he said, may be negligible in terms of reducing vehicle miles traveled. It also could increase suburban sprawl and low-density development, both more costly in terms of air pollution, energy considerations, consumption of prime agricultural land and provision of essential community services.

Pontius urged subcommittee consideration of the following:

—A requirement that auto emission control deadlines be made before indirect source controls are imposed at the expense of the real estate industry.

—Long-term patterns of growth and land development should not be conditioned on short-term air quality factors that are subject to change.

—The sweeping changes in air quality deterioration requirements may affect the location of power plants and industrial expansion and unnecessarily restrict economic and energy development.

He referred specifically to the proposed elimination of the Class 3 designation, which permits growth in communities where air quality deterioration is thought not to be a significant factor.

Austrian politician denies charge of Nazi atrocities

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal accused Friedrich Peter, chief of the opposition Austrian Freedom party, recently of having belonged to an SS unit involved in the slaying of Jews and others in the Soviet Union in World War II.

Peter conceded in a statement that he served in the Nazi elite corps unit but firmly denied taking part in any executions or reprisals.

Wiesenthal, who heads the Jewish Documentation Center in Vienna, said his material did not link Peter directly to any individual crime but that an investigation into the politician's wartime role was being carried out.

Peter said he served in the 1st SS Infantry Brigade and in the "Das Reich" 2nd Tank Division from 1941-1945 and was an SS major at the end of the war.

"I have never taken part in any executions or reprisals," he added, rejecting "all insinuations and incriminations of Mr. Wiesenthal."

Peter has been mentioned recently as a possible vice chancellor under Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, who is of Jewish descent.

Energy tips offered to save fuel costs

Colder weather and rising fuel expenses are just around the corner for those who live in many areas of the country.

To counteract both, Walter Arnold, President of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, offers some energy conservation tips that can be easily incorporated into your existing interior decoration scheme.

— Draw shades and draperies at night to reduce heat loss and shut out cold air, but open them wide on sunny winter days to capture solar heat. (In summer, keep shades and draperies closed. Keep storm windows closed, too, if the house is air conditioned.)

— Use light colors and mirrors on walls to reflect and magnify natural and artifical light and heat.

— Make sure furniture and curtains are kept clear of radiators, warm air heat vents and return grills and baseboard units so that your heating system can operate as efficiently as possible.

— Install cabinets and bookcases on outside walls for insulating purposes as well as decoration and storage.

— Add visual warmth and actual underfoot by installing wall-to-wall carpeting.

— Decorate with living plants. They make atteactive winter accessories and increase humidity, making rooms more comfortable at lower temperatures. (During the summer, put plants outside, if possible, to reduce the dehumidifying burden placed on an air conditioner.)

— Use a humidifier — either a separate appliance or an attachment to a central heating system. This can be a money-saving investment in winter, when increased humidity will allow you to lower thermostats, yet still feel comfortable. And, of course, lowered thermostats mean reduced heating bills.

— Apply sun-controlling, aluminized polyester film to wide, west-facing windows. These "sunglasses" reflect winter warmth into rooms, reduce glare from sun and snow and screen out heat in summer. In addition, they block out 95 per cent of the sun's fabric-fading untra-violet rays. And, while they have no effect on window transparency from indoors, they add to interior privacy from outside.

— Make sure the damper on your fireplace closes completely when there's no fire burning. Be certain, too, that the draft works properly to avoid wasting heat.

— Consider using fluorescent lights, which produce five times more light and last ten times longer than incandescent bulbs. While, at one time, fluorescent bulbs weren't used in homes because of their strange effect on skin and decorating colors, they're now available in flattering warm and cool whites.

— In a later column, Arnold will discuss energy saving ideas that aren't quite as easy and inexpensive as those listed above.

Speakers set for seminar

Six Southern California housing specialists have been scheduled as guest speakers during market researcher Sanford Goodkin's seminar in real estate forecasting on Oct. 17.

They are David O. Maxwell, president, Ticor Mortgage Insurance Co., Los Angeles; Arnold Sternberg, state director of housing and community development; Bram Goldsmith, chairman, City National Bank, Beverly Hills; Alan N. Nevin, vice president Sanford R. Goodkin Research Corp.; George Smith, senior vice president, Sonnen Blick-Goldman Corp.; and George Argyros, president, Arnell Development Co., Santa Ana.

The program, "Forecasting the Real Estate Market: Key to Professional Investing for Profits," is presented through UCLA Extension and open to the general public. It will meet from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Ambassador Hotel, 3400 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles. The fee is $40.

Further information is available at UCLA Extension, (213) 825-7031.

Measures sought to help stabilize mortgage funds

J. S. Norman, Jr., president of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB), has urged Congress to support new proposals which he believes would help overcome the feast or famine mortgage money conditions which continue to plague the depressed housing industry.

In testimony before the Senate Finance Subcommittee on Financial Markets, Norman endorsed various legislative proposals which would provide tax incentives for depositors who invest their money in thrift institutions.

The bill before the subcommittee would give taxpayers a 20 per cent tax credit on the first $250 invested annually in a special education savings plan at financial institutions which invest at least 50 per cent of their assets in residential loans.

It is designed to prevent massive outflows from thrift institutions during fluctuations in the money markets. The outflow usually occurs when short-term interest rates rise and savers withdraw their money from thrift institutions to invest in higher yield investments, such as short-term government obligations, he said.

"We have had three periods of disintermediation (outflows) during the past 10 years, with possibly a fourth coming up at the present time," Norman said.

"Each time housing production has fallen sharply, with the resultant serious effects on the national economy through large layoffs of construction workers, as well as layoffs in the thousands of other businesses that depend on home building.

"Tax revenues have fallen for the federal, as well as state and local governments, and the economy shortly thereafter has gone into a recession."

In supporting the bill, Norman also urged the committee to consider other proposals which would help stabilize the flow of money to housing.

Noting that disintermediation usually follows a sharp upturn in short-term interest rates, he suggested that a variable tax incentive be enacted "that would rise when pressures from higher interest rates in other areas are greatest and return to normal levels when these pressures subside."

Banking seminar to begin Monday

The American Institute of Banking, Citrus Belt Chapter, will present a six night seminar on "Oral Communications" Oct. 13-Nov. 17.

The Monday sessions, lasting from 7 to 10 p.m., will be held at the First Christian Church, Park and Artesia streets, Pomona.

Howard DeWeese, assistant vice president and manager of the United California Bank's employe loan division, will be the instructor.

The seminar is open to all bankers in the San Gabriel and Pomona valleys. The class, however, will be limited to 25.

For registration and more information, persons may phone Nancy DeWolf at 622-1231.

CLARABOYA HOME — This drawing depicts one of the homes being offered at Claraboya Homes, a hillside development near Claremont. The final 15 homes are scheduled for completion late this fall. They are priced from $76,500.

Claraboya buyers have valley view

Houses constructed at Claraboya Homes above Claremont have been designed to take full advantage of the hillside location.

"Placement of the homes on the lots and the actual design of each model have been used to accentuate the views," said Roni Armstrong, marketing director for Armstrong Development Corp., the builders.

The final unit is scheduled for completion late this fall. "The final phase of 15 homes promises to continue featuring the picturesque views which have come to be associated with the development," she added.

An advance sales program has started and five of the 15 homes have been sold. They are priced from $76,500.

Buyers have their choice of three and four bedroom plans with nine exteriors.

The homes feature sunken living rooms, formal dining rooms, separate family rooms, wet bars, wood burning fireplaces, intercom systems and indoor planters.

Each home has more than 2,500 square feet of living area and is built on minimum half-acre lots.

The kitchens include dinette areas and such built-in appliances as self-cleaning double ovens, ranges, dishwashers, vinyl floors, overhead luminous lighting, and built-in pantries.

The large master suites feature sunken Roman tubs, private dressing areas and walk-in closets.

Other standard items include refrigerated air conditioning, three car garages, separate laundry rooms and underground utilities.

The sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk. Persons may reach it by taking the San Bernardino Freeway to the Indian Hill Boulevard exit, drive north to Base Line Avenue, turn left to Mountain Avenue, right to Via Espirity Santos and again right to San Angelo Drive.

Jaska joins trade group

The Jaska Building Systems, 1432 N. Gordon St., Pomona, has been accepted for membership in the national Metal Building Dealers Assoc., Dale E. Lay, Tulsa, Okla., president of the trade group has announced.

Robert P. Dwight will serve as the official representative casting his firm's vote in association business matters.

The local firm joins some 850 metal building industry firms in the association, which is dedicated to stressing professionalism among metal building dealers and promoting fabricated metal construction in general. It sponsors educational meetings and seminars and conducts the national trade show.

Lewis Homes will show new project

Home buyers are invited to view the newest unit of 33 homes now being built at the Lewis Homes-Upland development.

The homes are located on 15th Street, a half mile west of San Antonio Avenue in Upland.

"Many factors go into a builder's decision to develop a new community in a specific location," said Randall Lewis, vice president of marketing for Lewis Homes.

"One factor that always carries a great deal of weight with our company is the proximity of schools. We know by past experience this is a special concern to the great majority of buyers who have school age children."

Parents are concerned with making sure their children are afforded the opportunity of receiving the best education possible, he added.

"The high standards of the Upland School District are well known throughout Southern California and we are fortunate to be within a few blocks of an elementary school, junior high school and high school.

Lewis said the location is also ideal for the family which enjoys the outdoors since the Mt. Baldy recreational area is just a short drive away.

The new unit now in various construction stages includes both one and two story homes. Buyers may also select from five floor plans and 15 exteriors. The homes, priced from $46,550, are available with three or four bedrooms.

The homes feature cedar shake roofs, three car garages in some plans, ceramic tile entries, fireplaces, shag carpeting, mirrored wardrobe doors in master bedrooms and kitchens with luminous ceilings, ceramic tile kitchen counters, ranges and double ovens.

With interest rates as low as eight per cent, Lewis Homes has several financing plans. These include, VA, FHA and conventional terms.

Persons may reach the homes by taking the San Bernardino Freeway to the Mountain Avenue exit, drive north to Foothill Boulevard, go east to San Antonio Avenue and then north to 15th Street.

Realtors elect leaders

Ira Gribin, a Sherman Oaks Realtor, has been elected president of the California Association of Realtors.

He will succeed Richard C. Farrer of Hayward as leader of the 80,000 member organization. Gribin was elected during the association's annual convention held at the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim.

Other officers are Jerome Blank of Albany, first vice president; E. Thornton Ibbetson of Bellflower, treasurer; and Zan L. Beckstead of Chatsworth, executive vice president and state secretary.

Elected as one of 32 regional vice presidents was Anthony Beletrutti of Ontario. He will represent District 26. All those elected will take office on Jan. 1.

Gribin is a member of the San Fernando Valley Board of Realtors. He entered the real estate profession in 1946 following his completion of duty with the U.S. Army Air Corps.

After working four years as a real estate salesman and sales manager, Gribin went into business in 1950 and helped found the firm of Gribin, Von Dyl and Associates, Inc., in Sherman Oaks. He is past president of the San Fernando Valley Board of Realtors and in 1966 was elected a director-for-life of that organization.

He is serving his third three-year term as a director of the National Association of Realtors, has been a member of the board of governors of the Realtors National Marketing Institute (formerly National Institute of Real Estate Brokers) since 1968 and currently serves on the Executive Committee of both national organizations.

Gribin has been involved in the education of Realtors, managers and salespeople. He was education chairman of CAR in 1965 and 1966 and in 1974 was chairman of the Professional Advancement Institute which coordinates all the educational activities of the association.

House approves 200-mile offshore fishing limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — For years, increasingly efficient foreign fishing fleets have scoured the waters off the U.S. coast for nearly every type of fish, sometimes moving so close to shore that they had to be shooed back by Coast Guard cutters.

As a result, the House rejected Ford administration arguments and gave approval recently to a measure that would ban foriegn fishing within 200 miles of the U.S. coastline. Since 1966, the United States has claimed a 12-mile fishing limit.

Supporters of the bill, which was approved 208 to 101, say the expanded limit will conserve fish stocks and protect U.S. fishermen against the super-efficient operations of trawlers chiefly from Japan and Soviet bloc countries.

The 200-mile limit has widespread support in the Senate, where the Commerce Committee has approved a simmilar bill. The Senate has approved similar measures in past sessions of Congress.

President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had opposed the unilateral extension to 200 miles, pushing instead for an United Nations treaty on fisheries.

Opponents also said the limit would provoke retaliation against long-distance U.S. fishermen.

Backers of the limit said two U.N. conferences have failed to even approach agreement on fishing limits.

Rep. Joel Pritchard, R-Wash., said if the Congress did not act soon, "this bill won't have anything to protect."

Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass., said foreign fishermen in only a decade had swept up so many fish in their fine-weave nets off the New England coast that some species were commercially extinct. Soviet-bloc fishing fleets are accompanied by "factory" ships that process the catch the same day it is netted.

To meet administration arguments, the House bill does provide that the 200-mile limit would lapse when the United States ratifies a U.N fishing treaty. The limit would be effective July 1.

The House bill would still allow foreign fishing, but only if fishing stocks are ample and the conditions are negotiated. It would allow the President to impose an import boycott on the products of a country that retaliates against long-distance U.S. fishermen and would create fishery management zones and charge fees for fishing, with the revenue going for research and fishery management.

The current U.S. limit of 12 miles was declared unilaterally by Congress in 1966. Some 20 nations now have seaward limits of 50 miles or more.

In the event the proposed U.S. limit overlaps other countries or their jurisdictions, a boundary would be negotiated. This is especially applicable in the gulfs of Alaska and Mexico.

Gas firm refund ordered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California Gas Co. has been ordered to refund $5.2 million in surcharges to all its customers by way of a six-month rate reduction.

The Public Utilities Commission (PUC) ordered the average 7-cent monthly residential decrease effective today to counterbalance a surcharge in effect while a Southern California supplier, El Paso Natural Gas Co., applied for a rate hike. The application was denied by the Federal Power Commission.

The decrease will be spread uniformly among all the gas company's customers, a spokesman said after Monday's PUC meeting.

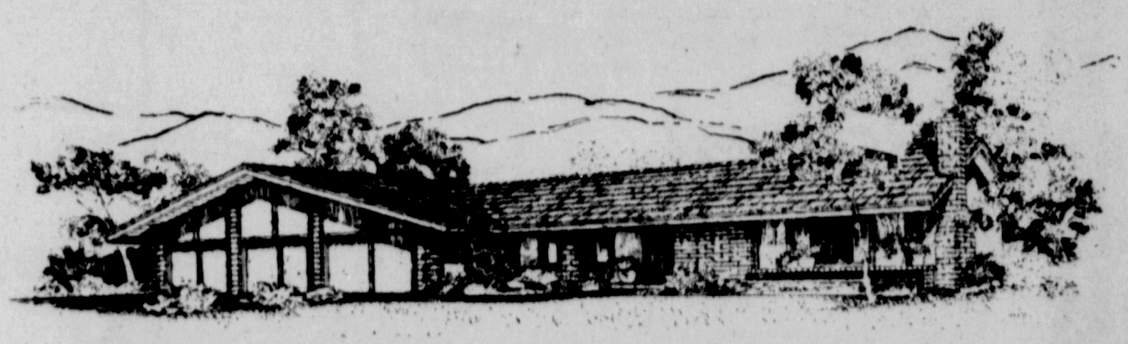
You know what they say about the early bird...



He's the one who catches that proverbial worm.

Well, it's the early homebuying dollar.

At North Pointe, Armstrong Development Corporation's new community of "country" homes in Upland, building has just started. And, at this stage of construction, a host of money-saving opportunities are available to early buyers.

They're the ones who will have the widest choice of lots, floorplans and exteriors.

They're the ones who will be able to choose their own built-in furnishings and virtually customize their new home. They'll choose the colors and patterns that are just right for them.

By buying early, they're the ones who will be protecting themselves from future price increases, so often dictated by a rise in the cost of building materials.

And, they'll be the first to enjoy North Pointe's quality features: Sunken living rooms • formal dining rooms • wet bars • wood-burning fireplaces • attractive indoor planters • central refrigerated air conditioning • step-saving intercoms • modern kitchen appliances • 3-car garages • separate laundry rooms and much, much more.

Visit North Pointe today and see just how much more the "early birds" are getting!

THE BIG SQUEEZE — An elephant at the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago stretches his trunk through the bars of its enclosure to reach a marshmallow. By kneeling and putting his head against the bars, he was just able to reach the treat.

Personalized plates big hit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Those CUTE, CLEVER and CORNY personalized license plates on California cars are providing steady income for environmental projects.

Since the program started five years ago, the plates have generated $10.2 million, including $2.2 million for operating costs.

The other $8 million has been allocated for environmental projects such as smog research, land purchases for ecological reserves, and environmental education programs in public schools.

Earlier this year, the 200,000th personalized plate was issued. Revenue has climbed to $3 million a year.

Now about one car in 75 sports a personalized plate.

The plates cost an extra $25 the first year, and an additional $10 each year thereafter.

For that, a motorist gets to pick any combination of six letters and numerals not in use, except those ruled obscene or objectionable by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Among the most popular plates are common names and words such as PEACE, LOVE, SMILE and dozens of variations like 2SMILE, ILOVE, ULOVE, ILOVEU, ILUVU2 and even ILUVU3.

But many motorists have come up with long words and even sentences. Examples include U4ICK, 4GETIT, 4UWIFE, ICU, ISPOSE, ICU2, ISUE4U, LETITB, WEDIGU, IMAMOM. The current fiscal year is the program's biggest yet, with $4.5 million worth of spending planned. That includes reserves from previous years.

A $3.2 million appropropriation to the Air Resources Board for smog research takes the biggest bite. The Department of Fish and Game is getting $300,000 to purchase land for ecological reserves.

The Department of Education is getting $275,000 for environmental education, and $725,000 goes back to the Department of Motor Vehicles to run the special license program.

So far, the money has been used to buy eight parcels of land — totaling 874 acres — in five counties to protect the habitat of several species including the condor, bighorn sheep and salamander. The counties are Inyo, Mariposa, Riverside, Santa Cruz and Ventura.

Ernie Draffin, who coordinates spending from the fund in the state Resources Agency, said it has exceeded expectations.

"We're surprised it has held up as well as it has," he said.

One reason is the ingenuity of motorists to think up new messages that fit into six letters and numerals.

The messages — some serious, some silly, some obscure, and some risque, despite restraints of the DMV — include a variety of comments about the cars, the motorists, and life in general:

USAOK, WIERDO, WIERD1, STUD, COOL1, INLOVE, INLAW, INHOCK, CORPSE, COSTLY, SWOOSE, UPDOWN, FUNKY, FUNCAR, RAGTOP, WEEBUG, WEGOLF, UPTITE, UPYURS, UPYRS2, UPHILL, GASWHO. Others: RELAAX, ISTRIP, 4ULOVE, 4TRASH, BEGOOD, BEBAD, BEMINE, BESURE, BMYLUV, ONTAP, ONTAPE, ONTIME, THEELF, THEEGO, THEEND.

It's a slick idea to conserve oil

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The state has teamed up with three suburban Chicago communities on what officials think is a slick idea for conserving petroleum resources and helping weekend mechanics get rid of used motor oil at the same time.

The state Division of Energy is coordinating a test program of motor oil recycling facilities in Des Plaines, Glen Ellyn and Naperville.

The facilities give people who do their own automobile oil changes a place to dump the motor oil other than the sewer system or on the ground. And, although officials admit that oil collected so far is only a drop in the barrel, they say recycling saves energy resources.

"Every gallon we save is that much we don't have to draw from nature," said Philip Lindahl, Des Plaines environmental officer, who runs the recycling center there.

Lindahl and other officials say the cost to communities is minimal — all that is needed is a large tank or two and a place to put them.

In the 21 weeks the Des Plaines waste oil point has been in operation on the corner of the city's glass, can and paper recycling center, an average of 52 gallons a week have been brought in.

"It's caught on real well," Lindahl said. "We're very pleased with the results."

PUBLIC NOTICE

PUBLICATION OF PETITION AND NOTICE OF INTENTION TO APPLY ON NAMED DAY FOR ORDER DECLARING STATUS OF NEWSPAPER AS ONE OF GENERAL CIRCULATION

No. EAC-20645

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA FOR THE COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES

In the matter of the petition of MARTIN WEINBERGER to have the standing of the CLAREMONT COURIER as a newspaper of general circulation ascertained and established.

Petitioner MARTIN WEINBERGER alleges:

I. Petitioner is the editor and publisher of the newspaper known as the CLAREMONT COURIER.

II. Said newspaper is a newspaper of general circulation published for the dissemination of local or telegraphic news and intelligence of a general character in Claremont, Los Angeles County, California. The business address of this paper is 112 Harvard Avenue, Claremont, California.

III. Said newspaper has a bona fide subscription list of paying subscribers, numbering 3,500 in Claremont, California, and, elsewhere outside the city, and has an average bi-weekly circulation of 4,250.

IV. Said newspaper has been established and published at regular intervals of not less than weekly in the city and judicial district for which it is seeking adjudication for at least three years preceding the date of adjudication.

V. Said newspaper has a substantial distribution to paid subscribers in the city and Judicial district in which it is seeking adjudication. It has maintained a minimum coverage of local or telegraphic news and intelligence of a general character of not less than twenty-five percent of its total inches during each year of the three year period. It has only one principal office of publication and that office is in the city and judicial district for which it is seeking adjudication.

VI. Said newspaper sought and obtained an adjudication that it was a newspaper of general circulation prior hereto, on May 1, 1936, in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Los Angeles.

WHEREFORE, petitioner prays for a judgment ascertaining and establishing said CLAREMONT COURIER as a newspaper of general circulation as defined in Sections 6000 and 6008 of the Government Code, for the City of Claremont, for the County of Los Angeles, and for the State of California.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on October 30, 1975, at 9:00 A.M. or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, in Dept. A of the Superior Court, County of Los Angeles, East District, located at 400 Civic Center Plaza, Pomona, California, petitioner intends to apply for an order declaring said newspaper to be a newspaper of general circulation.

BUGS BUNNY by Stoffel & Heimdahl

FUN FACTS from WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT GUM

A FROG'S TONGUE IS FASTENED AT THE FRONT RATHER THAN THE REAR OF THE MOUTH. THE TIP POINTS BACKWARD WHEN THE MOUTH IS CLOSED.

AN EARLY COIN (B.C.) FROM SOUTHERN FRANCE THAT WAS USED TO PURCHASE HAMS WAS ACTUALLY MOLDED IN THE SHAPE OF A HAM.

MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTS, (1542-1567) CALLED HER YOUNG CLUB CARRIER "CADET." THIS LATER WAS SLURRED IN POPULAR USAGE TO BECOME THE WORD, "CADDY!"

NO LIVING PERSON, NOT EVEN A PRESIDENT, CAN BE THE SUBJECT OF A U.S. POSTAGE STAMP.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — The next time your curtains are down, apply a light coat of wax to the rods and see how easy it is to slip the curtains back on. The wax is also a rust preventative.— IRENE.

© 1975 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY — Turn a nearly empty bottle of hand lotion upside down in a wide-mouthed container and leave it there until all the lotion has run out. There will be enough lotion for two or three applications. — MRS. R.B.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — When a canned ham does not slide right out of the can, put the can in the oven, on low heat, for just a few minues and the ham will slide out easily . . . LILLIAN.
(Polly's note: I run very hot water on the can, and find that also helps the ham to come out.)

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is a money-saving idea for a shower cap to protect my "just from the shop" hairdo. I fold a big plastic bag from the dry cleaners and cut it into the shape of a three-cornered scarf. This way my scarf is double. I tie it around my head bandana fashion, tuck in the open parts and have dry, protected hair. — MRS. B.E.

DEAR POLLY — I finally found the perfect bridal shower gift wrap! I buy nylon net to harmonize with the gift wrap paper, and make pot scrubbers of the net. They're easily fastened to the package, and look like rosettes. — JANE.

DEAR POLLY — Here's an easy way to wash walls, ceilings and high places without using a stepladder: Use a sponge-type floor mop that has an attached squeegee. There are no drips, as you always wring out the sponge mop. — F.M.H.

DEAR POLLY — My husband has several pairs of navy blue socks, but all a slightly different shade. To keep them matched properly after washing, I fold each pair in the middle and then put a rubber band around them. This not only keeps the pairs together, but keeps his dresser drawer neater, too. — SHARON.

DEAR POLLY — When my cancelled personalized checks are returned I cut off the corners with my name and address and they are used instead of name and address labels. They are also used inside a letter when ordering something, glued inside my books and pen pals can glue them to index cards for reference. — KATHY.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

MICKI FANCOUIC OF COLEMAN, MI, ASKS: "WHY DOES WATER PUT OUT A FIRE?"

A FIRE NEEDS FUEL, HEAT AND AIR TO BURN. TAKE AWAY ANY ONE OF THESE, AND THE FIRE WILL GO OUT. WHEN A FIREMAN SQUIRTS WATER ON THE BURNING WALL OF A BUILDING, THE WATER DOES SOMETHING MUCH MORE IMPORTANT THAN DROWNING THE FLAMES. IT COOLS THE BURNING WALL. BY COOLING THE WALL BELOW ITS KINDLING POINT - THE TEMPERATURE BELOW WHICH IT WILL NOT BURN - THE FIRE DIES OUT.

Bicentennial affecting our weddings

All our planning for the nationwide Bicentennial observation will have a profound effect on every man, woman and child in the country. There is no doubt that the influence of the year-long Bicentennial celebration will be also felt by one great institution — the All-American Wedding.

Whether it's a quiet ceremony in a little country chapel or an extravaganza with all the trimmings, one thing every bride and groom is destined to share is, the return of traditional elegance to the wedding scene.

The bride-to-be, shopping for her gown will see some models with a hint of a bustle dating back to the revolutionary era, the sweeping lines of a romantic cape and ruffles reminiscent of pre-Civil War southern belles or the Victorian ruffled necklines of the 1890's.

Wedding gowns for 1975-76 literally trace the history of American fashion. During these uncertain times it's natural for us to seek security and roots in the historic good old old days.

Colorful sparks

It should come as no surprise that yesteryear's fashions will also be updated for today's dashing groom. Color has added a genuine spark of excitement to spring-summer weddings in recent years. Now for fall-winter '75 the groom no longer need be content only with black or green, navy and brown which debuted last year, but may opt for a new shade of camel, fireworks blue or surprise plum.

Executives at After Six, America's leading producers of formal wear, state that todays'a bout-to-be marrieds respect the traditions of the wedding scene but want to embellish it with their own imprint and translation of elegance. They suggest that couples on the threshold of marriage should start shopping for his attire at least two months prior to the wedding date and only after she has selected her gown, colorings for her attendants and the floral scheme.

Proper coordination

Armed with a mental picture of these details they can provide their favorite formal wear specialist with the information needed to coordinate the proper attire for the groom, his men, the father of the bride and perhaps a ring bearer.

After Six sparks wedding creativity with a new style in a shade of camel with sweeping peak lapels framed in rich, dark brown velvet. The velvet is also used to accent angled pockets and create a distinctive cuff treatment. A matching brown velvet tie and vest in single or double breasted version teams with a lavishly ruffled ecru shirt for a total fashion effect.

Plum romantic

The romantic Camelot is also available in plum and a new shade of blue that is not as dark as navy nor as bright as royal. After Six calls it Fireworks Blue. And of course there are the proper accessories to permit proper color coordination.

Plain or fancy

For the bride who chooses sumptuous emboridery detailing on her gown, the groom can select the Brandywine in a rich black, navy, brown or burgundy with an elegant brocade treatment on peak lapels and cuffs. No longer must he take a secondary fashion role in the wedding.

And if their fancy turns to something unusual there are formal jackets of deep dimensional brocade in geometric prints of burgundy or blue on black.

Edison sparked entertainment era

By David Lachenbruch
Editorial Director, Television Digest with Consumer Electronics and frequent contributor to TV Guide and other publications.

When our country was 101 years young, the opening shot was fired in the home entertainment revolution. As the nation approaches its bicentennial year, the revolution continues with new momentum. It shaped and changed the lives of the current generation. Its impact on the lives of our children and their children promises to be even greater.

How it began

In 1877, Thomas A. Edison invented the phonograph, bringing reproduced sound into the home. For the first time, the great performing artists of the day were available to everyone—not just to those who by accident of wealth or geography were able to visit the theater or concert hall. The revolution had begun.

Forty-three years later, in 1920, home entertainment itself was revolutionized by electronics (although the word hadn't yet been coined). Radio became the wonder of the age, bringing entertainment, news and information into the home, instantaneously, as it was happening.

TV arrives

After 26 more years, as World War II ended, sight was added to sound, a generation grew up on Milton Berle, Howdy Doody and "instant newsreels" in the home — and America would never be the same.

In another eight years — 1954 — color was added to television. In seven more, stereophonic sound started bringing a new dimension, first to records, then to broadcasting.

New realism

Along the way, FM had brought new realism to radio, and tape recorders made it possible to preserve speech and music as a camera preserves scenes and portraits.

It has been my occupation to observe and chronicle the home entertainment revolution for the last 25 years. During that time, the lifestyle of America has been revolutionized by home entertainment electronics. We see and hear the news from around the world virtually as it is happening. We witnessed the scientific achievement of the century, live and in color, when man first set foot on the moon.

Sporting thing

Television has revolutionized sports, bringing the stadium and the golf course into millions of homes. In one televised performance today, more people can attend a theatrical event than have watched all of Shakespeare's plays in the theater since the bard's time. Without electronic home entertainment, it's even unlikely there would be anything called rock music.

End of revolution? No. Beginning of new revolution.

Based on the rapid advances in electronic technology and with some idea of what's on the drawing boards, I believe that the next ten years will bring forth more major new products and improvements on existing ones than the first 99.

Coming up

Phonograph, radio, stereo, recorder, television — all products of the home entertainment revolution. Next: Video phonograph, flat-screen picture-on-the-wall color TV, home video movies, household computer terminals, answerback television screens, videophones and omnisound, together with a few surprises not on the agenda.

Not for the Tricentennial, but for the Bicentennial plus a decade or so. That's the perpetual home entertainment revolution!

New fabrics, new problems

While the popularity of knit fabrics has added a new "look" to today's fashions, they've also added new problems to the care and cleaning of consumers' wardrobes. Many knits are machine washable, but require special care in drying to avoid shrinking or damage to the fiber.

However, there's some good news for the knit-pickers: special cycles are being added to automatic dryers to provide the low-temperature drying necessary to protect knit and monoacrylic garments against shrinkage and fiber damage.

General Electric, for example, is extending this feature throughout most of its home laundry line. Formerly, special knit cycles were available only in higher-priced models.

Although knit clothing just came into prominence in the mid 1960's, it now accounts for 60 per cent of the fabric produced for women's wear and 55 per cent of the retail piece goods sales.

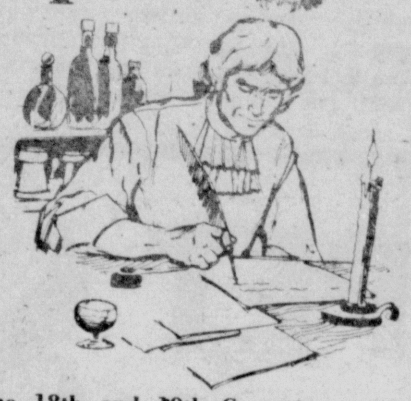
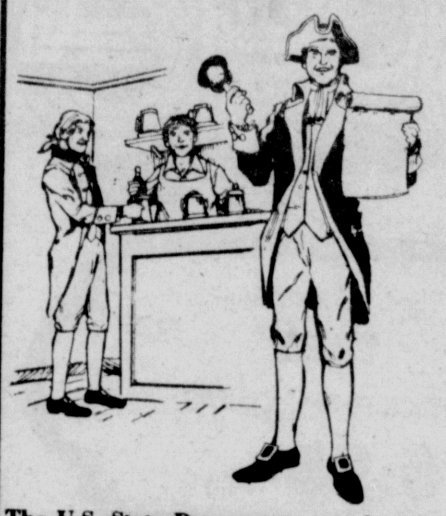
The American Spirit

Colonial taverns played an exciting role in the founding and early years of our country. They served importantly as meeting places, hideouts and headquarters for patriots.

The Declaration of Independance was written by Jefferson in Philadelphia's Indian Queen Tavern. Patrick Henry called the Colonial tavern 'the cradle of American liberty.'





In the 18th and 19th Centuries taverns comforted travelers on grueling coach and horseback trips. Patrons warmed themselves with a new, native American spirit, Bourbon, raw-edged and fiery then. Today's Wild Turkey Kentucky Bourbon, a smooth, mellow eight years old would have astonished the gentlemen of our new Republic.

The U.S. State Department was founded at New York landmark Fraunces Tavern. Lexington's Buckman Tavern sheltered the town's Minutemen company. Austin, Nichols, maker of Wild Turkey, salutes the taverns of our forebears.

Limits of apartment living surmountable

Oh, the limits of apartment living: stark white walls with no architectural interest; small rooms that must accommodate entertaining as well as day-to-day living; windows that offer lots of light and a ringside seat for the neighbors, and never, but never enough closet space. Typical decorating problems all, but with a little ingenuity, not unsolvable.

A good starting point in decorating, whether in an apartment or house, is to create a focal point of interest.

In many apartments that have neither dramatic views or a striking element like a fireplace, this center of interest must be created. It might be an imposing piece of furniture, a spectacular piece of artwork, or simply a clever arrangement of furnishings.

An around-the-corner grouping of seating pieces, for example, will direct visual attention into the main conversation area — a natural center of interest.

Nothing helps eke out the most use from apartment-size spaces like dual purpose furniture. One of the newest ideas in the category is a matching convertible sofa and loveseat by Karpen. The two pieces give the effect of a "seating pit" for plenty of comfortable living and seating for guests.

Each home reflects owner's personality

Entering someone's home can be like going into a Wonderland, because a home reflects one's very essence by the nature of the choice of furnishings.

Fortunately, we live in a time that enables us to trust our own instincts — there are no fashion absolutes. Fortunately too, there are helpful guides from creative home furnishing manufacturers who offer extensive choices to aid us in translating desires into reality with the maximum of style for the minimum of cost. So let's take an imaginary trip through the Looking Glass and see which lifestyle might fit us best.

Oriental interest

Perhaps the reawakening interest in the Orient piques us. If so, then we might want to spend some time in a dining room which Pat Plaxico, A.S.I.D., designed using Schoolfield's "Classique" collection.

Framed and set off by a latticed archway, the clean, geometric lines of the Chippendale-influenced furniture seem to chase clutter from the atmosphere. All is stylized and wonderfully cool-look-

Solid-state devices are revolutionary

The first 99 years of the home entertainment revolution encompassed the development of audio, radio and television — but the last five years probably have been the most significant.

In the beginning there was the mechanical phonograph, then the electron tube which made possible electronic audio equipment and the other home entertainment products. Today, solid-state devices, the first of which was invented in 1947, have accelerated the pace of the revolution.

Significant performance

Solid-state devices — including transistors, diodes and integrated circuits — have eliminated cumbersome, heat-producing, power-hungry and failure-prone electron tubes. But even more significantly, they can perform incredibly complex tasks in a small space and at a low cost in mass-production.

A single integrated circuit smaller than a postage stamp can accomplish electronic functions which once would have required thousands of individual parts.

The first completely new product made possible by the integrated circuit is the electronic calculator which, in shirtpocket size and at almost unbelievably low cost, can do jobs which a few years ago would have required a roomful of equipment (or a roomful of mathematical geniuses).

The solid state revolution has revised and revitalized all existing home entertainment products. It has paved the way for color television sets which require virtually no manual tuning or knob-twiddling, color and black - and - white sets which operate anywhere on their own batteries, tiny portable radios,

Apartment limits

When the sofa is pulled out to a bed, the living room becomes a guest room.

But oh, those bland, white walls, those small windows facing into another building. Although most landlords strictly forbid wallpaper, pattern interest can be achieved with fabrics. To assure simple removal, strips of molding should be nailed around the edges of the walls and the fabric stapled to the molding.

The challenge of apartment windows is to let in the light and still provide privacy. One solution is shutters used on the lower portion of the window only. Full-length sheer draperies will also do the trick.

The trick to easing the apartment closet squeeze? Supplement them with furnishings chosen for storage capabilities, as well as good looks: armoires that stow clothing or even stereo equipment; hutches and sideboards for linens, even a hat rack helps.

Finally, apartments accommodae a lot of living in small spaces, so durability and easy-care are keys to success, and upholstery fabrics and carpeting of stain-resistant, man-made fibers like Herculon olefin are a special boon.

Sturdy materials of Herculon thrive on multi-purpose apartment living with very little care. Spots and spills can be quickly whisked away with a sponge and suds of a light detergent and water. Because the stain-resistance is built right into the fiber, it lasts for the life of the furnishings.

18th Century elegance

Or perhaps we'd rather go back to a grander time when elegance had a special meaning. The feeling of the 18th Century finds attractions for old and young alike, with autentic, affordably priced reproductions from Hickory Furniture Company's "The American Masterpiece Collection."

A camelback sofa can pleasingly dominate, while a bowfront chest and Pembroke table can give any room a special feeling of depth and quality with their fine Honduras Mahogany hand-rubbed finish and brass pulls. This kind of room can truly be an oasis of peace in a busy life.

Transportable living

But what if we like the feeling that we can easily pick up and leave? One answer might be the easily trnasportable living room that Sharon Meadows designed using Syroco's LifeStyle collection. As practical and inexpensive as plastic can be, the furniture, nevertheless, has a feeling of weight and quality.

The cushioning of the sofa and armchairs is ample and very comfortable, while the lines of the frames are basic and geometric — very contemporary. The sofa, chairs, and coffee table, all echoed in a coordinating dining set, make for a totally "now" environment.

Unique hideaway

Further into our fantasy, the perfect hide away to write that great novel — or just to read one — might be created with a room designed by Sharon Meadows and Kay Brewer, featuring Spherical's 79-inch bed.

Unique and different-looking, it takes a standard sheet and comes covered with its own furry throw and pillow shams set off by its own squared headboard that also serves as a nightstand, shelf and place for bedside lamp.

Roller-skating is having revival in all ages

GETTING READY TO ROLL is World Champion Pair skater Sue McDonald of Steubenville, Ohio, who knows strong feet and legs are important to enjoying this indoor sport. She makes the going smoother, more comfortable by spraying her feet with Scholl foot powder before putting her wheels in motion.

What has eight wheels and goes on foot? Roller skates . . . the country's current popular "put-on."

Over 19 million Americans put on roller skates last year at some 2,500 rinks, according to the national rink operators association.

Since the sport requires strong feet and legs, smart skaters start at the bottom to build muscles and condition the body. For those just starting to "roll" on wheels, here are some tips from Scholl footcare experts to make skating smoother.

Begin by wearing skate shoes that fit properly, without rubbing against toes and heels.

To prevent slipping of the skate boot, tuck a snugger or liner around the heel area. Since feet might differ slightly in size, make up the difference by using a liner in just one boot.

Take a tip from the pros and line your skate boot with comfort in the form of foam insoles. The liner will personalize rental skates and is always good foot hygiene.

AN EXCELLENT EXAMPLE of fine New England wicker is the Cape Cod design produced by Calif-Asia. An expert says its new popularity is based on appealing design and exceptional comfort.

Nostalgic wicker is popular favorite

The strong return to popularity of New England wicker has caused an interesting controversy in the home-furnishings industry. The controversy stems from the question, "why?" Some contend it is based on the current nostalgia kick and will soon fade while others say it is a backlash to the current over-use of plastics.

In an effort to get a qualified opinion on the subject, Hall Bradley, one of the nation's most respected leisure furniture designers, was interviewed. With numerous awards to his credit, Mr. Bradley is Director of Design for Calif-Asia, the nation's oldest manufacturer/importer of fine rattan home furnishings.

When asked if he had heard of the wicker debate, Mr. Bradley replied, "Certainly. I guess most people in my profession have. It's my feeling that both of the positions presented have merit.

"I do not think it can be denied that there is considerable nostaligia value in New England wicker . . . the very look of the furniture takes one back to very pleasant periods in our country's history. And the backlash approach certainly has validity.

"Because of their great versatility plastics are used extensively, but we are becoming buried in plastics.

Gourmet utensils decorate kitchen

Hanging pots and pans used to be a device for dealing with space problems in small, cramped city-apartment kitchens. But the current popularity of gourmet utensils brings more and more beautiful cooking equipment out from storage under the counter and onto display on kitchen walls.

Shining copper cookware, gleaming aluminum and stainless steel pans, and porcelain or ceramic casseroles in myriad fashion colors and designs are now as decorative as they are functional.

Attractive kitchenware is inspiration — the food seems to taste better, and cooking and serving it in beautiful cookware increases the enjoyment of the meal.

Keeping fine cookware on display, however, requires a firm commitment to keep it sparkling.

Most food residue left in pots and pans made of aluminum, stainless steel, Teflon, ceramic and porcelain can usually be washed away with a good liquid detergent and the swish of a sponge. But when the mess is greasy, more than soap and water is needed to prevent a build-up of the sticky stuff. A squirt of Grease relief degreaser and a swish of a sponge can solve greasy food cleaning problems and leave your pots and pans "squeaky" clean.

Other cleaning problems require various treatments:

To eliminate the black discoloration that builds up on an aluminum pot, simmer it in a solution of vinegar and water for ten to fifteen minutes.

If food sticks to a pot or pan, fill it with cold water and let stand until the food is soft. If the food is burned-on, boil water in the pan and add about two teaspoons of baking powder per quart of water (except for aluminum pots, which baking powder darkens).

Corroision spots on copper pans can be removed by rubbing with hot vinegar and salt, lemon juice and salt, or with buttermilk.

Aside from routine cookware cleaning problems, people who cook with gas rather than electricity also have to contend with the fily residue left by the gas. This will respond to normal cleaning with the degreaser and a sponge.

WITH THE NEW bangs to the brow "Oriental look" blunt cuts that are popular, your hair's color and texture is that much more obvious. To assure yourself a headful of gleaming hair, pay particular attention to its conditioning, even as you color. A shampoo-in type haircoloring that conditions the hair as it adds rich, lustrous color, is a good choice. Photo courtesy of Clairol Balsam Color.

Accent's on you in fall styles

This fall, you'll be wearing your clothes, your clothes won't be wearing you. Always a barometer of lifestyle, clothes are finally calming down and taking their proper place in the scheme of things.

The whole atmosphere promises to be relaxed and oh so much more comfortable. And that holds true across the fashion board — from clothes, to make-up, to hairstyles, and even to haircolor. Easy is the catchphrase of the season, and welcome it is.

Clothes are neither overly large nor are they stiflingly tight. Definitely narrower than in previous seasons, clothing still allows you room to breathe.

Self-expression

If there's one new look for the season, it's "Oriental" with lots of bright silk prints in vogue. However, the emphasis is still on what's in the clothes — namely, you, rather than fashion for its own sake. Consequently, you've that much more room to express yourself with your makeup and hair.

You can paint your eyes mysterious, your lips vivid, your cheeks vibrant. All eyes are on your face and not on your clothes this season. Nothing tops off a well put together face better than a well groomed head of hair.

Top off new fashions

Start with the cut. A good cut, versatile enough to go with all the ways you'll choose to look in a chin length, blunt cut. All one length, with bangs that reach down to the brow is particularly pretty and can have an Oriental flair to top off the new fashion too.

However, if you can't part with your curls, go all the way. Get a short, all over curly perm. To maintain the look, all you need do is wash and let dry naturally — perfect for a busy lifestyle.

Once you've got the hairstyle that particularly suits your lifestyle, consider the color. There's no excuse for your hair to be dull and mousey, not when coloring is so easy and good for your hair to boot.

Try a 20 - minute shampoo-in type haircolor like Clairol Balsam Color, to give your color just the right lift. Since Clairol Balsam Color comes with its own packette of proteinized conditioner you mix right into the color, not only will your hair's color be that much prettier, but you'll be conditioning it every time you spark up its color.

It's been a long time in coming, but finally the day has arrived when clothing is truly secondary to what's in it. To make the most of what you've got, face up to yourself in the mirror. Perhaps a new shape to your brow is in order, or a deeper shade of lipstick, a tawnier blush or a more vibrant head of hair. Do it! There's no excuse not to anymore.

Homeowners get guard devices

IN HIGH CRIME AREAS, many homeowners are investing in rather sophisticated security devices. Rather than wanting to trap a burglar after he is already in the house, according to recent Sears research, the key interest is in home security devices that warn off or prevent entry.

Current crime statistics from the Federal Bureau of Investigation hit awfully close to home. In its most current report, the FBI revealed that during the preceding five-year period home burglaries had jumped by over 50 per cent.

Reporting that the past year had an estimated 2,549,900 burglaries of all types, the FBI released the disquieting information that almost two-thirds of the total were committed in private residences. This means that over 1.5 million houses and apartments were burglarized during a single year's time.

It's little wonder then that when Jane or John Q. American Homeowner thinks about some capital improvements, they're likely to be in the area of home security. In fact, projects to avoid being ripped off may be one of the fastest growing segments of the home improvement field. The industry figure of some 400 companies now in the security hardware business and a recent study conducted by Sears, Roebuck and Co. seem to bear this out.

The Sears Research, conducted among a nationally representative consumer cross section, showed that more than 60 per cent have taken steps recently or plan to take steps in the near future to make their homes more secure.

Predictably, the consumers preferred home security products which warned off or prevented entry rather than those that detect or entrap an intruder after he is already in the house.

According to Sears, most homeowners begin by improving their lighting systems and installing security hardware. Deadbolt locks, door viewer "peep holes," and window sash key locks along with light timers and outdoor flood lights are among the most common items.

Those who live in urban areas with high crime rates or who have to leave their homes unattended for long periods of time, the company, said, are also investing in such things as wrought steel door and window guards, electronic burglar alarms and other more sophisticated protection devices.

Nonlib woman shines in her world

She is chic. She is charming. She is charismatic. "She" is Liliane Marescot, wife of Henri Marescot, vice president and general manager of Air France.

Much to the disappointment of the Women's Liberation Movement she is quite content to be known as "the wife of . . ." and is surprised that anyone should even question the identity she chooses.

Multiple roles

However, in addition to her role of wife and mother (she had three children) Madame Marescot is the representative of a number of top French fashion designers in the United States. She is also the originator and moving force behind Air France's semi-annual Fashion Flight from New York to Paris aboard which leading French designers preview their new collections just prior to the Paris International Women's Ready-to-Wear Salon showings.

French ingenuity

"It's an incentive to get American buyers to Paris before they spend all their money on other European collections," Madame Marescot frankly admits.

At home anywhere in the world, she has lived in France, Switzerland, Egypt, Senegal, Japan and the United States. Her favorite advice to travelers is to learn to speak at least one foreign language. She herself speaks fluent French, English, Dutch and German and some Arabic and Japanese.

Because of their hectic traveling schedules, she and her husband rarely have moments of privacy together. This, however, does not appear to flaw what is apparently a very happy marriage. "It's come to the point where I leave my husband more and more notes because there is so little time to talk with him alone," she sighs.

Bright lady

She loves bright colors, which seems natural for there is nothing drab about the lady or her personality. To describe her as "active" is somewhat of an understatement. On a desert island, one suspects that she'd be the first to organize and schedule activities.

Aside from the task of maintaining three residences (an apartment in New York, a house on Long Island and a villa in Cannes) she participates in French/American charity work, is an inveterate tennis player, world traveler and an expert on Japanese flower arranging. Proof of these accomplishments lies in the fact that she logs an estimated 500 hours on planes every year, that she was French jr. tennis champion and title holder in singles, doubles and mixed doubles in Egypt and French West Africa for three years and holds degrees from five Japanese flower arranging schools.

Viva la difference!

Madame Marescot believes the major difference between the way French and American women dress is one of quantity. A Frenchwoman will buy more expensive, but fewer clothes, varying the look of a particular outfit with the use of different accessories — a scarf, a pin, a flower.

Her beauty advice to women? Smile, be happy, enjoy life! She's a stunning example of her own advice.

THERE'S A 25" COLOR TV screen behind those double doors with their Pennsylvania Dutch motifs. For the "Spirit of '76" Bicentennial collection, a Dry Sink video model has been added — similar in design to the Dry Sink stereo console. The styling reflects the increasing emphasis Magnavox is placing on a fine-furniture look for TV cabinets. Performance features include exclusive "Videomatic" one-button tuning.

New TVs easy on eyes

A new-for-'76 line of 100 per cent solid-state color TV consoles is a treat to the eyes — even when the picture is turned off.

Fine furniture design joins beautiful craftsmanship, in the cabinetry of new Magnavox color TV consoles. The authentic furniture looks make it attractively easy to coordinate the TV set with other furnishings.

A new addition to the manufacturer's "Spirit of '76" Bicentennial collection is one example. The Dry Sink color TV console with 25" screen faithfully reproduces a popular Early American style.

Other fine furniture TV consoles in the line offer authentic designs from Mediterranean to Modern, to enhance any room and any decor.

Selected hardwood solids with a variety of finishes carry out the better-furniture theme of quality materials and construction.

Get planner's help with kitchen, bath

Kitchens, like cars, vary in cost. You can have the equivalent of a Pinto or a Porsche. Or spend less, or far more.

Even a basic model, in kitchens or cars, can become expensive if you exercise all the options. So it's wise, before you embark on a remodeling, to establish a budget.

Decide your price range, and within it, add or subtract certain features as you proceed through the planning stages to installation.

Working with a professional planner can be a great help in keeping a kitchen — or bath — project within bounds. He (or she, as more and more women are being accredited as Certified Kitchen Designers) is experienced at taking measurements, designing layouts, writing specifications, placing orders and supervising the workmen who install all of a kitchen's many components. So there are no surprises once you've approved the CKD's plan and signed a contract with his or her firm.

Do-it-yourself?

Suppose you want to remodel your kitchen yourself: Can you still employ a professional to design it? The answer is yes.

More and more members of the American Institute of Kitchen Dealers, by whom CKD's are employed, offer options. They will contract the entire job for you, absorbing the design fee in the over-all budget. Or charge you a planning fee and let you handle installation. Some will even instruct you in do-it-yourself techniques in conjunction with your purchase of cabinetry.

Some people like to pound nails, others don't. It's for those that don't (or can't, without hammering a finger) that the kitchen/bath specialist offers the complete package of design, supply and installation.

Price ranges

Design alone will cost you from $50 to $150, the AIKD advises, depending on what services the professional performs. For $50 to $75, say, he will provide a floor plan and sketches, make recommendations as to appliances and cabinetry, and estimate what their installation will cost.

For $50 to $75 more, he will add perspective drawings and detailed product specifications, enabling your labor to benefit from his professional knowledge. This is to your decided advantage.

WINKEY, THE WISE OLD OWL, helps kids solve their number problems and introduces them to the exciting world of mathematics. It's Quiz Kid, the first mass produced electronic game machine, not just a toy but a learning tool that teaches while it entertains. It's based on the same technology that produced solid-state circuitry for spacecraft and color TV.

An electronic owl is a math helper

A wise old owl helps children solve their number problems and helps them discover that mathematics can be an exciting adventure.

It's Quiz Kid.TM the first mass-produced electronic game machine. Not just a toy, but a fun machine that teaches while it entertains.

Quiz Kid, manufactured by Novus, consumer products division of National Semiconductor Corp., goes far beyond the so-called "computerized" toys and games that have been on the market for the last several years. It's based on the same technology that produced advanced solid-state circuitry for spacecraft, solar television and calculators.

Quiz Kid's numbered programming panel with red light/green light answer display has been designed into a cheerful owl face. Here's how it works:

The child puts in a problem with the answer he thinks is correct — for example, 2 plus 2 equals 4. Then he asks "Winkey the owl" if he's right by hitting the question mark. If the answer is correct, the owl will light up its green eye. If the answer is wrong, the red eye lights up. It's that easy.

A companion game-and-puzzle Quiz Book comes with the game machine. The book has been carefully edited for ages 6 to 12, and contains math-oriented puzzles, riddles and games. But the use of the Quiz Kid isn't limited to the contents of the book. Possible appplications are limitless.

Let your skill replace money

Economically speaking, tightening the belt is playing it smart these days. Particularly at the start of a new season, the natural impulse is to rush out and buy all the new fashion styles and cosmetic shades you see in the stores.

Yet, when living within an increasingly smaller budget is unfortunately becoming a way of life, it's especially difficult to reconcile the inclination to buy with the sheer financial necessity to cut back.

No matter what economic shape you're in, there's still no excuse not to look your best — no matter how little you can spend. If you buy right, you can look fashionable this fall if you know where to cut corners.

Corners to cut

Instead of investing in the top of the line in cosmetics at an expensive department store, why not try a more inexpensive brand that you can find on the counters of drug and variety stores.

Remember, it's not the money you spend on your cosmetics that makes or breaks your looks — it's the care you take in applying them. Even a six-dollar lipstick can look all wrong if it's on crooked. So why not develop some expert skill in applying your makeup. That takes practice, not heaps of money!

Replace your expensive moisturizers and creams with petroleum jelly and save your face as well as your finances. Just apply a trace to your face at night and a tiny bit under your eyes all the time to insure a lovely skin at a minimum cost.

Buy more for less

Coats are slimmer

Coat shapes are slimmer or appear less bulky. Jackets have the newest shapes: quilted cottons with toggle closings and kimono jackets. In coats, check out the fur trims, frog closings and patterned knit sweater effects.

Hoods are everywhere. Layered coats are another big look: a raincoat over a shinecoat partner. Big rain slickers are lined with plaid wool. Capecoats are dashing warm-ups.

Scarves and shawls are used as warm-ups over suits, as capes, or serapes.

Evenings

Glamour that's easy to live with . . . that's the fall evening story. The evening suit, the evening jumpsuit, the Chinese influence, and the soft subtle dress are coming out at night.

The toga dress layers it on in fluid fabrics. The bare long dress exposes back and front, covers up with a shawl. Watch the bare bra under the open shirt for evening exposes, also the strapless wrap-around tubular look.

Organization will conquer house work

House cleaning may not be fun, vut you can get through it faster by keeping a few basic ideas in mind:

—Concentrate on doing one job at a time. Set aside one morning for doing the laundry, another for vacuuming and floor washing, a third for dusting and "smudge" work.

—Certain spray cleaning chores that require little or no moving of objects can be done all at once — and with new Glass*Plus™ glass, appliance, and cabinet cleaner. It takes care of cleaning windows and window sills, light switches and fixtures, door knobs, mirrors, kitchen and bathroom sinks and spigots, cabinets, shelves and countertops. You can move from room to room, spray cleaner and clean cloth in hand.

—Organize your cleaning aids — store floor cleaners with mops, furniture dust and polish aids with feather dusters and polishing cloth, etc. Keep duplicate sets on each floor of your home, or carry them conveniently in a caddy.

Large jobs, like major room overhauls, should be done individually. Plan to do just one or two rooms a day, so you can give them a careful, thorough cleaning.

—Practice the reward system. When the job's done, enjoy yourself . . . lunch with friends, spend the afternoon reading a good book, or just put your feet up and relax!

Your skill . . .

but, ounce for fluid ounce, you are saving money.

It also pays to use non-aerosol products whenever possible. Aside from the obvious environmental advantages, more often than not, you'll be getting more for your money when you choose a non-aerosol product. A non-aerosol hair fixative you spritz on is a classic example of the advantages of a nonaerosol.

Since you spritz rather than spray it on, there's no propellant to take up ounces or, for that matter, your money, either. And to top that economic advantage, is concentrated for beautiful, long-lasting hold, so you need to use less to help hold your hair in place naturally all day. Quite a bargain, any way you look at it!

Fashionwise, if you're into the new denim or khaki looks, steer clear of the boutiques and make a bee line to your local army/navy surplus store. There are tremendous buys in jeans, overalls, khakis, jackets — usually at drastic savings, too.

To accent your look, buy inexpensive scarves and neckerchiefs in fall colors like russet and burnt orange at the 5 and 10 cents store and you've got the newest in fashion looks for a minimum of money. Accent these to best advantage with dime store jewelry in the latest styles and shades.

Why not give it a try? With a little care and an eye toward the state of your pocketbook, you can look terrific this fall without breaking the bank!

Be sharp in kitchen

Ask any chef and he'll tell you sharp knives are essential to success in the kitchen. Dull knives do a poor job and you're apt to cut yourself in the bargain.

Now there's no excuse to ever use a dull knife again. Fortunately, a unique new knife sharpener has been developed by one of America's leading knife manufacturers. Imperial's Blade-Master makes it possible for any-one to restore factory-new sharpness to knives in seconds.

No ordinary knife sharpener, the non-electric Imperial Blade-Master possesses the same professional sharpening features used by cutlers, when knifes are manufactured.

The unique patented construction of the Blade-Master insures the knife blade will be positioned automatically to the proper grinding angle. The ribbed cones on either side of the grind wheel cause an up-and-down grinding motion that produces a better edge even on hollow-ground serrated or scalloped blades. The cones also automatically clean the grinding wheel.

An important feature is the protective safety-guard handle and exclusive "grind trap" which prevents particles from collecting on the counter or table.

The Imperial Blade-Master is available in either gold or green to harmonize with kitchen color schemes. You'll find it in hardware, housewares, variety and department stores as well as supermarkets.

CALCULATING SHOPPER — The automatic percent key on this Rockwell calculator makes computation of sales tax a snap in the supermarket. The percent key is also extremely useful for figuring discount and markup percentages, which can easily be entered as whole numbers.

Take your memory to supermarket

The memory feature on many inexpensive handheld calculators today is a time-saving feature that allows you to calculate problems while shopping — or anywhere, for that matter — without the need of paper and pencil.

While grocery shopping, for example, a memory feature allows you to determine the better buy between competing products and calculate sales tax — all while you keep a running tab of the total bill.

The type of memory you buy determines the number of entires you need to make in solving such problems. Rockwell suggests you make sure you understand how the calculator you select works before you buy it.

To determine the better buy of two choices, divide the price of item A by the ounces contained in it, then multiply this price per ounce by the ounces contained in item B. The result is the price of item B if the cost per ounce was the same as item A.

Women taking stand with neater shoes

Stepping into fall '75, women will take a stand in neater, trimmer, less cluttered shoes to underscore the tailored knee-hovering styles of the new season.

One of the trendiest fashion footnotes will be a low-down slip of a shoe with a squared-off heel that feels comfortable, yet looks chic. Heels are block-shaped with square side wall treatments or hardware to add a touch of elegance.

With the return of more dresses and skirts, look for shoes that dress up, and some that go "strap-happy." For example, "T" straps that run up the instep are making tracks, as are leather bands that weave across the vamp to reveal manicured toes. Heels, too, are coming out from under cover with slingback shoes that are gaining popularity.

Shoe hues that are making news this fall are black, making an important return in suede and leather, earth tones from rust to clay, warm browns and greens, and camel heading up the neutrals. Navy and burgundy are still important classics that promise to be around for quite some time.

Underscoring the fall news in footwear, a genuine leather sole guarantees quality as well as comfort. Leather, the natural fiber, is better because it flexes, bending and stretching to accommodate the changing positions of the active foot while it walks to the office, strolls down the avenue window shopping or dances the night away.

In addition, the leather sole "breathes" because it's made up of millions of tiny fibers that allow fresh air into the shoe, and conduct excess heat and wetness out.

Now easy to identify by the Sole Leather Mark, a hide-shaped symbol appearing on the finest footwear for men, women and children, the leather-soled shoe is the perfect footnote to the comfortable, quality fashion of the coming season.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'TRAVELIN' ON'

Imagine traveling the country side in a huge, elaborate land cruiser, venturing each week to a new locale you never dreamed existed in the United States, or anywhere for that matter. If your imagination can stretch to a rugged looking man with two adolescent sons in this 32-foot luxury motor home, then picture the beautiful, breath taking scenery they encounter on their travels. When all this comes into perspective, add exciting and challenging adventures. Put all of these visions into a computer and the results sum up Three for the Road, the one-hour family drama airing Sundays at 7PM on CBS.

Alex Rocco stars as Pete Karras, a recent widower and freelance photographer who supports his two sons Vincent Van Patten starring as John and his kid brother Leif Garrett starring as Endy. Together, the trio journey to different sections of the country on Pete's assignments, experiencing diverse life styles and situations that are not always harmonious to their ways of living.

The shows versatility not only lies in the regions and personalities the Karras' encounter, but also in their weekly escapades. Each week, their $40,000 motor home takes them to such unusual locales as a speed raceway, a dude ranch, or a haunted house, or on hang gliding and hot air ballooning expeditions.

All three stars are quite capable of handling an episode written around them, they all have some pretty impressive credits.

Alex Rocco, probably best remembered by audiences for his role in "The Godfather" as Las Vegas gambler Moe Green, claims he is often typecast as a heavy or a bodyguard.

"I have killed or been killed violently in Hollywood for the last ten years." The tall attractive actor has played a guard in three Al Capone movies, including "The St. Valentine's Day Massacre, starring Jason Robards.

"The Friends of Eddie Coyle," "The Venetian Affair," Freebie and the Bean," and "Rafferty and the Gold Dust Twins," are among his other movie credits. Rocco's television features include "The Blue Knight" with George Kennedy, "Hustling," and "Twigs." The Italian descendant has made numerous appearances on most of the major television shows.

Rocco is elated over his new series. He is finally getting to play a father after so many years of playing violent roles. "This is the first time someone has trusted me with kids."

In true life the actor does have four children of his own. He feels the chemistry works so well on camera with Van Patten and Garrett, his stage sons, because he treats them the same way he would treat his own children. "On and off camera we have a real relationship," says Rocco. "There is nothing saccharin with us. If the boys do something wrong, I tell them it is wrong and I don't hide my emotions, even when we are acting." He added, "In real life parents react to their children, and so do I."

Vincent Van Patten plays Rocco's oldest son, John. "Three for the Road" is his second series, he was chosen for the role of Paul Apple on Apple's Way, and has appeared on Medical Center, Barnaby Jones, Bonanza and Cannon.

Van Patten has starred in three Disney Films, "The Boy and the Bronc Buster," "Charley and the Angel," and "High Flying Spy." The young man's father is Dick Van Patten who has a distinguished acting career, as does his aunt, Joyce Van Patten.

Inspite of his being the youngest star of Three for the Road, 14 year-old Leif Garrett has some pretty outstanding credits of his own in television and film.

Leif's first movie was "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice," in which he played Elliot Gould's son; others include "Macon County Line," "Walking Tall," and "Strange Homecoming."

Television viewers will find his face familiar from episodes of The Odd Couple, Cannon, Ghost Story, Cades County, Family Affair, and Gunsmoke. The young actor is also in demand for commercials. Three for the Road is Leif's first series.

The one hour series also sets a new precedent for MTM (Mary Tyler Moore) Enterprises, Inc. Out of the six shows they produce, Three for the Road is their first venture into a dramatic series.

Stuart Erwin, Jr, MTM's vice president and executive in charge of production for Three for the Road, feels that despite the company's reputation for producing humor, expanding the company into areas other than comedy, has always been one of Grant Tinker's desires. Tinker is the President of MTM Enterprises, and husband of Ms. Moore.

As executive in charge of specials and dramas for MTM, Erwin is as qualified in his job as the actors themselves. Born to the famous comedian—the late Stu Erwin, and with actress June Collyer for a mother, Stuart Erwin, Jr. was brought up in an acting family, not to mention being married to actress Julie Sommars.

Exposure to the art is not what gives him his expertise, although not an actor himself, Erwin has been mostly involved in dramatic productions in recent years, as a Universal vice president supervising production on such series as The Bold Ones, Marcus Welby and To Catch a Thief.

"We're proud of Three for the Road, because, as the first MTM dramatic series we feel it has the same quality of production and originality of cast and writing as our other three-camera comedy shows."

'IT'S ALL UP FOR SHATNER'

William Shatner loved the role of special agent Jeff Cable, with his chameleon nature of assuming different characterizations in tracking down lawbreakers, in the two-hour movie version of Barbary Coast. The fact that it's now an ABC series (Mondays 10PM) is yet another high point in the continuing upbeat saga of William Shatner. The versatility of Jeff Cable complements his own multi-faceted life style.

Shatner has never been bothered with unemployment problems and his main worries are centered around how to get more time to spend outdoors. "Barbary Coast" not only answers his wish of a series he wants to do, but a good portion of it will be spent in the hills riding a steed, which is one of his favorite pastimes. The most fortunate event in his recent past was his marrying a beautiful girl named Marcy. She not only is a delight to come home to, but she shares Bill's fascination with the wide open spaces and is ready to pack at a moment's notice.

The Shatner's backyard is filled with escape vehicles, including their handsome home on wheels, their matching city motorcycles and their trail bikes. In the garage, skis, kayaks, bows and arrows, scuba diving equipment and other tools of their sports activities wait their turn. Bill has recently added the new dimension of "trial" (not trail) biking to his outdoor passions. "Trial" biking is the exacting business of precision riding with the emphasis on balance performed on extremely low-geared bikes. So the Shatners are equally at home in the bike saddle or the western saddle. This was not always the case for Bill, as he had to learn to ride western style about ten years ago. He initially learned to ride English saddle while a youth in Canada.

To put the capper on the up notes for the Shatners, they have just completed negotiations for their dream home. The rambling beauty, hidden in the hills overlooking the San Fernando Valley, was originally the estate of one of the Los Angeles area's founding fathers. "When we move into our new home," commented Bill in a stroke of understatement, "it will have been a very good year."

'JACK ALBERTSON ON SUCCESS'

"One nice thing about achieving success at this age, is that I have fewer years to become a has-been," said Jack Albertson, who stars on NBC's Chico and the Man (Fridays, 8:30PM), now in its second season. About the late arrival of success in his life, Albertson says, "People sometimes ask me, 'Are you enjoying your success or do you have regrets that it took so long?' And I say, 'Well, I did have regrets for a while but now I have accepted the fact and I am very pleased."

Albertson, a veteran of more than 40 years in the business, had no childhood dreams for his future.

"I don't think I had any definite purpose or goal in life," he said. "Ours was a rather simple life because we were in a small city, Malden, Mass., which had a rather small town flavor. I just went to school and played with the other kids, as I recall, without any great or exciting things happening."

He does not feel that his mother's interest in the theatre had a direct influence on his decision to become a performer.

"I hated the idea of the theatre," says Albertson. "My mother worked in a little stock, she was not in the sense a professional actress, it was a hobby. Because there was no one to leave me with, she would drag me to the theatre to watch her perform. I had to suffer through these dramatic things which had little or no impact on me as entertainment. My reaction to the theatre was not a very good one."

As Albertson grew older, his attitude toward show business began to change. He started out as a dancer in vaudeville and later became straight man to such comics as Milton Berle, Phil Silvers, and Bert Lahr.

He began dancing, during his teens, in pool rooms. Albertson said: "I was pretty good with a pool cue. That's really where I learned to dance. Your feet get a little flat from trudging around the pool table, so I'd shake them every now and then and do a little dance to lighten up the feet. I tried my best to stay away from anything that seemed like work.

"I am pleased with the fact that I have arrived at a plateau in this business which many people struggle for and never obtain. Of course, I am always amazed at my success because I have no idea as I watch myself on the screen what it is people see in me or my work. However, I'm not going to argue with it. If they like it, that's good enough for me."

HAVING A GRAND TIME — Jack Albertson, shown scrubbing in a scene from NBC's Chico and the Man, says stardom which has come to him after 40 years in show business via the co-starring role in the comedy series, have left him "very pleased."

I don't analyze smoking. I enjoy it.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ELIOT JANEWAY, economist

Your predictions for our economic future are rarely optimistic. Is there no sign of improvement, or hope for the future?—A.S. Kravitz, Brooklyn, N.Y.

● I used to be criticized for being too optimistic. Now it's the reverse. We Americans live in a world in which all the other countries are bargaining in their own interests, while we put our own national interest last. I see no signs of improvement while this unrealistic stance continues. But I'm confident we'll see an improvement once we learn to stand up to oil countries, and once we ask Russia what she can do for us in return for our letting her eat at our table. Actually, I'm very hopeful about the future, but not because I expect things to get better by themselves as a bonus for our faithful attendance at the wishing well.

FOR EILEEN FORD

As a career woman, wife and mother, how do you keep so trim and healthy?—Mrs. Jane Keany, South River, N.J.

● The secret is not very complex. (1) Allow enough time to exercise daily, even if it means getting up a half-hour earlier. (2) Diet, as well as daily weighing, must become a way of life. (3) Never become so tired that it shows on your face. (4) Relaxation is important—even if it's just a long soak in the tub (with lots of bubbles) on Saturday afternoons.

FOR RONALD REAGAN, former Governor of Calif.

What qualities do you regard as most important in a Governor?—Gyula Hoffman, Waterbury, Conn.

● A governor, or any other officeholder, should make every decision on the assumption that he will never seek office again. This doesn't mean he definitely won't seek it, but that he must never make a decision on the basis of how it might affect voters in the next election. The proper basis is that it be for the good of the people.

FOR O. J. SIMPSON, star of the Buffalo Bills

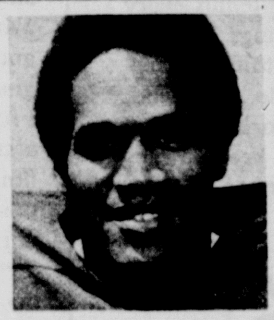
After your 2,003-yard year and your TV exposure, I think you symbolize pro football. How do you feel about it?—J.J. Connolly, Durham, N.C.



● I don't agree. When I travel around the country, people tend to associate me with the "Superstars" show as much as pro football. Joe Namath is still Mr. Pro Football.

FOR BILL HUDSON of The Hudson Brothers

Has any of you ever fallen for another brother's girl?—R.B., Decatur, Ill.

● We have too much respect for each other to do that. If we did, it wouldn't go beyond the "thought" stage. Brett is going out with a super girl right now, but Mark and I would never dream of stealing her away. If the three of us are out, and we see a nice girl, we draw lots to decide who makes the pitch. Sometimes the three of us go together and kid around about which one she wants.

FOR TAYLOR CALDWELL

I was disappointed to hear that your 1972 marriage ended in divorce. Would you ever marry again, even though you are in your 70's?—D.J. Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.

● Yes, I would. This is one woman who needs a husband to be head of the house and manage things and bring order out of chaos—or maybe the reverse, which is more interesting.

FOR PHYLLIS DILLER

How often do you go to the hairdresser?—Penny Bero, Green Bay, Wis.

● Never.

FOR HALE IRWIN, U.S. Open champ in '74

I'm told a National Open championship brings the winner about a million dollars in side benefits. How did you make out?—Jack Miller, Austin, Texas

● It didn't mean any million dollars for me. I got a few endorsements which paid about $10,000, and that's all.

FOR REP. SAMUEL STRATTON (D-N.Y.)

One of the criticisms of your proposal that women be admitted to West Point is that if a woman got pregnant, she could not fulfill her five-year commitment after graduating. How do you answer that?—Joanna Banker, Amherst, N.Y.

● This doesn't happen often among women in the armed forces. Male graduates are sometimes prevented from fulfilling their commitments, too. I think women who are motivated enough to put up with the rigors of a service academy will have enough self-discipline to carry out their commitment.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I saw Alice Faye in "Good News" at New York's Westbury Music Fair and I wonder why she stopped making movies. What's the inside story?—H. Herman, Monsey, N.Y.

Alice Faye

● Without waiting to pack, she walked off a movie set in disgust back in 1945 and has been back only once since then. She made a brief comeback in 1962 in "State Fair," was sorry she did, and kissed movies good-by. She decided to headline as Mrs. Phil Harris instead. None of the offers during her "retirement" appealed to her, until "Good News" came along. ("My children and grandchildren were grown, and I didn't feel I was deserting them," said Alice.) The fact that none of her musicals won an Oscar still rankles: "We were used! When those old movies were sold to TV and made millions, we didn't get a cent—not even an old reel of film for a souvenir."

"How We Keep Fit"

Surprising, Rigorous and Heart-Thumping Ways Famous People Keep in Shape

As told to Charles Merrill Dowden

Recently, FAMILY WEEKLY asked a host of well-known people of various ages—all remarkable for their health and vitality—what they do to keep in shape. The celebrities answered with lists, sermons, lectures, daily schedules—even poetry! Here they are—actors, athletes, musicians, savants—sharing with you their daily exercise regimens.

DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Exercise vs. Tranquilizers

"My exercise is swimming. When I'm home, I do 80 to 100 laps per day in an Olympic-size pool. You know, exercise is the best tranquilizer around. Studies have been made comparing the electrical activity in the muscles before and after exercise and before and after dosage with one of the most frequently prescribed tranquilizers. Electrical activity in the muscles is an objective way to measure a person's nervousness. It was found that after 15 minutes of exercise, the electrical activity in muscles declined by 20 percent and continued declining for an hour. The tranquilizing drug, used on the same person, produced very little difference in electrical activity in the muscles."

KATHARINE HEPBURN

"Don't Get Fat"

"Here's my advice for staying healthy, in list form:

(1) Don't get fat. (2) Sleep enough. (3) Don't put things off. (4) Exercise out of doors, in any weather and every day. (5) Learn to do things that don't cost anything. (6) Tell the truth."

CHARLTON HESTON

"Exercise Should Be Torture"

"An actor's principal tool is his body. Like an athlete, an actor can't give his best unless he's in good physical condition. Even if he's playing a man in a wheelchair, an actor must be in top shape to give his maximum performance. I keep in shape mainly by running—not merely jogging—two miles a day on Mulholland Drive in the Hollywood Hills near my home. I also swim and do stretching exercises, and I play tennis every day I can. But things like tennis are fun, and I think if exercise is going to do any good, it must be hard work. Running is torture for me. I keep on running because I want to keep on working."

MUHAMMAD ALI

A Poem to Physical Fitness

"How do I keep in shape?
you ask,
I'll tell you, man, it's no easy task;
I never drink and I never smoke,
And you can bet I don't gamble on dope.
I run, and sometimes carry a weight,
To help get rid of the extra freight.
If you like to eat, and are lazy too,
Then there's a lot you'll have to undo;
And if you really want to hustle,
You ought to try the Ali shuffle.
But the best exercise, if you are able,
Is to firmly push away from the table."

"My Other 'Conversion'—to Fitness"

BILLY GRAHAM

"Physical fitness, to me, is good housekeeping. This wonderful mechanism called the body is a marvel of muscles, nerves, arteries and tissue—the most amazing piece of engineering in the universe. Like lesser machines, it requires care and maintenance. It is tragic that one of the most affluent societies in the world, the U.S., has one of the poorest records of physical health. Somehow, we have lost respect for the importance of health.

"About 20 years ago I took a look at myself in the mirror and was distressed at what I saw. My stomach had begun to protrude, my color was pale and wan, my posture was beginning to sag. In that moment I had a 'conversion' of sorts, to a sensible program of physical fitness which has prevailed to this day—and it was one of the important decisions of my life.

"Rarely a day goes by that I do not jog up the mountain road where I live, with half of it up a steep grade. Even though I have had a 20-year problem with high blood pressure, I believe this exercise has lengthened my life by several years. In addition to getting strenuous exercise daily, I do bend-overs and push-ups in my room. Also, many times I carry dumbbells for arm and hand exercises, and when possible, I swim half an hour a day.

"Too many people exercise sporadically. This is a mistake. It not only does little good, in my estimation, but it is actually dangerous to engage in violent exercise unless your body is conditioned for it.

"I don't think the kind of exercise is important. I do believe it is important to bring most of the body's muscles into play in the exercise program. Even running in a fixed position (which I do when weather or circumstances prevent me from exercising out-of-doors) is good. I have a friend who runs up and down the stairs forty or fifty times a day. The important thing is to get the old 'ticker' chugging and the blood moving through those arteries to make the body come alive."

CAPTAIN JAMES A. LOVELL

Former astronaut and head of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports — "I Involve My Family"

"It would be nice if I could report that I decided to keep myself fit because of some marvelous insight or noble impulse. But that isn't the way it happened. For more than 25 years, from my days as a midshipman through my career as a Navy pilot and astronaut, 'staying in shape' was part of the job description. If you weren't fit, someone took your place.

"It was only gradually, over a period of years, that I began to associate physical fitness with anything other than being able to fly the ship and survive the mission. If I had anything resembling an inspiration, it occurred during the 14 days I spent aboard Gemini 7, unable to move about, with weightlessness relieving my body of the necessity of supporting itself. The rapid deterioration in my physical condition was a crash course in the essential nature of exercise.

"Like most Americans, I prefer exercise that is enjoyable—sailing, skiing, tennis, golf and other so-called 'leisure' or 'lifetime' sports. Although I was never a great athlete, I am fairly proficient in several of these activities. I had courses in jungle, desert and ocean survival. I have flown almost everything that will fly, from conventional aircraft to Apollo 13 and hang gliders. I have learned to ski, sail and skin-dive, and I have played some of the racquet sports. I practice these sports whenever I can, and I involve my family in them at every opportunity. It's great fun, but I don't kid myself that it is, by itself, a great fitness program.

"Let's face it, three or four times a week you need to get out there and run or swim some laps, knock off some sit-ups and push-ups, and do all those sweaty, unpleasant things that it takes to get your heart and lungs pumping. I probably don't like it any better than you do, but I do it. If you know what's good for you (and I mean that in a friendly way), you'll do it, too."

PAT BOONE

"A Clean Conscience"

"I'm asked all the time, 'How do you manage to stay so young?' I infer from that that they expect me to look old, but I'm flattered, so I give a serious answer. I always say it's three things: lots of milk, lots of exercise and a clean conscience. People can understand the milk, which has to do with a balanced, healthy diet. They can understand the exercise part, too—I jog, play tennis and basketball, work with weights, do physical and competitive things all the time. But the third part—about the 'clean conscience'—puzzles folks. How can anybody today have a clean conscience?

"Ah, but therein lies the secret of real health. I know where to go to get my conscience cleaned. I turn to my religion. Because, you see, to be free of guilt and its accompanying tensions, is to be eternally healthy. That's my 'secret' and I recommend it heartily."

LAWRENCE WELK

"It's Hard to Beat Dancing"

"My farm training made me an early riser from the days of my boyhood. My day starts at about 5:30 A.M., without the help of an alarm clock or a 'wake-up call.' After a shower, I swim a few lengths in our indoor heated pool. Another shower, and by this time breakfast is ready. If it's still too early to go to the office, I may hit a few golf balls into a net rigged up in our backyard.

"Sometimes after a light lunch, I try to get to the Bel Air Country Club for some golf. I oftentimes wish I had discovered golf much earlier. I'm convinced that sports, like music and work habits, are best learned at a very young age.

"As for exercises other than golf and swimming, I have an electric powered Exercycle (a 70th birthday gift from our Musical Family). And, of course, when it comes to healthful, enjoyable exercise, I find it hard to beat dancing. As I'm sure many of you already know, I manage to indulge in this pleasant pastime at every opportunity. I'm convinced that a lifetime of dancing lively polkas and leisurely waltzes has been instrumental in keeping me in what the doctors tell me is remarkable physical condition for my age. And I assure you, physical fitness is extremely important—even for a man whose chief contribution to our show is only an occasional 'wunnerful, wunnerful' or 'a-one and a-two.'"

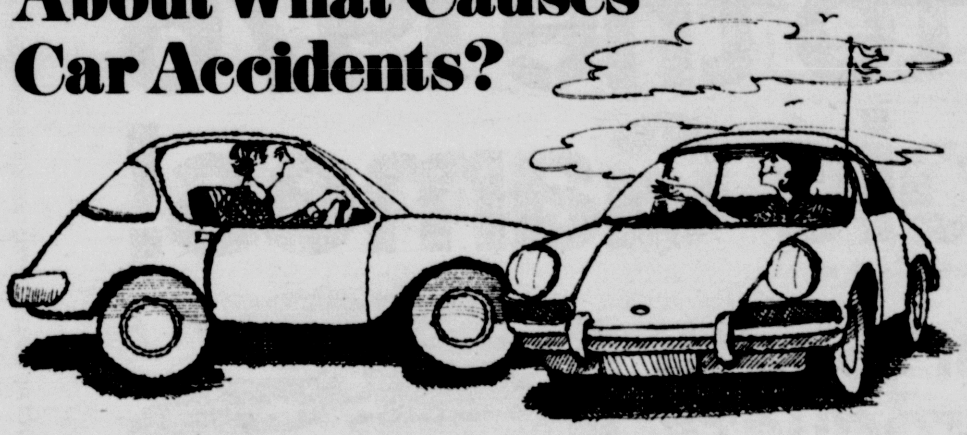
People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

How Much Do You Know About What Causes Car Accidents?



True or False? When a man yields the right of way to a woman driver, it often has nothing to do with chivalry. (See number 5)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. How subject you are to automobile accidents depends largely on how good a driver you are.

2. Auto accidents can hurt you even if you escape without a bruise or scratch.

3. If you have a history of assorted traffic mishaps, there are certain times when you should avoid driving.

4. When you meet another driver at an unmarked intersection, it's easy to tell whether or not he's going to give you the right of way.

5. When a man yields the right of way to a woman driver, it often has nothing to do with chivalry.

6. One of the most deadly types of accidents is the head-on collision on the open road. You can protect yourself from the accident-prone driver coming toward you by simply flicking a switch.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies have demonstrated that, in many cases, drivers with above-average skill in car handling have more crashes and traffic violations than the general population. Auto accident-proneness is, as one leading authority points out, "a personal idiosyncrasy that predisposes certain individuals to a relatively high accident rate." Studies show that people most likely to have such accidents tend to have specific characteristics in common, including unhappy marriages, many changes in occupation, a chip-on-the-shoulder attitude. And they are given to impulsive action, particularly in stress situations. A further characteristic: "Anti-attitudes"—a negative outlook.

2. True. In studies conducted by a team of specialists at the Neurological Clinic, University of Münster (West Germany), case histories are cited of persons who developed serious depressions "following accidents, the majority of which were car accidents." These persons developed at least two of the following symptoms: sleep disturbances, loss of appetite, severe anxiety, withdrawal from social contacts and self-destructive fantasies.

3. True. Dr. Manuel Rodstein, Clinical Professor of Medicine at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, finds that there are certain conditions which increase the likelihood of an accident-prone person having an accident. These conditions include acute boredom, lonesomeness, anxiety, frustration, and mental or emotional conflict.

4. True. If he carefully avoids meeting your eye, he's sending you a message which translates: "I'm taking the right of way—period. And you'd better not try to take it, because you can't tell if I really don't see you or if I'm just pretending." This is borne out by traffic studies conducted at Tufts University.

5. True. A university study of American attitudes toward women drivers suggests that many men are inclined to give women drivers the right of way largely because they think of them as "unpredictable," and feel that failing to yield to them might result in an accident. However, studies conducted by University of London behavior specialists of traffic patterns in both city and rural areas showed that "female drivers yielded to male drivers almost as much as male drivers yielded to them."

6. True. A team of Indiana University investigators conducted a study in which "photographic recordings were made of the position of oncoming automobiles on the open highway in the daytime—with and without headlights displayed on the camera car." Findings: Oncoming cars occupied a safer zone on their side of the road when the camera car had its lights on. Conclusion: Oncoming drivers are more alert when they face approaching headlights in the daytime.

Our famous grown-up version of the classic favorite for children . . . the snuggly fashion that will make any female a beautiful baby all over again!

Take any gal who's ever worn and loved and outgrown the original version of this wonderful body-bundler... let her snuggle into our adult Bundler and behold a cold-weather fashion treat! It's deliciously sexy. Flattering to the figure, yet oh so soft and comfortable. It's wonderfully warm...styled in soft, fuzzy 100% Acrilan® acrylic—yes, the same good fabric as the famous children's model.

The Bundler is made for lounging, for sleeping, for daydreaming...for just plain luxury. There's a full zipper, plus stretch-knit wristlets, plus a rope waistband that will keep a girl cozier than she's been since who-knows-when. (For extra warmth, even the slippers have ankle rope-ties.) Note, too, that the slippers are detachable. With the Bundler around, she'll be warm all over!

What's it all add up to? A gift of beauty, of deep-down comfort and practicality for any lady you know. Order the Bundler today. It's the perfect idea for college dorms, ski-goers, winter vacationers, holiday gifts. Machine washable and dryable, of course.

You asked for it! It's Here!

Now The Bundler™ for Men

Same fine Monsanto Acrilan® acrylic fabric, same wonderful practicality and good looks, same quality workmanship, same exceptional value... but now fashioned in colors and sizes for men. See chart below.

BICENTENNIAL SPECIAL

An 18th Century Feast for Today's Busy Homemaker

Two of our greatest heroes are Christopher Columbus and George Washington. We hope Columbus will forgive us for yielding to the Bicentennial spirit this year by spending Columbus Day visiting George Washington's birthplace.

When most people think of George Washington, they think of his beautiful home at Mount Vernon. But actually Washington was born at a place called Pope's Creek Plantation, a lovely farm on the Potomac River, 38 miles east of Fredericksburg, Va. Today, run by the National Park Service, it is known as George Washington Birthplace and is a real working farm with real crops and livestock.

At the birthplace, an authentic 18th century dinner was prepared for us over open fires in the plantation's kitchen. We enjoyed it so much that we wanted to share it. Here are the recipes we were served—translated into a more modern version for your convenience.

18TH CENTURY DINNER
from George Washington Birthplace

In the formal dining room of the plantation, master and mistress of the house await their guests. Meanwhile (top photo), servants enjoy a simple meal in the plantation's out-kitchen.

OYSTER SOUP

1 qt. small oysters and liquor
1 cup water
1 cup dry white wine
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon thyme leaves
1 small onion, peeled and quartered
1 teaspoon lemon peel
Dash ground cloves
Dash ground nutmeg or mace
4 whole black peppers
½ cup unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ lb. butter or margarine
1 cup heavy cream
2 anchovies, chopped
2 egg yolks
1 loaf Italian bread, sliced and toasted

1. Strain oysters and liquor. Pour oyster liquor into 2-qt. saucepan, reserve oysters.

2. Add water and ½ cup white wine to oyster liquor, along with salt, thyme, onion, lemon peel, cloves, nutmeg and black peppers. Heat to boiling, stir, reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes.

3. Pat oysters well with paper towels. Toss oysters with flour, coating well.

4. Heat butter in large skillet. Add oys-

"Norman Rockwell's 12 Best-Loved Post Covers"

A New Limited Edition of Solid Silver Proof Ingots

Only 10,000 sets in .999 fine silver at $13.75 per ingot.

LIMIT: ONE PROOF SET PER SUBSCRIBER

Deluxe Edition: 24 Kt Gold on Pure Silver
You may, at your option, order these ingots in exquisite 24 Kt Gold on .999 fine silver. The 5,000 sets thus offered will be individually hallmarked and serially numbered. Each ingot will cost $18.75.

For over 40 years, Norman Rockwell chronicled America and Americans in a series of memorable covers for The Saturday Evening Post.

As a permanent tribute to this unique individual, The Hamilton Mint, by exclusive permission from The Saturday Evening Post is extremely proud to present a significant new medallic series—The Norman Rockwell Best-Loved "Post" Covers.

EXQUISITELY CRAFTED FINE ART

With this announcement, you now have the opportunity to obtain this superb collection of 12 solid silver ingots. Each faithfully captures the flavor of the Rockwell original cover painting and each gleaming ingot will contain one ounce (480 grains) of .999 fine silver, the finest and purest available.

The ingots will be issued on a convenient one-a-month basis over a 12 month period. At the end of that time, subscribers will have amassed 5,760 grains of silver, more than the average person accumulates in a lifetime.

A STRICTLY LIMITED FIRST EDITION

This "Post" Cover Collection will be a first edition and quite rare. Only one proof set will be issued to each subscriber. And to further enhance the exclusivity of the offering, this edition is limited to just 10,000 sets. After those subscriptions have been filled, the minting dies will be destroyed to safeguard the integrity of edition.

YOUR PERSONAL SERIAL NUMBER

Each ingot will bear your own personal serial number and The Hamilton Mint Hallmark.

You will also be issued a Certificate of Authenticity, attesting to the limited edition status and precious metal content of your ingots.

INVESTMENT POTENTIAL

This collection is certain to be treasured by knowledgeable collectors for its rarity and beauty, and you may acquire this series in precious metal at a time when prominent advisors are predicting a continued rise in the price of precious metals in the years ahead.

ORIGINAL PRICE GUARANTEE

Under the terms of this offer, the original issue price of $13.75 each is guaranteed for the entire series.

Please remember that there is a strict limit of 10,000 proof sets, so prompt action is essential if you wish to be included.

SPECIAL DISPLAY ALBUM FREE

All subscribers will receive, at no cost, a deluxe album to protect and display the ingots.

ters and fry until golden brown on both sides. Add oysters and butter to oyster liquor mixture.

5. Combine remaining white wine, heavy cream, anchovies and egg yolks. Beat with wire whisk until well-blended.

6. Gradually add wine-cream mixture to hot oyster liquor. Heat until soup comes just to boiling point.

7. Place a toasted Italian bread slice into bottom of each soup bowl. Ladle hot soup over toast.

Makes 1 qt., 6 to 8 servings

POACHED BLUEFISH WITH CAPER SAUCE

3 qts. water
2 cups white wine
¼ cup vinegar
4 whole allspice
3 whole cloves
1 teaspoon salt
1 3-4 lb. bluefish
½ cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons capers
2 anchovies, chopped
Parsley sprigs
Orange slices
Lemon slices

1. In fish poacher or Dutch oven, boil water and add wine, vinegar, allspice, cloves and salt.

2. Lower whole fish into hot liquid and return to boiling. Reduce heat to simmer and cook 6 to 8 minutes per pound.

3. Make caper sauce: Heat butter until melted, stir in 2 tablespoons capers and anchovies.

4. Drain fish, lower carefully onto serving platter. Pour hot sauce over fish. Garnish with remaining 1 tablespoon capers, parsley sprigs, orange and lemon slices. Makes 4 to 6 servings

SMOTHERED HAM

1 (14 lb.) fully cooked ham, bone in
½ cup red currant jelly
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
¼ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
3 cups finely rolled salted cracker crumbs
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

1. Preheat oven to 325°F. Place ham, fat side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake ham about 2 hours, allowing 10 to 15 minutes per pound, or until meat thermometer reaches 130°F.

2. Remove ham from oven and cut off rind. Turn up oven to 425°F.

3. In small saucepan, heat currant jelly, mustard and brown sugar, stirring until smooth. Spread over ham.

4. Combine cracker crumbs and melted butter. Pat evenly onto ham. Return ham to oven and bake about 15 minutes, or until crust is lightly browned.

Makes 12 to 16 servings

A Celebrity Cooks

Dick Van Dyke:

"I'm No Great Chef– But You'll Love My 'Veal Piccata'!"

"My little daughter Carrie Beth spent two weeks in Iowa visiting some friends. She's never been on a farm before. She called us up and said, 'We went out and picked corn and cooked it right away. I never knew corn tasted like that!' "

By Dick Van Dyke
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

I've never been a bachelor. I went from my mother's arms right into marriage. As far as cooking for myself is concerned, it's generally been a disaster! Only on occasion do I cook. And when I do, it's something very, very simple. But I do make a veal piccata that is the best ever. I try to get a friend of mine, who has an Italian restaurant, to order me some good, white Minnesota veal through a purveyor. The secret is to beat the veal paper-thin. I've got one of those rolled hammers that leather workers use. I put oilcloth on both sides of the veal and beat it until the meat is thin and even. Then I marinate it in fresh lemon juice. Cooked quickly in a lot of butter and wine, it makes a wonderful meal with hearts of palm salad.

My wife, Marjorie, also makes a chicken kiev using a special combination of herbs mixed with butter. It takes her all day, but it's so good!

We like to serve good food when friends or family come to visit. That's kind of a Midwestern tradition. [Dick grew up in Danville, Ill.] There's nothing like the vegetables in the Midwest.

My little daughter Carrie Beth spent two weeks in Iowa visiting some friends. She's never been on a farm before. She called us up and said, "We went out and picked corn and cooked it right away. I never knew corn tasted like that!"

VEAL PICCATA

3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter (or 1 tablespoon each of butter and olive oil)
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons water or beef bouillon
3 tablespoons dry white wine
4 to 5 lemon slices
1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley or capers

1. Pound veal until very thin. Place veal scallops in shallow dish. Rub 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice into veal; let veal marinate several minutes.

2. Melt butter in large skillet. Shake off lemon juice from veal. Quickly brown veal on both sides in hot butter.

3. Season lightly with salt and pepper. Add remaining lemon juice, water and wine. Top with lemon slices. Cover, simmer 1 or 2 minutes.

4. Remove to heated serving platter.

Make chicken salad easy as tuna salad with Swanson Boned Chicken.

Open a can of Swanson Boned Chicken instead of tuna. Now taste it. Those tender, delicious chunks of chicken are already cooked and ready to eat. No wonder chicken salad is so quick, easy to make...and so inexpensive. Chunky Chicken Salad. Try it.

Chunky Chicken Salad

1 can (5 ounces) Swanson Boned Chicken or Turkey, cut up
½ cup sliced celery
½ cup chopped cucumber
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
Mayonnaise, Lettuce, Tomato wedges

In bowl, lightly toss chicken, celery, cucumber, and pimiento. Chill. Before serving, toss with enough mayonnaise to moisten well. Arrange on lettuce. Garnish with tomato wedges. Makes about 1½ cups.

Sandwich variation: Prepare salad mixture as directed. For each sandwich cover toasted white bread slice with lettuce, tomato slices, salad mixture and second slice of toast. Salad mixture makes about 1½ cups filling for sandwiches.

STEWED PARSNIPS

2 lbs. parsnips, peeled and sliced
Salt
Boiling water
2 teaspoons butter or margarine
2 teaspoons flour
Dash ground ginger
Dash white pepper
1 cup heavy cream

1. Cook parsnips in boiling salted water about 15 minutes or until tender; drain.
2. In medium saucepan, melt butter, add flour and stir until smooth. Add ginger and white pepper. Stir in heavy cream. Heat, stirring constantly until sauce comes to boiling point.
3. Pour sauce over parsnips, toss lightly and serve. Makes 6 servings

LIMA BEANS AND SWEET CORN

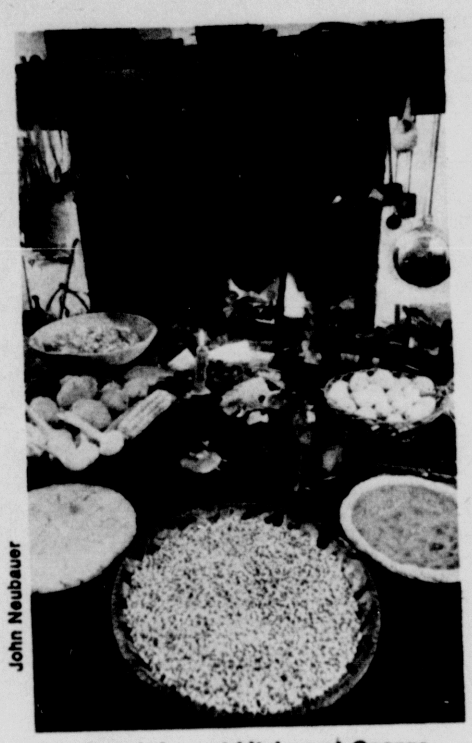
2 pkgs. (10 oz.-size) frozen lima beans
2 pkgs. (10 oz.-size) frozen cut corn
Boiling water
Salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 cup heavy cream
Dash ground black pepper

1. In large saucepan, cook lima beans and corn together in boiling, salted water according to package directions, then drain.
2. Season with butter, cream and pepper. Spoon into heated serving dish. Makes 8 servings

SALLY LUNN BREAD

½ cup warm water (105°F to 115°F)
1 pkg. active dry yeast
1 cup warm milk
½ cup softened margarine
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
3 eggs, well-beaten (at room temperature)
5½ to 6 cups unsifted all-purpose flour

1. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in yeast, stir until dissolved.



John Neubauer

Interior of the out-kitchen at George Washington Birthplace.

2. Add milk, margarine, sugar, salt and eggs. Stir in 3 cups flour. Beat until well-blended, about 1 minute.
3. Stir in enough remaining flour to make a soft dough. Cover and let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.
4. Prepare well-greased, floured 10-inch tube pan or two 9x5x3 inch loaf pans.
5. Stir dough down; put in baking pan. Then cover and let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.
6. Bake large loaf at 400°F about 30 minutes, or until done. Bake small loaves at 375°F about 30 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and cool on wire racks.
Makes 1 large loaf or 2 small loaves

SYLLABUB
(A Whipped Cream and Wine Dessert)

1 qt. heavy cream, chilled
3 cups sherry
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup sugar

1. Chill large mixing bowl and beaters of electric mixer in refrigerator.
2. Pour cream into chilled bowl and whip with chilled beaters until stiff.
3. Slowly beat in 2 cups of sherry and ¼ cup lemon juice. Gradually add sugar.
4. Pour about 1 tablespoon of remaining sherry into small glasses. Spoon on syllabub, piling high in each glass.
Makes about 3 qts., 16 to 20 servings

SUGAR CAKES

1 cup butter (2 sticks = ½ lb.)
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar (½ lb.)
¼ teaspoon ground mace
3 egg yolks
1 egg white
4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour (1 lb.)

1. Preheat oven to 350°F.
2. In large bowl, cut butter into small pieces with pastry blender. Add sugar and mace, work with pastry blender until well-mixed.
3. Add egg yolks and egg white, stir with wooden spoon until well-mixed.
4. Add flour, work with hands until flour is blended and dough is a smooth paste. Divide dough into portions.
5. On lightly floured board, roll out portions of dough, one at a time, to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut with 2-inch cookie cutter. Place on ungreased cookie sheets and bake about 13 minutes until pale gold.
Makes about 7 dozen

Editor's Note: Sugar cakes are fine just plain, but we like to brush them with egg white and sprinkle lightly with sugar just before baking.

GINGERBREAD

2¼ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons ground ginger
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup molasses
¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup milk
1 egg, lightly beaten

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Prepare well-greased, lightly floured 9-inch square cake pan.
2. In a large bowl, mix flour, ginger, salt, baking powder and soda; set aside.
3. In a medium saucepan heat together molasses, sugar and butter just until butter melts. Remove from heat. Stir in milk and egg.
4. Make a well in center of flour mixture and pour in molasses mixture. Mix thoroughly until well-blended.
5. Pour into cake pan. Bake for about 50 minutes, or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean.
6. Cool in pan on wire rack for 10 minutes. Turn out of pan onto rack and cool completely.
Makes one 9-inch cake

Editor's Note: Just great as is, but to make gingerbread fancy, bake cake for 40 minutes; decorate surface with about 16 whole blanched almonds, then return to oven and bake about 10 minutes longer, or until cake tests done.

SWEET POTATO PIE

Unbaked pastry for one 9-inch pie shell
2 cans (1-lb. size) sweet potatoes in syrup, drained
3 eggs, yolks and whites separated
½ cup milk
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 teaspoon ground allspice
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon salt

1. Preheat oven to 400°F. Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry and flute edge.
2. Mash sweet potatoes in an electric blender or with a potato masher.
3. In a large mixing bowl combine potatoes with egg yolks, milk, sugar, melted butter, vanilla, allspice, nutmeg and salt. Mix well.
4. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Fold into sweet potato mixture. Turn into pie shell.
5. Bake for about 40 to 50 minutes. Pie is done when a knife inserted into center comes out clean.
Makes one 9-inch pie

Top with remaining sauce. Garnish with parsley or capers. Serve at once. Great with hot cooked rice.
Makes 2 servings

CHICKEN KIEV

½ cup butter or margarine
½ tablespoon chopped parsley
½ tablespoon chopped chives
1 tablespoon lemon juice
6 chicken breasts, boned
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
2 cups fine dry bread crumbs
3 eggs, lightly beaten
3 tablespoons water
Oil for deep-frying

1. Blend butter, parsley, chives and lemon juice in small bowl. Refrigerate.
2. Meanwhile, place chicken breasts between 2 pieces of wax paper; pound well to flatten. Remove paper; sprinkle with salt and pepper.
3. Divide seasoned butter into 6 portions. Place portion of butter in center of each breast. Fold short ends of breasts into center; then fold in sides. Secure with wooden toothpicks.
4. Add water to eggs and mix.
5. Coat each rolled breast with bread crumbs. Dip into egg and water mixture, then in bread crumbs, coating well. Chill one hour.
6. Heat oil in deep fat fryer to 365°F. Carefully lower breasts into hot oil. Fry 8 minutes, or until golden brown. Drain on paper towels, and serve.
Makes 6 servings

HEARTS OF PALM SALAD

1 can (1 lb.) hearts of palm, chilled and drained
Crisp romaine lettuce leaves
6 pimiento stuffed green olives, sliced
2 teaspoons green peppercorns in vinegar, optional
2 tablespoons chopped salted nuts
Paprika
Bottled low-calorie Italian dressing

1. Cut hearts of palm into lengthwise strips. Place on crisp lettuce leaves.
2. Garnish with olive slices, green peppercorns, a sprinkle of salted nuts and paprika. Serve with Italian dressing. Makes 2 servings

At 16, I was so fat, I had to wear maternity clothes.

By Cheryl Bruhn – as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

My poor mother! She tried just about everything to get me to lose weight. Talks with our family doctor, reducing pills, the Stillman diet, the Atkins regime, sessions at Weight Watchers, promises of beautiful clothes—even insults about my fat. But all her efforts ended in my eating more. So by the time I was 16 years old, I weighed 210 pounds.

Actually I started building up my layers of fat at the age of 12. I put enough cookies, candy and ice cream on my hips, stomach and thighs to make me waddle like a duck. My twin-brother, Joe, was so ashamed of the way I looked, he wouldn't even walk with me. And as for gym class, it threw me into a panic every week. We wore shorts and I hated the thought of everybody staring at me.

Then came the time of my eighth grade graduation. I had such a terrible time finding a dress that Mom and I had to go to every store in Phoenix, Arizona (near my home in Scottsdale). But not even a girdle could get me into anything, except old-lady styles. That's when a friend of my mother's suggested a maternity shop. I was so heartbroken, I cried. But that's where I found my dress.

With all that grief I still didn't learn to control my appetite. And freshman year in high school, I became totally introverted. It wasn't until sophomore year that I realized nobody could change my life but me. And to do that I had to lose weight.

Fortunately, right after one of those thoughtful moments, I saw a woman on television talking about Ayds® Reducing Plan Candy. Since Ayds contained no drugs, I went to the drugstore and bought some of the chewy vanilla caramel kind. I didn't tell Mom what I'd done, because I didn't want to disappoint her again.

Well, I took Ayds as directed and they really helped me cut down on what I ate. By the third week on the Ayds plan, I'd lost nearly eight pounds. That's when I told my mother. I don't know who was more excited—she or I!

By the middle of the summer, I'd lost 50 pounds on the Ayds plan. A neighbor, who'd watched me lose, said to my mother: "She's a new girl! As soon as the weight came off, her mouth opened up." And she was right. I was no longer an introvert.

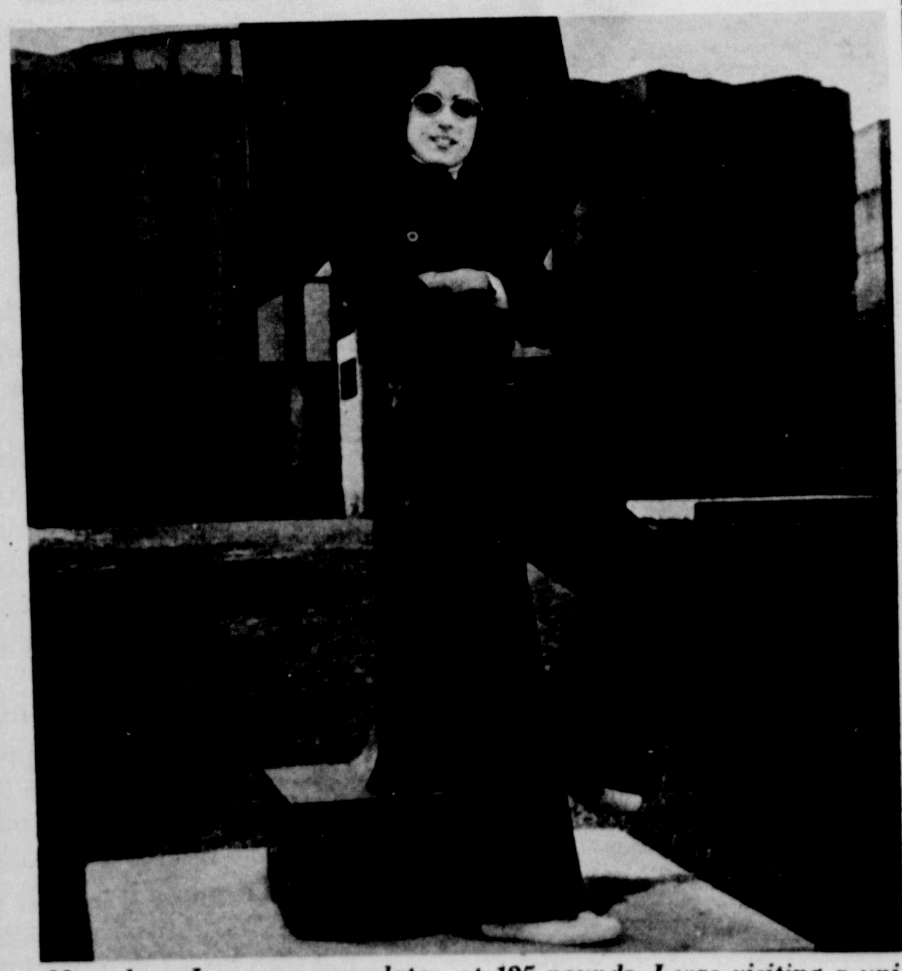
When I went back to school in the fall, I was even slimmer. If I do say so myself, I created quite a sensation that first day. My science teacher didn't even recognize me. But my brother's friends sure noticed me. Of course, now that I'm 125 pounds, Joe is proud to be seen with me—particularly since I have a whole new junior-size wardrobe.

Now there's just one thing I want to say for the benefit of any young people with a weight problem. You have to stop finding excuses for not losing weight. When you do, as I did at 16, there's no better or more pleasant way to take off pounds than on the Ayds plan.

BEFORE AND AFTER MEASUREMENTS

	Before	After
Height	5'3½"	5'3½"
Weight	210 lbs.	125 lbs.
Bust	41"	34½"
Waist	39"	25"
Hips	44"	36"
Dress (Maternity)	18	9-11

Here I am at 16 years and 210 pounds—wearing a maternity blouse. It was the only thing that fit!



Now, here I am one year later, at 125 pounds. I was visiting a university, and thanks to my being slim, lots of guys gave me the eye.

Star Chat

He's bald, barrel-chested, small hipped, a bit jowly, with a nose that starts in the middle of his frown and extends downward like an awning over his full upper lip. His whole head—dominated by piercing dark eyes beneath craggy eyebrows—settles into the curve of his thick shoulders almost without the hesitation of a neck. Until I met with him recently face to face, I had not quite understood the terrific magnetism Aristotle (Telly) Savalas can exert on people. Now, here I was, confronted by Kojak himself, and I was learning fast . . .

FAMILY WEEKLY: How did the name "Telly" come about?
TELLY: It was impossible for the other children to say Aristotle. I am not sure they even wanted to. They had such fun calling me other things. To give you an idea of how they reacted, they labeled me "Kelly the Greek."
FW: Do you come from a large family?
TELLY: I had four brothers and one sister.
FW: Were any of them so nobly named?
TELLY: I have a brother Constantine Socrates, who is head of the Information Service with the U.S. Embassy in Greece, and a brother named Theodore Praxiteles, who is a teacher at Athens University. And, of course, George (he was christened Demosthenes) plays my sidekick, Stavros, on the show.
FW: He has quite a head of hair . . .
TELLY: And I don't, eh? If I'd let mine grow, I'd look just like that. Now you know why I shave it off.
FW: What made you decide to denude your head?
TELLY: Director George Stevens wanted me to play Pontius Pilate in "The Greatest Story Ever Told." He suggested it might make the character more interesting if I shaved my head, and asked what did I think. I shaved my head.
FW: But why didn't you let it grow back?
TELLY: I enjoy my head. It's lovely. I wear it with great aplomb. Besides, I've been so busy since, I haven't had time to let my hair grow out.

FW: Since you are obviously not the Tyrone Power-Robert Taylor type of leading man, has it surprised you that you have come to be a sex symbol to millions of viewers?

TELLY: Surprised? In what way? I've always been that. And I express this not to my fault or to my credit. I was born with a romantic nature and I'll carry it to my grave.

FW: You sound as if you feel it is an inherited quality . . .

TELLY: My father was a romantic as well. He was an extraordinary man.

FW: What did he do?

TELLY: He was a salesman. He sold all sorts of things. Mainly he sold enthusiasm.

FW: And your mother?

TELLY: She is Christina Savalas, a noted artist. She is using a brush now. Before, when we were growing up, it was humanity. She's a compulsive person. Artists tend to be compulsive. She's beautiful. Was Miss Greece at the 1938 World's Fair. She's also a wild chick. A great lady.

FW: Were your parents from Greece?

TELLY: They were born in Greece, yes. And they spoke Greek to us. My father used to say, "My children, I want you to learn many languages so that you can communicate with lots of people. But when you speak to the gods, speak Greek."

FW: How many languages can you speak?

TELLY: Four or five. I get along in many, but mainly by using physical expressions.

FW: Where were you born?

TELLY: In New York. We had a very lively, stimulating household filled with children, countless uncles and my grandparents. My grandmother lived to be 107. My grandfather lived to be over 90. He got married when he was 53. Twenty-four children later, my father was born, and there were three more after him. And only two sets of twins. My grandfather thought that no man should marry before he was 50. I feel the same way. And I am not yet 50 [he's reportedly 491, so

The Truth About Arthritic-Like Pain, Nagging Backache, Everyday Tension... and how Niagara can help bring you Blessed Relief

Doctors know that no cure for arthritis has yet been discovered. However, a method has been developed to help ease minor arthritic-like pain, whenever it occurs. Indeed, this same clinically-tested method also helps increase circulation where applied, soothes nagging backache, even eases simple everyday tension to help bring restful sleep through relaxation.

You'll discover a new joy in living

Imagine firm, but gentle, "fingers" massaging you where it hurts . . . in three separate directions: now up and down, then sideways, then in a circular motion. Couple this with controlled warmth penetrating your muscles and joints—and those minor arthritic-like pains and backache seem to melt away, circulation is increased locally, everyday tension is eased from your body in just minutes. You have to feel it to believe it!

Ask your doctor—Proven effective in clinical tests

Fifteen years and over a million dollars in research prove that, used as directed, Niagara's unique combination of welcome warmth and 3-way massage help give temporary, repeatable relief from minor aches and pains, tension and fatigue. Your life may become active and full again. Peace of mind returns with a remarkable feeling of well-being. You sleep restfully, through relaxation. Almost instantly you discover a new joy in living.

all of my children to date are rehearsals. [Telly's recent divorce from his wife Marilyn ended twelve years of marriage. Supposedly, Lyn, as Telly calls her, will get $5,000 a month in alimony and $500 a month support for each of his two youngest daughters. Telly is now going with attractive Sally Adams.]

FW: How many children do you have?

TELLY: I have three daughters: Christina, who is 23 and is attending Holyoke College, Penelope, 12, and Candace, who is 11.

FW: Greek families have the reputation of being very close. Is yours?

TELLY: My mother and father always stressed that as long as they were alive, no matter how old I was, I was still a child. And then they said, "When we are gone, you become the older generation. All we ask of you is that you keep your family together. Everything else—all the money and fame in the world—is meaningless if the family falls apart."

FW: "Kojak" has become so popular, you must be doing very well financially at this point. Are you pleased with its success?

TELLY: It has its negative sides, I'm part gypsy. I love to travel. The producers know that I'm the reluctant "dragon" coming into work. They knew that from the beginning when they tried to talk me into the series. I've made well over 30 movies in 11 countries since 1961. The incentives had to be very great to corner me on television. And they were! But I can't say I'm completely successful, because I don't like being in one place. I want to be in one place only about six months out of the year. However, I think I've adjusted.

FW: You didn't originally intend to be an actor, did you?

TELLY: Not at all. I am what you call a "late-bloomer." I was 35 before I found my way into this creativity. For the majority of those first years, I intended to be a psychiatrist—as opposed to a psychologist.

FW: Why didn't you become one?

TELLY: I became totally disillusioned. I went into it virgin-like, with all the dedication of youth. And I found it had a synthetic quality. It was intellectual speculation. The biggest crook of all time was a guy named Sigmund Freud who took a few intellectual expectations and tried to make a science out of an art form that's used by unemployed actors to titillate themselves.

FW: Did you ever go to a psychiatrist?

TELLY: I grew up with one. My uncle was the leading psychiatrist of the world.

FW: Did your study of psychology help you as an actor?

TELLY: Absolutely not. I enjoy acting, but I want to put back into this business the quality of razzle-dazzle, glamour and make-believe that it once had.

FW: How do you hope to do this?

TELLY: By taking the artistic, creative decision-making out of the hands of the powers-that-be in that big black tower! [He motioned toward the black glass high-rise that houses the VIPs of Universal Studios.] I've written a script which I will co-produce with Universal. When I gave it to them, I told them they should consider it just on the value of the script alone, not on my being the one giving it to them or on my being connected with it in any way. I am doing them a favor to bring them the screenplay. They are not doing me a favor if they use it. And I am not interested at all unless I have total and complete artistic control.

FW: Do you think they'll agree to that?

TELLY: They already have!

Does Your Antacid Upset Your Low-Salt Diet?

The leading antacid roll tablet may be giving you more than half your daily sodium allowance. Here's what to do!

If you're worried about salt in your diet—a case of heartburn or acid indigestion can present a real problem.

You should know that just five tablets of the leading roll antacid taken during the day would exceed more than half the allowance of sodium many doctors recommend for strict low-salt diets.

That's playing it pretty close. And that's why you ought to know about a tablet that absorbs more excess acid than the leading roll brand—yet contains far less sodium. Its name is Bisodol® Tablets. (Bisodol Powder does contain sodium bicarbonate for people not concerned with low-salt diets.)

Bisodol Tablets quickly relieve that miserable heartburn and acid indigestion, and it's good to know you can take them whenever you need them—without worrying about sodium.

Remember, Bisodol Tablets... are low in sodium—high in antacid power.

"TARZAN" AND BURROUGHS
In 1938, Glenn Morris played the "ape-man's" role

In this time of Bicentennial celebrations, don't overlook the centennial of the birth of one of America's best-loved authors, Edgar Rice Burroughs. Burroughs created Tarzan, the hero who grunted his way into legend through more than 40 movies (gross receipts: more than $600 million to date). All 16 men who portrayed the old tree-swinger on screen made fortunes. "Not bad for a man who had failed at every enterprise he ever attempted," said Danton Burroughs, grandson and vice-president of the million-dollar Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc., logically located in Tarzana, Calif. The company handles sales of the Tarzan comic strip, books, movies and memorabilia that remain perennial pop-culture favorites. Burroughs had been a failure as a gold miner, stationery store owner, and inventor of a dubious snake oil cure for alcoholism. He was broke and frustrated at 35 when he wrote "Tarzan of the Apes" in 1911 on the backs of letterheads of his unsuccessful businesses. He wrote 25 sequels, printed in 31 languages. Two million copies of these adventures are sold every year.

Most happy fella. Said singer Jim Stafford to FAMILY WEEKLY: "I think I'm one of the few happy-go-lucky, optimistic people in show business. I have fun writing lyrics because I invent plots and characters and tell a story. But strangely enough, people have this conception that all show-business people are unhappy. I might be if I were an actor, because what do they do between movies but make themselves unhappy? I've led a luxurious existence. I love the travel and the transiency—which I suppose makes me an oddity since so many of us are concerned about having 'roots.' " Stafford, who years ago made a vain attempt at "making it" in Nashville, said of the new movie "Nashville": "It's not a realistic depiction of life there any more than 'West Side Story' was a total vision of New York City."

LUCI JOHNSON NUGENT
Had to be "pushy"

"White House children may be the stars of their own little show," says Traphes Bryant, former dogkeeper for four Presidents, "but deep down most of those I have known have suffered loneliness. There's never a boy or girl next door who can just wander over to the White House and get acquainted. As Luci Johnson once told me, 'You have to be pushy to have any friends at the White House. No one will call you anymore. You have to call them.' Jackie Kennedy tried to lick the problem of finding playmates for Caroline by running a nursery school at the White House. Presidential parents tend to feel guilty and try to make it up to their children by pampering and indulging them. Even as far back as Lincoln, Presidents realized there was a barrier between their own children and other children and tried to solve it with pets." From "Dog Days at the White House," by Bryant and Frances Spatz Leighton (Macmillan, $9.95).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

HEATED ARGUMENT

Our thermostat upon the wall
Quite frankly doesn't help at all.
Turned up by me, down by my wife,
It's less a help than cause of strife.
What's cool to one, to one is hot.
I say, "It's cold." She says, "It's not."

It's not the thermostat we peer at
Upon the wall and jibe and jeer at.
The trouble's this, though little known:
Each has, inside, one of one's own.

"I insured my voice for $250,000," announced the noted diva.

"Oh," a rival prima donna responded, "and what did you do with the money?" Clotilde Larson

A notice was sent to Al Brown telling him his magazine subscription had expired.

A note came back to the magazine: "So has Al." —Gene Yasenak

After finishing her shopping, a woman stepped into an elevator and was met with a surly, "What floor?" from the operator.

"Seven," she replied, "if it isn't out of your way." —Tom Gallagher

Supervision: Extremely good eyesight. —Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

Speaker to audience: "I've practiced this speech all week and I feel pretty good about it. So, if you could just manage to look a little more like a bathroom mirror, we'll begin."

Three-year-old Michael kept asking why he couldn't visit in big brother Jackie's classroom. No answer satisfied him. Finally, I told him it was against the school's rules, and we couldn't break their rules. Not knowing what rules were, he said thoughtfully, "I wasn't going to break them, I just wanted to play with them a little."
